Today

Ben Franklin's Day.
2,000,000 Prayers.
Earth's Ozone Blanket.
A Busy Birthday.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HERE is good advice for youth or old age:

"Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of."

And for a nation in which ninety old men out of a hundred die worth less than $100, this is valuable:

"A man may, if he knows not how to save as he gets, keep his nose to the grindstone."

THOSE wise things were said by Benjamin Franklin, born 224 years ago today.

There is material for a thousand good sermons in Franklin's common-sense talks. Perhaps some will be preached next Sunday.

IT MAY comfort Protestants, Hebrews, Mohammedans, Confucians, and Buddhists to know that next Saturday 2,000,000 good Catholics will pray for their conversion to the Catholic faith.

FOLLOWING the recent important statement by the Pope to the effect that Protestants are turning toward the Catholic church, Cardinal Hayes, of the New York diocese, has instructed congregations in 444 churches under his control, to begin next Saturday an eight-day period of prayer, fasting and penance for the return of Anglicans and other Protestants, originally a part of the Catholic church, into the Catholic fold, and that all others of whatever race or religion may embrace Catholicism.

INCREASE in the number of converts to Catholicism will enable observers to form valuable estimates of the immediate effect of prayer on a great scale.

The widespread effort at conversion should offend nobody. Conversion will not occur unless it is God's will that it should occur. And no one can object to that.

SCIENTISTS of Smithsonian Institution hope to learn about magnetic disturbances and weather phenomena generally, by studying the earth's "ozone blanket."

By measuring the thickness and contents of the earth's ozone blanket, it may be possible to tell what is happening on the sun, 93,000,000 miles away.

IT MIGHT be possible also later to bring down some of that ozone, with its wonderful qualities for the improvement of the lungs and blood.

GOING up 30 miles from the earth's surface seems a great achievement.

But a microbe living on the face of an ordinary apple would do as much, if he rose from the surface of his apple as much as one one-hundredth part of an inch.

PROHIBITION had an extremely busy tenth birthday. Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the Twenty-sixth (Yankee) Division in the war, tells Boston, in Faneuil Hall, that prohibition is fomenting a new war.

MR. WADSWORTH, recently senator from New York state, defeated for re-election by the drys, tells dry Republicans he will not take that sort of treatment lying down or sitting down either.

The next New York election will see a wet Republican ticket, which is expected to keep the dry Republicans from carrying the state.

THE Tulsa Tribune, about to celebrate its tenth anniversary under the owner-editorship of Richard Lloyd Jones, emphasizes the growth of Tulsa and Oklahoma by opening the largest newspaper plant in the state.

OTHER cities are interested in the fact that the Tulsa airport not only puts Tulsa on the "air map," but also pays all expenses and brings in an excellent profit.

This should encourage the building of more airports. What Tulsa can do, other cities can do.

The real ocean is the air, and no enterprising city can afford to remain inaccessible to the ships of the air.

PITY the poor parrot, now in the limelight because of his disease, psittacosis, which when human beings contract it, usually kills them.

The number of deaths is small, compared with other death causes. But "psittacosis" is a long name and to be killed by germs from your own parrot is humiliating.

Many husbands, seeing their opportunity, have turned pet parrots over to the authorities to be disposed of, mercifully, sacrificing many that never had psittacosis.

Sad for parrots, but not great loss. After all, a parrot cannot say anything that you cannot say yourself better, and its shrieking annoys neighbors.

U.S. CHARGED WITH LIQUOR POISONING

Doctor Congressman Takes Floor, Backs Claim With Test Tube Demonstration

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—A physician took the floor of the House today and charged that thousands of Americans were being poisoned as a result of the government's practice of treating industrial alcohol.

The speaker was Representative William I. Sirovich (Dem.), of New York, a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, and he demanded that the practice be stopped. He said alcohol could be made unfit for beverage purposes without resort to poisons.

"POISON" DIVERTED

Sirovich's speech featured the day's congressional debate, which launched the second decade of national prohibition. He filled a table, placed before the speaker's rostrum, with test tubes of medicines and acids which he used in illustrating his address. A chart also hung conspicuously to emphasize his arguments.

"Bootleggers, thieves and gangsters" are diverting countless gallons of this poison alcohol from giant industrial plants from under the very noses of federal agents, Sirovich asserted.

He then introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee of seven to go to New York and investigate the office of the federal prohibition administrator there to determine why prohibition was not being enforced in the metropolis.

LIBERAL "SECESSION"

While the doctor-legislator was haranguing the House, Representative Melvin J Maas (Rep.), of Minnesota, was proposing a "liberal" secession, whereby the unofficial House committee against prohibition would hold its own hearings and report its own bills.

Maas declared that "dry" congressional committees would not give the anti-prohibitionists a fair hearing. He intended to lay his proposal before the meeting of the liberal bloc, scheduled for Monday, at which a definite program will be mapped out.

CRASH DISRUPTS CAPITAL PHONES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Telephone service to all government departments was temporarily disrupted shortly before noon today and about 40 telephone girls were frightened and slightly bruised when the huge radio tower atop the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company building crashed through the roof.

The tower, used by the defunct WCAP station, was being removed when it got beyond the control of workmen and toppled. The impact cut a wide hole in the roof and showered the operators working on the top floor with plaster. They were treated at the building's dispensary.

The girls operated national and district exchanges which serve the government buildings and President Hoover's private wires in his State Department building office.

CANAL SURVEY SLATED BY U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Chairman Dempsey, of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, announced today that authorization for a channel survey of the Beaver, the Shenango and the Mahoning rivers in Pennsylvania and Ohio would be included in the $100,000,000 omnibus bill on which the committee is holding hearings.

The survey of these rivers was proposed by Representative Swick (Rep.), Pennsylvania, with the intent of "securing channels of such dimensions as will meet the demand of present and prospective commerce."

Action in Congress on the bill for the preliminary survey of the Beaver, Shenango and Mahoning rivers is believed by Pittsburgh transportation interests to give assurance of the successful launching of the "dead-end" canal project between the Ohio River and the Yougstown basin.

No answer has been received by the Lake Erie and Ohio Canal Board to the proposition made to Youngstown promoters for their co-operation in the major plan for a canal from the Ohio River through Youngstown to the Great Lakes.

American to Die In London Murder

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—James Achew, 56, alias James Starr, who says he is an American citizen, was found guilty of murder and sentenced to death at Old Bailey today.

Achew had been charged with the murder of Sybil Sarah Da Costa, 36, in a boarding house in Bayswater.

Morals Court Is Flop As Matrimonial Bureau

As a matrimonial bureau, Morals Court proved a flop today. A young man who had shot the girl he was in love with asked her to marry him. Her answer was, "I don't want anything to do with you."

The young man was Richard O'Neil, 29, of West Thirteenth street, Homestead. On December 14 he met her at Shady avenue and Fair Oaks street and fired a revolver. The bullet was deflected by some electric wire she was carrying and caused a flesh wound in the left arm.

The girl, Elizabeth Bohacik, 18, of 1406 West street, Homestead, suggested that O'Neil was enraged because she had told him she didn't want to see him.

O'Neil's attorney tried to patch things up in court, and told Magistrate Thomas D. Jones that O'Neil wanted to marry Elizabeth. The magistrate held O'Neil for court on a charge of felonious assault and battery with intent to kill.

TAXI STRIKE PAY ISSUE SETTLED

The 1,400 striking cab drivers and their employers have agreed on a new wage scale, according to announcement today by Walter S. Laird, president of the Yellow Cab Company.

This agreement elimniates one of the major points at issue and brings the strike closer to an end, although one important issue—the union—remains.

Mr. Laird's announcement was contained in a statement by him. He said that the strikers' representatives were "apparently satisfied" with 37½ per cent of fare receipts.

CONCESSION ON 2 SIDES

This figure appears to represent a concession on both sides. The drivers had announced they wanted 40 per cent. The employers had offered 37½ per cent to those drivers who worked six days each week and a lesser percentage to drivers who worked fewer days.

With this apparent agreement on wages, the drivers and their employers remain apart on the union issue. The employers would not accede to recognition of the union, "but," adds Mr. Laird, "made it perfectly clear that they did not discriminate against any man because he did belong to a union."

18 PERMITS HELD UP

There were no cabs on the streets today. Mr. Laird promised that the cabs would be put in operation with new drivers just as soon as Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh grants them permits thus far refused.

Today, 18 imported applicants, all from Philadelphia and vicinity, asked Walsh for permits, but the superintendent said that at least one week would be consumed investigating the men.

FRIGID WAVE HERE TO STAY

Pittsburgh can expect no break in the cold wave which swept the country yesterday, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said today. Snow is predicted tonight, with the temperature hovering between 12 and 15 degrees.

The same condition extends over the entire country, Brotzman said, with even Texas and the Southwest reporting freezing weather. In Wyoming and the Dakotas new low records were established with temperatures of from 32 to 38 prevailing.

Though the temperature may rise a little today, Brotzman declared, it will drop again tonight, and no decided change in weather can be expected for several days.

AUTO OFFICIAL SEES BIG YEAR

Pittsburgh will share in the prosperity that is evident in the automobile industry for 1930, H. J. Klingler, vice president in charge of sales of the Chevrolet Motor Company, declared here today in emphasizing that the so-called present general business slump is needless.

SURPASS OTHER YEARS

Reflecting the sincerest optimism, Mr. Klingler arrived here early today from Washington where he discussed business conditions with President Herbert Hoover. The Chevrolet executive directed a sales presentation for 800 tri-state dealers and bankers in Syria Mosque this afternoon.

The meeting, which is being followed by a banquet tonight in the

Janet Beecher Must Surrender Her Child

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Supreme Court Justice Thomas Churchill last night signed an order directing Janet Beecher, actress, to return her 8-year-old son within 24 hours to her husband, Dr. Richard Hoffman, from whom she is legally separated.

Under terms of their separation agreement, made two years ago, the child, Richard, was to be in his mother's custody for two weeks at each Christmas season and for two and a half month's each summer, while his father was to have charge of him for the rest of the year.

'Old Soak's' Glib Tongue Brings Exile to Cellar

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—"The Old Soak," Secretary Stimson's parrot, has gone into retirement and disgrace, but not because he has psittacosis, or "parrot's fever." The explanation for his misfortune is simple. He talked too much.

"The Old Soak" was moved to the pleasant patio of the Pan-American Building when Mr. Stimson departed for the London conference. Already a linguist of parts, speaking Chinese and Spanish, the widely known parrot picked up English rapidly and began to yell affably to visitors: "Good morning! Good morning!" For a few days he was a special attraction, but he gradually fell from public favor.

Instead of talking less, he talked more and it is rumored that he began to use liberally profanity he picked up during his days in the Philippines. Guides complained that "the Old Soak's" ranting drowned out their voices as they ushered tourists through the building.

"The "Old Soak" was moved today to the basement.

DEFIANT PRISONERS KISS, STUBBORNLY DENY IDENTITY

By AL GOUGH

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent,

(Mr. Gough, who reached Phoenix today after an airplane trip across the country through blinding snowstorms, is the first Pittsburgh staff representative to interview Irene Schroeder. This is the first of a series of dispatches by the reporter, who obtained the first—and exclusive—story of the killing of Corp. Brady Paul.)

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 17.—Irene Schroeder, fugitive "blonde", still defiant, still "hard-boiled"—melted under the caress of her sweetheart, W. Glenn Dague, for a few minutes in the Maricopa County jail here today.

It was the first time the pair had met since being placed in jail here.

"Stick with me, honey," she whispered as she offered her rouged lips to Dague.

Dague's stubbled jaw set determinedly as he was led by Sheriff Charles H. Wright into the presence of newspaper men.

"Don't worry, I love you," was his fervent reply to his companion as he crushed her to him. They held that embrace for a long minute.

Then, breaking at last, they turned to face the sheriff. "How do you feel this morning?" inquired that official. "All right," came her answer, with a toss of her blonde head.

"Did talking to Donnie (her 5-year-old son, now in the custody of Pennsylvania police) make you feel better?"

DOESN'T KNOW DONNIE

"Who's that — I don't know any Donnie," she flung back stubbornly.

"Aren't you his mother? Aren't you Irene Schroeder?" the Sun-Telegraph reporter asked.

"No," she spat the reply viciously, it seemed.

"Who are you?"

"I'm Mildred Winthrop."

This in the face of positive identification by Mr. and Mrs. Caywood, former residents of Wheeling, W. Va., who told authorities here they knew Irene and had lived as neighbors to her family several years ago. Sheriff Wright tried reasoning with the woman.

"Now, Irene, regardless of what you might be charged with—regardless of what your defense to those charges might be—can't you see how futile it is for you to insist that your name is Winthrop?" he urged.

DAGUE SILENT

"I don't care what you say to me, my name is Winthrop," she concluded stubbornly.

Dague, appealed to, likewise also insisted his name was Winthrop. "Albert Winthrop," he said. To further questions he had but one reply: "We're not talking—to anybody."

As he was being led back to his

DEMAND FOR IRENE SIGNED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—Gov. John S. Fisher today signed requisition papers for the return of Irene Schroeder, W. Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford, held in jail at Phoenix, Ariz., who are wanted for the slaying of Brady Paul, State Highway patrolman, near New Castle December 27.

Crawford's identity is in doubt, Lawrence County officers explained, but his name was included, so that he may be brought back if he proves to be the brother of Irene, masquerading under the name of Joe Wells, alias Vernon Ackerman.

GOES TO ARIZONA TONIGHT

The papers were given to H Martin Lee, Lawrence County detective, who at once began the trip back to New Castle, with the expectation of departing for Phoenix tonight.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Jan. 17.—A Benwood (W. Va.) resident will go to Phoenix, Ariz., with Lawrence County officers and State Highway Patrolman Ernest Moore to aid in identification of Irene Schroeder, W. Glenn Dague and Tom Crawford, named in the requisition papers signed today by Governor Fisher.

The party is expected to leave New Castle tonight.

RADIO TRUST 'TERRORIZING' BUSINESS, SENATE INFORMED

GRIGSBY HITS ROYALTY FEES

Combine Seeking to Control Business Under License System, He Declares

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—B. J. Grigsby, president of the Grigsby-Grunow Company, of Chicago, testified before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today that the patent situation in the radio industry was becoming intolerable and that a combine was seeking to dominate the industry and create a monopoly.

Telling the committee as it continued hearings on the Couzens communications bill that his company, which produces Majestic sets, was licensed under patents of the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric Company, the Westinghouse Company and the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Grigsby said:

ROYALTIES

"In the year and a half in which we have made radio sets, we have paid that monopoly $5,302,879.15 in royalties." He added that had his company not been compelled to all this royalty to the manufacturing cost, the retail purchasers of its sets would have been saved millions of dollars.

"We did not pay this royalty because we considered these patents worth such a royalty," he continued. "We did not believe we need these patents, and none of them had been adjudicated. But the radio combine had so terrorized the industry and had so intimidated the dealers and jobbers everywhere, that they were afraid to handle what they called 'unlicensed' sets.

"Our bankers said they would not finance us unless we took out a license. They said they would not finance a patent fight against such a monopoly and there was nothing left for us to do but to sign the license agreement. The merits of the patents were never examined by the bankers. The merits of the patents had nothing to do with the case."

CHANGED POLICY

Grigsby also told the committee that his company had paid royalties of 7½ per cent on gross receipts, which included radio apparatus, the cabinets and packing cases, but that the royalties on cabinets had been discontinued by the Radio Corporation.

"Even with this deduction," he continued, "no industry can long pay 7½ per cent royalty to its competitor.

"When the Radio Corporation fixed its royalty rate at 7½ per cent, it did so on the pretense that it had a complete monopoly of the radio patents situation and that its patents covered every part of the receiving set. That is not true. We are now paying royalties to three other patent owners, and have been sued by five additional companies, claiming infringement of seven patents. In no case has the Radio Corporation protected us against patents or helped us in the suits which have been filed against us."

Senator Brookhart (Rep.), of Iowa, inquired whether he had called the attention of the Department of Justice to the situation, and Grigsby replied that he had.

Radio Time Limiting Up to Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Argument over the right of the Federal Radio Commission to regulate broadcasting time, raised in a case brought by the General Electric Company's station WGY at Schenectady, was made the order of business for late today in the Supreme Court.

The question which the commission has asked the highest court to decide is whether radio stations have a constitutional property right to broadcast without restriction as to time which the federal government cannot abridge without just compensation.

DAVIS HERE TOMORROW

Miss Emmilline Pitt, mediator of the United States Department of Labor, was optimistic today. She complimented both sides on their behavior and predicted an early end to the strike. Miss Pitt has reports of the strike ready for Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who will come to Pittsburgh tomorrow, primarily on other business. He may, however, take a hand in adjusting things.

Pleas for support of the striking drivers by other unions were made yesterday by Thomas O. Robertson, acting president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor.

"Never in my experience have I been associated with a more determined body of men," he described the drivers. "They will fight until victory crowns their efforts."

Mail Robbers Steal British Secrets

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Two bags of registered mail, believed to contain secret government documents, were stolen by thieves who ransacked a royal delivery van here today.

The bags were addressed to the British Air Ministry at its offices in Kingsway. In addition to the documents, the bags also contained important letters and money.

Weded 48 Years Must Wait 50 For Divorce

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Modern divorce practices today had been tossed aside in the case of Mrs. Teresa Caporale and the ancient statute of the Roman Emperor Justinian invoked in their stead.

Informed that Mrs. Caporale, 67, and her husband, 72, have never been naturalized, Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday decided they are still governed by the Justinian law which requires a 50-year trial period before a divorce can be granted.

Whereupon the judge continued the wife's plea for a separation until January 1, 1932, the fiftieth anniversary of the couple's wedding.

CROSS OCEAN UNAIDED

It is quite a record that Pavel, aged 9, and Emily Madar, aged 7, have.

They completed their journey from Czecho-Slovakia to Pittsburgh without bothering with an older person for an escort. When they arrived at the Union station today they were greeted by their grandmother, Mrs. Eva Plavy, of West Homestead, who took them to their father and mother in North Braddock.

The youngsters set out on their journey December 27 aboard the liner Aquitania bound for New York. From their native country to New York, Michael Carney, aged 10, accompanied them, but upon landing in New York Michael left for Bridgeport, Conn., where he was to meet his father.

Pavel and Emily were objects of curiosity as they came through the gates of the station, but it was just another town to them if the expression on their faces meant anything.

GAS FUMES KILL FOUR IN HOME

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Lack of oxygen in a room in which a gas heater was burning was declared by physicians to have been the cause of the death of four persons in a residence here. Two other persons were overcome and may die. The dead:

Mildred Lund, 35.
Dorothy Sorro, 4.
John Aguirre, 22.

At Central Emergency Hospital, physicians used inhalators to try to save the lives of Andrew G. Gapasin, 30, and Mrs. Mary Sorro, 27. Mrs. Sorro is the mother of the dead children.

Coolidge to Write History To Last 500,000 Years

KEYSTONE, S. D., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Calvin Coolidge is to write a history of the United States with an assured popularity for 5,000 centuries.

It is to be as brief and terse as the former president's conversation.

The former president, according to the Mt. Rushmore National Memorial Association, has accepted an invitation to write historical data to be engraved beside the colossal figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt upon the granite face of the Black Hills Mountain. Mt. Rushmore is near Keystone.

The history will be Mr. Coolidge's contribution to the Memorial which he dedicated during his summer vacation in the Black Hills in 1927.

The Coolidge words, 500, or fewer if the author chooses to further condense the life of the country from the Declaration of Independence to his time, will be five or more inches deep, and high enough to be read miles away.

Geologists estimate the rate of erosion on the granite escarpment of Mt. Rushmore is an inch in 100,000 years. Unless radical earth changes or future progress decrees the removal of Mt. Rushmore, the memorial should endure more than 500,000 years.

Gutzon Borglum, sculptor of the project, hopes to have the Washington and Jefferson figures ready for a formal unveiling next July 4. Each of the four figures will be 420 feet tall. The tablet of Mr. Coolidge's history will be 80 feet high and 120 feet wide.

LONDON CHEERS U. S. NAVAL ENVOYS

British Statesmen Welcome Legates to Arms Parley; Stimson, McDonald Confer

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—The American delegation to the five-power naval arms conference arrived here from Plymouth this afternoon and received a rousing welcome from an imposing throng of statesmen and officials.

Secretary of State Stimson, heading the delegation, hurried almost at once to 10 Downing street, the official residence of Premier MacDonald, where the two statesmen were closeted for three hours in a private conference.

When the special train carrying Stimson, the other delegates and two American ambassadors who had gone to Plymouth to greet them, Gen. Charles G. Dawes and Hugh Gibson, pulled into the Paddington station, the visitors were met by Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, Premier MacDonald's private secretary, Admiral Madden and Malcolm MacDonald, the premier's son.

After chatting briefly, the visiting delegates, accompanied by the welcoming party, stepped into waiting automobiles and were whizzed away to the Ritz Hotel, where two and a half floors have been reserved for the Americans.

The leaders of the Italian delegation to the naval conference, Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, arrived here at 5:15 o'clock this evening. He was welcomed at the Victoria Station by Foreign Minister Henderson.

REACH PLYMOUTH

PLYMOUTH, England, Jan. 17.—Pledged to aid in a conference designed to bring about the most drastic naval armament cuts in the history of the world, the American delegates to the five-power parley starting in London on Tuesday arrived here today aboard the United States liner George Washington.

Secretary Stimson, accompanied by his wife, was the first to disembark. He was warmly greeted by Ambassadors Dawes and Gibson and by the Plymouth officials who stood at the pier-side.

TERMED 'PILGRIMS'

He was followed soon after by the other chief delegates, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, Dwight W. Morrow and Senators Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, and David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania.

Secretary Stimson replied to an address of welcome by Plymouth's mayor. He referred to the coming parley as a "peace conference" and said Plymouth was "welcoming a delegation of pilgrims."

"We have high hopes for the meeting," he said.

He declined to make any official statement regarding the suggestion of Prime Minister MacDonald that battleships be eliminated entirely from the fleets of the world.

BABY DESERTED IN RAIL STATION

Muffled squeals from the seemingly deserted waiting room of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station early today called Mrs. Mary Harold, matron, to a bundle of blankets and clothing on a bench.

By the time she arrived, a pink and white arm had worked its way out of the clothing, a pair of big brown eyes peered into a strange world—and Roselia Foundling was to get another baby, a boy this time.

Mrs. Harold turned the child, which is about two weeks old, over to Acting Police Lieutenant Hugh Lavery and Detective William Harris, when they arrived. A number of women in the station left their names after expressing a willingness to adopt the child.

BYRD EXPOSING STORM MYTH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP.)—Indications that the home of southern storms, the Antarctic, may be eliminated as the world's one "weather blind spot" through the meteorological observations of the Byrd expedition, were contained in a radio message made public here by the National Geographic Society from Rear Admiral Byrd.

His message was addressed to Dr. John Oliver la Gorce, vice president of the society, for whom the expedition's meteorological station is named.

"We dug our airplanes from under the snow in the spring as soon as the temperatures would permit," Byrd's message said in part. "Shortly thereafter our weather men, Haines and Harrison, reported to me that they though the weather suitable for a base-laying flight. They made this prediction without reports from any trail party.

"We left immediately and had sunshine for 440 miles to the mountains. The visibility is generally so bad there that without sunshine we could not have landed successfully to lay down our base."

Byrd described how Haines had successfully forecast the weather for the South Pole flight, and how there was sunshine for almost the whole of the 1,600 mile trip.

"In order to make one or two additional exploration flights," he continued, "we have watched the weather closely since our last flight, 34 days ago, but there has not been one suitable day.

"Haines and Harrison have also made valuable scientific records. They have made surface observations every hour of the day and night over a period of 13 months. In upper air they have made 400 pilot baloon runs to obtain the velocity and direction of winds at various levels. Many of those baloons have given wind data as high as 30,000 feet. Upper air humidity, pressure and temperature have been obtained by kite or airplane on 40 days over a period of three months."

JURIST ON STAND IN KILLING

Corio Denies Statement of Accused Woman That He Choked Child to Death

CAMDEN, N. J., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Judge Joseph A. Corio, of Atlantic City, took the witness stand today in the trial of Gladys May Parks, charged with the murder of two children, and made a complete denial of the defendant's statement that he had slain one of the children.

Miss Parks in one of her five statements made to Prosecutor Clifford A. Baldwin and read in court late yesterday, said that Corio came to her Camden home, saw Timothy Rogers, 2 years old, who was in her care, and declaring she was trying to disgrace him through the boy, choked the child and then held his head under a faucet of running water. In other statements Miss Parks said the child had died after an accidental fall down stairs.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

This child and Dorothy Rogers, a 4-year-old sister, were the children of Alan A. Rogers, of Woodbury. Miss Parks is charged with murder in the first degree in connection with their death. Dorothy, Miss Parks has said, died after she had whipped her.

Judge Corio, questioned by Prosecutor Baldwin, said that he knew the defendant but that he had not seen her since the latter part of 1926. The boy died last August 22.

The witness said that the meeting in 1926 was in his office in Atlantic City.

"Miss Parks called with her sister about an estate," he said. "They were to get some property when their father passed on. She demanded money at once. I told her I could not give her any money. She became angry and said I had sold her out and that the lawyer on the other side had paid me off.

OUTLINES MOVEMENTS

Judge Corio then outlined his movements on August 22 and identified a group photograph in which he appeared, taken that night outside the Atlantic City ball park, before a boxing event. He was in Atlantic City throughout the day, he said. The witness was not cross examined by the defense.

After several witnesses had been heard in support of Judge Corio's alibi, Earl L. Farr, of Philadelphia, husband of Miss Parks' sister, took the stand. In one of her statements Miss Parks is alleged to have said that Farr came to her home in Camden the night of the day Corio visited her.

Farr, she said, saw the dead child. She told him what had occurred and he suggested she bury it in the country. Her statement then said he drove her with the child in a suitcase, to Absecon, near Atlantic City, where he waited for her while she threw the body of the child in a thicket.

Farr made a complete denial of the charges in a statement. After his testimony the state rested.

Walker, of New York; Mayor and Mrs. Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Barrymore, and Maurice De Kobra, French novelist.

Forecast on Radio Static Promised Dial Twisters

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Static, that bane of dial twisters the world over, may be forecast.

Predictions, just like those for the weather, which would tell the radio listener what kind of reception to expect within a certain period, are now planned.

Prevalence of magnetic storms, which produce more or less serious static conditions, would be the basis for the forecasts.

A proposal that reports of daily magnetic disturbances be transmitted on short waves along with the weather forecast and seismic activities is to be made next August at the Stockholm meeting of the Section of Terrestial Magnetism and Electricity of the International Geodetic and Geophysical Society.

Dr. D. L. Hazard, assistant chief of the Division of Terrestrial Magnetism and Seismology, of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, so announced today.

Magnetic storms differ from rain, snow and windstorms which make themselves known physically. They rage just as terrifically, but their presence is not apparent to man until he either turns on his radio or uses other devices which detect their presence.

Leading broadcasting engineers of the country met with the Federal Radio Commission to see what can be done to reduce the interference which now harrasses thousands of listeners.

The conference, called by the commission, is the first concerted move of the year to improve broadcasting conditions. Outside of the excessive number of stations the chief trouble, commission engineers said, is interference caused by stations in localities beyond their program service range. Improvement of operating technique was said to be the most feasible remedy for this situation.

ZERO, FLOODS GRIP WEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Icy blasts, accompanied by extreme cold, strengthened winter's grip in the West today.

A relief party headed northward from Flagstaff, Ariz., with teams and snowplows to rescue 17 persons reported marooned in a shack on the Flagstaff-Tuba City highway. J. H. Hildred, one of those marooned, yesterday succeeded in tapping a telephone wire with a portable instrument, spreading the first news of the party's plight.

WATER MAINS CRACK

At Everett, Wash., ice in pipe lines caused breaks, cutting the city's water to a two-day supply. In Spokane a blizzard caused one death. In Northern California 8,000 head of cattle, their grazing lands snow-blanketed, are near starvation.

Montana reported 35 below zero, and the cold rolled from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic. Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma are experiencing sub-zero temperatures, and two deaths were added to the storm's toll in Nevada.

FLOOD IN MIDWEST

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Sweeping southward to the accompaniment of freezing temperatures, swirling torrents of flood waters from the Mississippi tributaries claimed a vast new territory today.

A major break in the Big Lake, Ark., levee, flooded more than 200,000 acres of rich farm land. The break, small at first, soon widened to a 350-foot gap, and workman abandoned an attempt to save the dyke.

COLD SAVES LEVEES

VINCENNES, Ind., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—King Winter came to the rescue of Vincennes today and wove a pattern of ice along the emergency levees, chinking up the holes and spreading a sheath of protecting ice for 50 yards in some places where the Wabash River breakwater had been slowly eating its way into the city.

DORR ACCUSES MRS. O'BRIEN

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—In a last desperate effort to save Samuel Howard Dorr, insurance salesman, from the electric chair for the murder of William J. O'Brien, the defense today in final arguments prepared to shift the burden of guilt upon Genevieve O'Brien, widow of the slain man and expectant mother, it was revealed in court today.

Barratt O'Hara, counsel for Dorr, said he would contend in his argument that Mrs. O'Brien fired the shot that killed her husband.

O'Hara said he would prove the first shot was fired by Mrs. O'Brien and that O'Brien was struck by further bullets in his home when he struggled with Dorr for possession of the gun.

In the meantime Assistant States Attorney Walker Butler was demanding that the jury find Dorr guilty of the murder and sentence him to die in the electric chair.

O'Hara said he had received "information" that prosecutors Butler and Harry S. Ditchburne, and Mrs. O'Brien's attorneys, Samuel Hoffman and Charles Dougherty, had agreed that Mrs. O'Brien would never take the stand to tell of the alleged first shot O'Harz contends she fired.

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Coroner James H. Whitfield said today following an inquest that evidence showed that the death of Mrs. D. W. Timberlake, 28, of this city, in a hospital here Tuesday, came as a result of the presence of a pair of surgical forceps having been left in her lower abdomen following an operation in Washington, D. C., three years ago.

An autopsy resulted in the finding of the forceps, five inches in length, in the right side near the appendix. The physician in charge of the autopsy testified that he and three internes were present when the forceps were discovered.

December-May Wedding Hits Rocks in 10 Days

EASTON, Md., Jan. 17.—(INS.)—The December-May wedding of William F. Leonard, wealthy 78-year-old Easton widower, and pretty 25-year-old Jean Schilling, of Baltimore, was climaxed today with the filing of a divorce suit here by the aged husband just 10 days after wedding.

They met January 5. On January 7 they were married. They separated on January 8.

Leonard's chief allegation is that his bride "married him for his money." He named a Mr. and Mrs. Roman, of Baltimore, as co-conspirators with her in the alleged scheme.

The bill further set forth that the new bride refused to live in the home he had provided for her; that she loafed and smoked cigarets while he was forced to do the housework and prepare their meals during their brief married life.

She wrote him that she did not either "smoke or use profane language," while actually she did both, Leonard further asserted in his complaint.

After their marriage he said that he gave her a check for $200. Now he wants it back.

Irene, Dague Pledge Faith in Cell

cell, Irene looked at him pityingly.

"Honey, you need a shave," she remarked.

"Yes, I do," he replied reflectively. Turning to Sheriff Wright he inquired: "Can I get a shave this morning?"

That officer agreed, and instead of a cell, Dague was escorted to a lavatory and the necessary implements supplied, while deputies and jail guards stood by.

His whiskers were long, probably as long as on the day Corp. Brady Paul, Pennsylvania state highway patrolman, was killed and his buddy, Patrolman Ernest Moore, was shot by a trio fleeing from a Butler store holdup.

Dague wears a mustache, rather sandy as described by Moore and other witnesses in New Castle after the killing of Corp. Paul. His hair, too, is sandy, rather a brownish-blond.

FACE GRIM

He is tall and of rather refined appearance, but the grim lines around his eyes and mouth denote a stubborn disposition.

As he scraped the bristles from his face he remained as taciturn as ever. Twice during the removal of the facial adornment he spoke, but only a few words concerning the razor. He complained that the blade "pulled."

"Guess my beard is too long," he said. Guards supplied a fresh blade and after a while Dague handed back the razor and asked the guard to clean it.

He shaved with meticulous care, going over his face the second and third times, and passing his fingers over the ruddy cheeks and chin to make sure of a "clean shave."

Throughout his absence from his cell he wore leg irons, the heavy steel chains clinking as he walked. Once Irene looked at these fetters and, turning to the sheriff, remarked: "Are you afraid he'll run away?"

The blonde's reply was a sneer.

Last night's telephone call from Donnie in Pennsylvania seemed to upset Mrs. Schroeder for a few minutes, but not enough to cause her to reveal anything definite in her past. When taken into Sheriff Wright's office to talk to the boy, the telephone was handed to her, with the remark:

"Someone wants to talk to you, Irene."

"Hello," she spoke into the instrument, "who is this?"

"This is Donnie, mamma—where is Uncle Tom?" The voice could be heard throughout the room.

"I don't know what it's all about," she snarled, hurling the receiver across the desk and refusing to talk further.

"That was Donnie, your son, Irene. Don't you want to talk to him?"

"I don't know who it was and I don't feel like talking," she flung back, and asked to be taken back to her cell.

Prompt extradition of Mrs. Schroeder and Dague is assured despite the blonde's refusal to waive extradition.

"As soon as the Pennsylvania authorities arrive, there will be a short hearing before Gov. John T. Phillips," said Sheriff Wright today.

"The Governor unquestionably will sign the papers necessary to permit removal of the Schroeder woman and Dague."

CHECK BANDIT KILLING

Sheriff Wright was expecting the arrival of the sheriff of Coleman County, Texas, today to determine whether Irene and her male companions were the bandits who held up a bank in Coleman, January 9.

In a gun battle which followed a deputy sheriff and a bandit were killed.

The dead bandit may be Tom Crawford, brother of Irene, Sheriff Wright says. He was buried without being identified.

DAGUE WOUNDED

To a deputy the Schroeder woman and her accomplices kidnaped at Florence, Ariz., she is said to have remarked:

"You're just like the skunks who shot my brother Tom."

Three men and a woman were involved in the Coleman robbery which netted them $1,000, according to information received by Sheriff Wright. The description of two of the men fits Dague and Joe Wells, captured with the Schroeder woman, Wright asserts.

After four days of imprisonment, the "most stubborn woman ever arrested in Phoenix," as authorities have characterized Irene, remains as defiant as the day she was brought into the city from the edge of the desert, where, with two companions, she "shot it out" with the law.

She is far from the breaking point, officials say. All efforts to force her to talk have failed. She will say nothing until permitted to talk to a lawyer, and this privilege, officers say, will be denied her until the arrival of Pennsylvania authorities.

The jail physician today examined her and pronounced her in good physical condition. She showed no traces of yesterday's "attack of nerves," as jail authorities called it.

"She always calls for Donnie when she get's them," he said.

Dague and Vernon Ackerman, a former Oklahoma convict, arrested with the "trigger woman," say as little as their companion. Ackerman, who has given several names for a time was believed to be Irene's brother. But he denied relationship, as does the woman, and authorities have practically established his identify as Ackerman.

"We just met him a few weeks ago and were going to leave him soon," she told the sheriff.

PRISONERS KEPT APART

When first arrested he gave the name Wells and said he had just been released from a Texas prison. He also used the name Joe Houston. Sheriff Wright today denied that Dague and Irene met and embraced each other in the jail office yesterday.

"They haven't seen each other since they were brought in here," the sheriff said.

Reporters who today tried to talk to the blonde through the bars of her cell got little in return for their trouble.

"Take them away," she shrieked to the jail turnkey. "I won't talk to them. I don't know anything to tell them."

"We know little more than we did last Monday," Sheriff Wright said. "I've never seen a prisoner like her. She eats well, sleeps soundly and gives no indication of breaking in spirit.

"The only thing that seems to be worrying her is being returned to Pennsylvania."

"Would you call her a clever woman?" he was asked.

"The cleverest in her line that I've seen," the sheriff answered. "Whatever else is said about her, she is intelligent enough to know that it is to her advantage to remain silent on her past."

The sheriff's office has received inquiries from police of cities in scattered sections of the country asking a description of the three prisoners, but to date no move has been made to get possession of them.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—A $6,000,000 appropriation for loans to farmers and stock raisers in the flood and storm-stricken area of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia was authorized by the Senate today. The measure must be approved next by the House. The loans will be for the purchase of seed, stock or fertilizer. A similar provision was made last year, and most of the loans were repaid.

OFFICERS RUSH EXTRADITION

woman, her brother Tom, and Dague," said District Attorney John Powers, of Lawrence County.

"They have assured us they will produce the man who can clear up whether the second male bandit held at Phoenix is Crawford, or Joe Wells, ex-Oklahoma penitentiary convict, as he claims.

"We have reason to believe that the man captured with the Schroeder woman and Dague is Crawford, who was with them when Patrolman Paul was killed and Patrolman Moore was wounded on the Butler road, but we are not positive. We expect to clear up this point soon."

WOUNDED MAN ALONG

Lee will be accompanied west by Private Moore, the Benwood man, and Mrs. Minnie McKibben, New Castle policewoman.

County Prosecutor Powers last night denied that "Donnie" Schroeder, 4-year-old son of the "trigger woman," would be taken to Phoenix. It had been reported that the boy would be taken to Phoenix to help identify the prisoners.

Efforts were made yesterday to have Donnie talk to his mother over long distance telephone. However, little resulted from the call as the mother hung up, being unable to understand what the call was about or who was calling her. The child's voice was either too weak or the connection poor.

Major C. M. Wilhelm, deputy superintendent of the state police, was notified in his office at Harrisburg late yesterday that Mrs. Schroeder and the two men would be turned over to the Pennsylvania authorities without opposition on the part of Arizona police.

WILL GIVE UP TRIO

Major Wilhelm said he received a telegram from Sheriff Charles Wright of Pheonix stating that the Arizona authorities would not attempt to hold the trio there for the wounding of the three deputies.

The identification of the mystery man of the Western prisoners still is troubling the local authorities. It was said yesterday that fingerprints from Oklahoma had identified that prisoner as Joe Wells, alias Joe Houston, as Donald Ackerman, former Oklahoma convict. However, there is, local police believe, a possibility that he may be Tom Crawford. It is possible that a West Virginia policeman who knows Crawford may make the trip with the New Castle officers.

PARROT FEVER KILLS ANOTHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—With the death of another victim of psittacosis or "parrot fever," health authorities today made plans for a rigid inspection of a cargo of pets expected to arrive here January 26 from Cristobal.

A parrot romance has led to what is believed to be two new cases of the fever at Hastings-on-Hudson, authorities reported today.

Mrs. J. Ruddell, who received a parrot for Christmas, was afraid her pet was lonely so she took it across the street to a neighbor, Mrs. William McCartin, who also owned a bird. The parrots became friendly.

First the Ruddell parrot died. Then Mrs. Ruddell and Mr. McCartin became ill. At first it was thought they had pneumonia, but it was believed today they contracted the parrot disease.

MEXICO CONDEMNS BIRDS

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Every parrot in Mexico City has been condemned to death. The wholesale execution order was issued today by the Board of Health, following the appearance of the first case of psittacosis, the disease believed communicated by parrots. Another order barred importation of parrots into Mexico.

Prisoner in Hotel, Girl Causes Two Arrests

Mildred Harpster, 16, of Glenfield, who left here several days ago with two magazine solicitors who had promised her a position, had both men arrested today in Philadelphia on serious charges, according to word received by Police Chief Samuel Graham, of Glenfield. They had held her a prisoner in a hotel there, she alleges.

The girl, who made her home with her grandmother, Mrs. Dunlap, East Beaver street, Glenfield, was hired by John Hotterich, 26, Pittsburgh representative of a New York circulation company.

Hotterich introduced her, she said, to Charles H. Smith, a salesman for the company, and Smith took her to Easton, Pa. Later, according to the girl's story, Smith took her to Philadelphia, where they were joined by Hotterich.

The men kept the girl locked up in a Philadelphia hotel for two days, but she made her escape last night, according to detectives, and had the men arrested.

AUTO INDUSTRY PROSPEROUS

William Penn Hotel surpassed in magnitude and completeness the Chevrolet sales presentations of former years. A carload of show equipment including drops, curtains and stage fixtures was used to illustrate talks in the form of dramatic playlets. These depicted the proper procedure followed in the successful operation of a retail automobile business. A staff of Mr. Klingler's assistants were filling the roles.

Included in the party with Klingler were J. C. Chick, assistant general sales manager, and C. L. Alexander, of Flint, regional manager.

"With low inventories virtually throughout the industry, as well as the rise in general businesses, the manufacturers and all business are in the market for raw and finished materials. With this condition prevailing, there is no need for a buying slump and plants should have steady production," Mr. Klingler cited.

EXCELLENT CONDITIONS

"Excellent conditions will be more pronounced in the last half of the year, though the first six months will be equal to last year. In our plants alone, dealers acceptance is on a par for the first three months with the same period last year."

Questioned on the meeting he had with President Hoover, Mr. Klingler said:

"The President was interested in employment conditions. It was possible to show him that through our plants, branches and dealers the Chevrolet peak is 250,000 workers, and that at this time we are employing 200,000. Indications are we will reach the peak before long. The new Chevrolet has had a wonderful reception by the public, and with the improved car at a lower price we are operating our plants on the basis of 1,500,000 production. The largest sales figure was reached last year with 1,300,000 sales.

TO ENLARGE BRANCH

"That we know Pittsburgh will share in the increase is proven in our erection of a $250,000 addition to our local branch. This addition should be in operation in about a month. We've hit bottom in the recent downward business trend and are now on the up grade. But it should not be expected that the climb take on the aspect of a rubber ball on the rebound."

Today's program was the fourth of a series of 42 similar sessions that are being held from coast to coast this winter in a comprehensive effort to apprise the country-wide Chevrolet dealer organization of the plans which Chevrolet has arranged for another banner year in 1930.

The entire Pittsburgh zone organization of the Chevrolet Motor Company was represented in the gathering: Charles L. Milliken, zone manager; E. L. Merriman, assistant zone manager; M. S. Suydam, city sales manager; D. J. Brady, sales promotion manager; M. W. Kane, accounting manager; P. S. Hughes, car distributor; P. D. Loranger, parts and service manager, and A. A. Klein, office manager.

The Detroit Chevrolet party included, among others, Sidney Corbett, manager of the commercial car division; T. O. McLaughlin, K. E. Gray, Will Power, C. O. Houtin and R. H. Pussel.

PRIZES AWARDED

The day's activities began this morning with a meeting and installation of officers of the One Hundred Car Club, a Chevrolet organization of star salesmen who sold 100 or more cars in 1929, the awarding of more than $500 in prizes and a luncheon at Webster Hall.

The new officers included Wesley Holland, Pittsburgh, regional president, the leading Chevrolet salesman in the Central West; George Hoenig, Ambridge, zone president; R. L. Vensel, Butler, vice president; J. F. Copeland, Bellaire, O., secretary, and Robert Scott, Steubenville, O., treasurer.

Following tonight's program, Klingler and Chick will leave for Detroit. The staff of assistants will remain for a sales meeting tomorrow in the William Penn Hotel with all local branch employes. The 1930 sales campaign will be outlined.

HEAD OF VET AFFAIRS URGED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Secretary Wilbur has recommended legislation to create an assistant secretary for veterans affairs under an executive department to handle all governmental agencies dealing with war veterans.

In a report to the House Expenditures Committee, which is considering the Williamson bill to place the agencies under the direction of the Veterans' Bureau, Secretary Wilbur said the bureau was too large not to be directly under a member of the cabinet.

The consolidation plan was proposed by President Hoover in his first message to Congress. The Williamson bill, sponsored by the chairman of the Expenditures Committee, was approved by Director Frank T. Hines, of the Veterans' Bureau, by the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the disabled American Veterans.

Secretary Wilbur explained in his report that his proposal was based on a study conducted by the chief executive's fact-finding committee on veterans' agencies headed by himself.

Wilbur declared the really essential thing was "unity of command over pension questions of the government through some common official," a matter of the more importance he said, because of the "prodigious sums" expended.

"The Veterans' Bureau is now loose, unattached, unrepresented in the cabinet. It spends towards three quarters of a billion dollars a year and is too large a force to be by itself," he added.

He advocated setting up a "Coordination Committee" to bring about economy.

Pension Commissioner Earl D. Church also presented a substitute bill similar in tenor to Secretary Wilbur's, but specifying "an assistant secretary of the interior for veterans' affairs."

Hines said Williamson's bill was sound and would save $1,500,000 annually in administration costs and would curtail construction costs by $10,000,000. He said he could anticipate no difficulties in the amalgamated administration under the Veterans' Bureau.

Nuns Lead 500 Boys To Safety in Fire

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Five hundred boys in St. John's Orphan Asylum, West Philadelphia, calmly marched to safety under the guidance of 30 nuns early today when fire broke out in the institution. The fire started in the chimney of the laundry building adjoining the dormitory and the flames aroused many of the inmates who awakened the others by their shouts of fire. The excitement quickly subsided, however, and the boys were marched out without mishap. They ranged in ages from 8 to 14 years.

Congress Record To Print Hearst Editorial

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The editorial by William Randolph Hearst published in the Hearst newspapers on the tenth anniversary of prohibition, has been ordered printed in the congressional record.

Upon motion of Senator Wagner, of New York, unanimous consent was given by the Senate for publication of the editorial in the official organ of the Congress.

The editorial was entitled "On this, Its Tenth Anniversary, Results of Prohibition Policy should Be Carefully Weighed." It outlined the stand of the Hearst newspapers for true temperance and surveyed the effect of the national prohibition policy upon the life of the nation.

"Mr. Hearst has accurately taken stock of prohibition's shortcomings," declared Senator Wagner, in commenting upon the editorial.

13,000 PHONES SHIFT TO DIALS

Thirteen thousand telephones in Wilkinsburg, Swissvale, Edgewood and the Homewood and Brushton sections will begin functioning as dial phones at midnight tomorrow, William Bradford, division manager for the Bell Telephone Company announced today.

About 13,000 telephones which in the past have been operated through the old Franklin exchange at 813 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, will begin functioning as dial instruments through the new Churchill-Penhurst mechanical central office at 1026 Hay street, when tomorrow night's transition to dial operation is effected.

Tons of Inca Gold Lure 2 Americans

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Two Detroiters and a descendant of the Incas have gone to Peru believing they possess the secret of buried treasure. Robert C. Jackson and Gideon L. Leasley are accompanied by Inca Tuti Cusi "Tecapato," also known as Alberto Howell, an engineer. They plan to drain a lake into which tradition says a two-ton chain of gold was dropped when the Spanish conquerors came. On the chain in code was a key to the location of the tombs of 14 Inca emperors.

CHANGES MARK AUTO SHOW

When the doors of Motor Square Garden are opened at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Pittsburgh's annual automobile show, a motor-minded public will see the greatest array of redesigned, refined and restyled motor cars ever presented since a number of manufacturers announced discontinuance of yearly models in 1922.

Among the most interesting of recent changes in the motor line-up are additions to the straight-eight engine field. Two additions to the V-type eight-cylinder class also will make their show debut. Many of these new motors have built into them new engineering principles which make for a lower gasoline consumption at a higher road speed.

The front-drive automobile and four-speed and silent-second transmission will share in interest with the larger motors. Downdraft carburetion is another improvement that has been adopted by several manufacturers.

An added attraction for the show will be a musical program by Charles Marsh and his Symphony Players. Joseph M. White, the silver masked tenor, will be the soloist. The show will continue throughout the week of January 20. It is being presented by the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers' Association, with W. N. Owings, secretary, as general manager.

RUTH BRYAN HER OWN LAWYER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Democratic Congresswoman from Florida, today undertook her own defense in the election contest brought by William C. Lawson, her Republican opponent, in the Fourth Florida District.

Mrs. Owen, who is not a lawyer, failed to file the proper answer in the case. Lawson's attorney contended and the House Elections Committee No. 1 was asked to strike it from the record.

Noah C. Bainum, of St. Petersburg, Fla., arguing the case for Lawson, contended that Mrs. Owen was not entitled to a seat in Congress because she had not been an American citizen seven years prior to election.

Although Mrs. Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, has lived in this country most of her life, she married a British army officer in 1910, and did not return to the United States until after the World War. Her husband died of wounds received in the conflict.

7 Samoans Seized In Rebel Roundup

APIA, Western Samoa, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—First arrests were made here of members of the Mau (League of Samoan Natives), who took to the bush recently to avoid punishment for opposing New Zealand's government. Sun-Telegraph Will Print Auto Show Extra in Hall

A new publication is entering the newspaper world of Pittsburgh. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Auto Show Extra, a four-page tabloid devoted entirely to the activities of the automobile show and its exhibitors, will appear each day from January 18 to January 25. The publication will be housed at Motor Square Garden during the show. The most modern Miller high speed press will print the tabloid and the dealers, salesmen and factory representatives who are exhibiting at the show will be its contributing editors.

The "City News" desk of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Auto Show Extra will be located just to the right of the main entrance, first floor. This desk will be maintained for the exhibitors to contribute choice news items or to discuss the latest bits of automotive scandal with the managing editor.

Exhibitors are asked to contribute news of the show. The first issue, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Automobile Dealers Association, will appear coincident with the opening of the show tomorrow afternoon.

The Miller press will be on exhibition at the Sun-Telegraph booth on the accessory floor. Two editions daily will be run off at the booth. Charles Mangold, an expert printer and pressman, will be in charge and will explain this marvel of the printing industry as the edition goes to press.

AIMEE'S FUNDS UNDER FIRE

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Deputy District Attorney Dan [illegible] Beecher, in charge of an investigation of the financial affairs of Angelus Temple, said today that an audit of the books of the mother church of the group headed by Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist, warranted "further inquiry, which probably would result in a grand jury probe."

While he declined to reveal what the audit had disclosed, Beecher said:

"If there should be an indictment for mismanagement of funds, there certainly will be some sensational disclosures, and even if it does not come to an indictment, some of these disclosures probably will be made anyway."

Beecher's investigation was begun three months ago after Dr. John Goben, who had been discharged as assistant pastor at the temple, alleged Mrs. McPherson had converted money belonging to her congregation to her own use.

During the early part of the inquiry Beecher questioned Mrs. McPherson concerning a bank account of $100,000 she opened under the name of "Elizabeth Johnson" and subpoenaed the books of the temple's business organization, which is incorporated as the "Echo Park Evangelical Association."

NO SUCCESSOR TO GOW NAMED

Chancellor John G. Bowman of the University of Pittsburgh, announced today that no immediate successor will be appointed for J. Steele Gow, dean of administration, who has resigned to become executive director of the $10,000,000 Falk Foundation.

Mr. Gow leaves Pitt March 1. Some of his duties will be taken over temporarily by John Weber, business manager and supervising engineer of the university.

Hong Kong Flier Tunes Plane for Hop to Texas

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Col. William Easterwood of Dallas, Tex., who has posted an award of $25,000 for the first flight between Hong Kong, China, and Dallas, said here today that Gen. Ting Ling Waung of Hong Kong, will be ready to make the attempt by way of Tokyo within 60 days.

The flight also will touch Honolulu, some point on the Pacific Coast, Phoenix and El Paso. Gen. Ting will carry with him a co-pilot and navigator.

Col. Easterwood is en route to Dallas after a trip to the Orient to arrange details of the flight.

APPEAL TAKEN IN METRO VOTE

County Commissioners and the Metropolitan District Commission today appealed to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court from the decision of Judges John A. Evans, James R. Macfarlane and Harry H. Rowand, who ruled that the metropolitan plan cannot be resubmitted to voters without additional legislation. The court action here was a friendly procedure toward getting a Supreme Court decision in the case.

John P. O'Connor, who opposed the move to place the question before the voters again, was awarded the decision by Common Pleas Court here. The attorneys in making the appeal urged that arguments be heard at the session beginning the week of February 3, instead of waiting for the next session of the court here in March.

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—J. W. DOUBT EIELSON WAS SIGHTED

MOSCOW, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, American fliers missing since November 9, was being concentrated today in the vicinity of the mouth of the Amguem River, on the Siberian coast, following receipt of reports from natives that the airmen had been located there.

While Soviet authorities ordered all searching parties to concentrate on this spot, they were disinclined toward optimism, stating that definite proof Eielson and Borland were still alive had not been received.

Word of the discovery was sent by Kryillenko, Soviet wireless operator at Tinkignea, who said he received the report from natives at Chuschei.

The Soviet Arctic Commission, which has been leading the protracted search for the missing fliers, fears that the Chukchei natives may have confused the Eielson plane with other American aircraft and authorities are hesitant over accepting Kryillenko's brief message as proof that the airmen have been found.

In the absence of further news, however, Foreign Commissar Kameneff wirelessed instructions to the Soviet airman Slepneff and Gladisheff, now quartered at Providence Bay, to make a thorough search of the territory. Similar messages were sent to the Soviet steamer Stavropol, icebound near North Cape, and to Commander Minayeff, of Wrangel Island. Both have been co-operating in the recent dogsled search for the fliers.

61 Davies Pictures Burned by Son And Widow

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Sixty-one oil paintings by the late Arthur B. Davies, noted American artist, have been burned by his widow because she did not consider them representative of her husband's work.

The paintings, found in Davies' Chelsea studio after his death, were in varying stages of completion and dated from different periods of his career. Mrs. Davies and her son, David, took the paintings to their home at Congers, Rockland County, and destroyed them after careful study and selection.

Sixty-eight water colors by Davies were sold here last April for $48,000.

CREDIT MEN ASK YEARLY SURVEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Delegates from the National Retail Credit Association have petitioned the Department of Commerce to place the retail credit survey upon a permanent basis.

Stressing the wide demand for results of surveys already made by the department and the practical value of this information to retailers, James R. Hewitt, past president, who headed the delegation, said a regular compilation of credit experiences would be of widespread aid in business.

Under the plan presented, current credit data would be gathered from six types of retail stores in 22 large cities throughout the country.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

POLICE 'MUTINY' IN GLASSPORT

There is "mutiny" in the ranks of Glassport's police, with the new chief suspended for insubordination.

Council elected Michael Cobac as chief of police, succeeding William F. Rushe, who was discharged. The new chief, expecting to be assigned to day duty, was ordered out for the night shift by Burgess Seward Gross. When he refused to take the assignment, he was suspended this morning by the burgess.

Desk Sergt. Fritz Quinn, who had been on night duty, was ordered on the day shift by the burgess. He reported this morning and informed the burgess that the police committee of council had told him to start at 6 p. m. tonight. As a result, there was no officer on duty today. Burgess Gross said he does not know what action he will take with Sergt. Quinn.

Until council meets in February, the burgess' edict stands.

QUESTION MAN IN KILLING

Stephano Boscarino, 26 of 1313 Webster avenue, who yesterday surrendered to homicide detectives who sought him in connection with the murder of Ernest F. Simmons, of 211 Hailman street, was to be questioned by the detectives today.

He had trouble with two men who worked for him, an investigation by Detectives Frank Morgan and Matthew McGraw disclosed. Boscarino, accompanied by an attorney when he surrendered, refused to make any statement to detectives, they said.

Ministers Face Overcrowding Problem

MARTINS FERRY, O., Jan. 17.—No more lodges or patriotic groups march to regular church services, according to a decision of the Martins Ferry Ministerial Association. The preachers decided that if special services were required, they would be held on Sunday afternoons or week nights.

Reason for the action is that such special occasions tend to attract many outsiders, forcing members to remain away on account of lack of seating capacity. The special Memorial Day Sunday service is included in the ban.

EARLY SCHOOL SITE SOUGHT

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—An effort is being made by the Greene County Historical Society to locate the site of the first free public school in the county. The oldest school building in which free classes were conducted is also being sought.

Prior to 1834 when free schools were established by the state, numerous "select" schools and academies flourished in Greene County, Waynesburg College being an outgrowth of old Greene Academy, which was established in 1810 at Carmichaels.

Much interest is being shown in the historical society's endeavor to locate the site of the first free school in the county.

$1,000,000 Check For Harrisburg Believed Hoax

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A check for $1,000,000 awaited Mayor George A. Hoverter when he reached his desk here.

The check was drawn on a local bank and it was made payable to "The City of Harrisburg." An enclosed note said the money was to help defray expenses of annexing suburbs to Harrisburg in order "to show our sister cities that we are on the jump commercially, industrially and in population."

Mayor Hoverter was highly skeptical, but nevertheless he decided to call the bank. The Mayor did not reveal the banker's side of the conversation but he indicated strongly that he would not attempt to cash the check.

MEXICO HEALTH MEET URGED

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP)—An extra two days' session of the convention of the American Public Health Association, which meets at Fort Worth, Tex., next October, will be held in Mexico City if the organization approves an agreement reached by Mexican health officers with Homer Calver, executive secretary of the association.

J. C. Anderson, state health officer of Texas, several members of his staff and Dr. Bolivar Lloyd, assistant chief of the American Public Health Service, also took part in the conference.

The plan contemplates having as many delegates to the Fort Worth convention as care to come to Mexico City immediately after the meeting in Texas. An official Mexican delegation to the Fort Worth convention would escort the visitors to this capital. The proposal is to be passed upon by a meeting of the association officials in New York next month.

At yesterday's conference Mr. Anderson proposed measures for Mexican and American co-operation to prevent the spread of contagious diseases across the border. He suggested policing to prevent crossings where no sanitary stations exist and arrangement whereby Mexican border towns would cease to turn sewage into the Rio Grande. The Mexican authorities agreed to these points in principle but the details of application were not worked out.

INDICT SQUIRE FOR EXTORTION

STEUBENVILLE, O., Jan. 17—Returning 53 true bills, the Jefferson county Grand Jury brought two counts for extortion against Bert Rutledge, Knox township justice of the peace, who has been operating the most active dry court in eastern Ohio at Toronto, north of this city.

It is alleged that Rutledge took money from alleged violators for dismissal of possession charges against them. The indictments are based on information furnished by state operatives who investigated the court on order of Rupert Beetham, state prohibition commissioner.

NEW BORKOWSKI TRIAL SET

Trial of the three coal and iron policemen for manslaughter in connection with the death of John Borkowski, Tyre miner, was arranged at a conference today between Assistant District Attorney Roy T. Clunk and District Attorney D. J. Skelley, of Venango County, here.

After the conference it was said that the trial will probably be completed by January 31. Beginning January 28, night sessions will be held, if necessary. About 20 witnesses will be taken to Franklin, where the trial will be held, by bus.

Headquarters will be established in the Park Hotel. District Attorney Skelley, who took office recently, said that court affairs have been arranged to permit the selection of the jury January 28 at 9 a. m.

Wailing of Four Saxophones Win Wife Decree

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Four wailing saxophones in the hands and mouths of persons "afflicted with notions that some day they might be musicians," drove Mrs. Augusta Rebitske, 60, from home, she testified in her divorce suit here.

Judge Guy A. Miller granted her a decree after hearing her story of the musical aspirations of her two step-sons, a step-daughter and a step-grand-daughter. Among other acts of cruelty on the part of the husband, John Rebitske, was his failure to stop the wails of the four instruments, Mrs. Rebitske said.

HOOVER NAMES EDITOR ENVOY

WASHINGTON Jan. 17—(AP.)—President Hoover, who has about completed his shake-up of the diplomatic service, has nominated Henry Wharton Shoemaker, of McElhattan, Pa., as minister to Bulgaria. Mr. Shoemaker has been publisher and editor of newspapers in Pennsylvania and Connecticut since 1912 and is a member of the Associated Press for the Altoona, Pa., Tribune. He is a native of New York City, where he was born 47 years ago, and was in the United States diplomatic service as secretary at Lisbon and Berlin in 1903 and 1904. During the war he served with the general staff of the Army.

FIRST ARREST IN LOTTERY WAR

The much heralded crusade against the clearing house pools had netted the first arrest today.

Frank Fleisher, 30, El Tower Apartments, arrested on a suspicious person charge, was arraigned before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court. He denied being a solicitor for a pool and was released on $50 forfeit.

Arrested at Forbes street and Murray avenue yesterday by Patrolman William Divens, Fleisher was said to have receipt books for a clearing house pool, and $60. He denied ownership of the paraphernalia and furnished Inspector Bernard Kirley with the name of the alleged owner.

TWO MEN HELD IN FATAL FIRE

Two men were being held in the South Side Police Station today while detectives endeavored to establish the identity of a man who was burned to death in a fire which destroyed a two-story frame house at rear 2905 Carson street. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

A drinking party was going on in the house when fire broke out, police reported. The dead man was found on the second floor.

The two men held were Edward Jamison, 55, and Edward Burke, who said he was caretaker of the house. Two other men arrested at the scene were released by Magistrate John J. Sweeney. They were David Tucker, 39, of South Twenty-first street, who told of carrying Jamison from the house, and Louis Budzinski, 38, of Lebanon street. Neither was a member of the drinking party, police agreed.

The building is owned by Alderman William J. Hughes, 2135 Sarah street. He said that it has not been occupied for some time.

End Eczema Tortures Forever

No Need to Suffer Another Day

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to stop the itching and torture of Eczema instantly, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from any embarrassing or disfiguring skin trouble would be wise to banish it before it reaches a more or less chronic stage.

Ask May's & Liggett's Drug Stores all over Greater Pittsburgh or any first-class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full-strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces last a long time, and furthermore, if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. By applying night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

STATE BUILDING HALF BILLION

HARRISBURG, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A projected building program to cost nearly $500,000,000 stood today as Pennsylvania's answer to President Hoover's recent appeal to spur construction.

Of this huge sum, $300,000,000 will be expended for the 1930 program contemplated by cities, counties and smaller local governments in Pennsylvania, it has been revealed by Gov. John S. Fisher. Gov. Fisher announced these figures in speaking last night before the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce.

The Governor's compilation was based on reports furnished him at his request by the local units of government. He said that the state had available for building $155,000,000 and that this sum together with the program of the school districts in the state, which has not been compiled, would bring the aggregate to half a billion dollars.

"In going over the reports of the municipalities to me," the governor said, "I have failed to find one single item included which is unessential for the welfare of the state. I believe that this construction era is going to be marked by wisdom in expenditure of money."

Alba B. Johnson was re-elected president of the State Chamber of Commerce, together with the three vice presidents, F. W. Walker, Beaver Falls; E. J. Poole, Reading, and Frank J. Lanahan, Pittsburgh. A fourth vice presidency was created and Frank T. Harris, of this city, named to fill it. John Longacre, Morristown, was chosen treasurer, succeeding John Fisler, Philadelphia. New directors elected were: E. D. Hilleary and C. B. Sudborough, Philadelphia; Ralph E. Weeks, Scranton, and John Fisler, Philadelphia.

EAST END CHAIN STORE HELD UP

An armed bandit held up Elmer Nicholson, manager of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company store at 1028 North Lang avenue, at 8 o'clock this morning and took $15 from the cash register.

The bandit asked for a package of cigarets and as Nicholson offered it, pointed a revolver at him. Nicholson was alone in the store.

As soon as the man obtained the money he rushed out of the store to a waiting automobile and an accomplice drove him away.

Soprano and Violinist Vie On Radio Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

IT'S A TOSSUP whether the silver, melodious strains of a Stradivarius will be able to compete tonight with the sweet soprano voice of one of radio's most famous stars. Toscha Seidel and Jessica Dragonette will be opposed to each other at 8 o'clock, Toscha from WJAS and Jessica from WCAE.

The task of the violin master will be made even harder by the numbers the diminutive Cities Service girl has selected. She will do "Beautiful Lady," the exquisite waltz from "Pink Lady" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

Something like a marriage will happen when the Schradertown Band gets together on the WCAE program at 9:30.

Mary and Bob, WJAS at 9, will hear a story of American movie life.

The Armour program, KDKA at 9:30, has several inviting selections, among them the famous "Barcarolle," a tenor solo "Chant of the Jungle," and Sousa's "El Capitan March."

We Now Present

HOW THE SUN SHINES

Charles W. Hamp, the boy who stamped us at Kay Dee, is 15,000 sunbeams richer. This time it's recordings and not toothpaste.

Thirty different sounds can be produced with a new automatic machine built in the WABC studios. Thunder roars, lion snarls, motorboat whistles and ferry-boat sirens are some of the effects. The machine is housed in a cabinet the size of a phonograph. It will be used for Show Boat over WJAS next week.

Paul Grine of WCAE practices safety every day. He even looks both ways when crossing a one-way street.

Erno Rapee will say goodbye to radio next week to accept a position as musical director for Warner Brothers in Hollywood.

Marylander Defies Napoleon.

In 1803 Betsy Patterson was 18 years of age and the belle of Baltimore. Every eligible bachelor in Maryland adored her but she had rejected them all, for she dreamed of European courts and of glittering balls and noblemen.

In this same year, as if in answer to her dreams, Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the great Napoleon, sailed to America, met Betsy Patterson at a ball and fell in love with her. From the day she met him, Betsy's life became as thrilling and exciting as she had wished. She resolved to marry him and ran away from home until her father reluctantly consented.

Then she and her husband set sail for France, despite Napoleon's decree forbidding her to enter. She was finally forced to go to England after her husband had left her at Napoleon's command. By this time Betsy had become an international figure and was entertained by nobility throughout the world.

WJAS—Mary and Bob.

Movie Studio Setting.

Mary and Bob will be found in New York City tonight. Once again they are to be guests of Paramount Pictures, this time at the Astoria studio, where they will be entertained with a story of American movie life.

It is the story of "The Devil Inside Me," told by a successful New York business woman, who is not only the owner of one of the city's most fashionable "ensemble shops" but the wife of a well-known motion picture director as well. Her life had been supremely happy until that one moment of doubt had planted seeds of jealousy in her heart, and the circumstances which finally brought her to her senses provide a story of unusual thrills.

Criminal Leader Returns.

The ghostly but nevertheless actual re-appearance of Prof. Montegle, criminal leader who was thought dead, multiplies the complications in the Mystery House serial.

Apparently Montegle was not seriously injured when felled by a bullet from Sergt. Hanrahan's gun for the mysterious hypnotic influence which he exercises over Sally persists. It is feared that in the event of his death she may never recover control of her own will so Detective Ransome Renwick and his associates suddenly change their schemes to destroy him. To save Sally they believe it necessary to save this criminal, their bitterest enemy, and force him to release Sally from his powers.

FROZEN ASSETS CLOSE BANK

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—The First National Bank of Seward has been closed by the chief examiner of the Cleveland Federal Reserve bank, it has been announced.

According to Bank Examiner William Kaylor, a receiver appointed by the comptroller of currency may be placed in charge. Closing of the bank is a result of the belief of the examiner that interests of the depositors could thus be best safeguarded.

Much of the bank's resources are invested in coal lands which, it is claimed, would be of small value in a quick turnover. Bank examiners say that depositors are fully protected and no evidence of fraud exists.

Plan Short Spur Of Narrow Gauge

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 17.—Southwestern Pennsylvania's narrow-gauge railroad will still remain such, the Pennsylvania Railroad having disclosed that its plans for reorganization of the Waynesburg and Washington Railway Company contemplates only the widening of a mile in Waynesburg to serve business men there from the new line just completed into Waynesburg by the Monongahela Railway Company.

SEEK CULPRITS IN 5 THEFTS

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 17.—Police are investigating five robberies within an area of less than four blocks. It is believed two or more men were responsible for the burglaries, all of which were conducted by the same method and evidently for the purpose of procuring money.

The plants of the Auto Service Company, West Side Motor Company and Waverly Oil Company were visited, together with the Perry & Henderson feed store and the Connellsville Bottling Works.

At the Auto Service Company $15 in cash was taken. Less than $5 in pennies and small change was obtained in the other places.

Police are also looking for an automobile, stolen the same night from Howard R. Smith's private garage in South Ninth street. He saw two young men as they drove away with it.

END ROTHSTEIN CASE IN COURT

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—District Attorney Crain today was slated to break a tradition of 40 years.

He will ask Judge Nott, of General Sessions to dismiss the grand jury murder indictment against Hyman Biller, as well as those against "John Doe" and "Richard Roe." The indictments were returned in the investigation of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, New York gambling king.

Biller is now reported to be in Cape Town, South Africa.

Never in 40 years has an indictment against a fugitive from justice been dismissed, court attaches said.

Meanwhile in Supreme Court more was to be heard in the suit of Harry Langer against the Rothstein estate. Langer seeks $76,000, claimed due him for six notes. The defense claims the notes were forged.

Cards Urge Return Of Christmas Seals

Forty-five thousand postcards asking the return of Christmas seals have been sent to persons who have not accounted for seals sent them at Christmas time by the Tuberculosis League of Pittsburgh.

Widow Is Left $18,000 Estate

Clarence M. Wolff, 1407 Beechwood boulevard, left his $18,000 estate to his widow, Margaret R. Wolff, who was made executrix, in his will filed for probate today.

Protectors Place Food in Woods For Game

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 17.—No need to worry about the game in the woods this winter.

Game protectors are seeing to it that the woodlands are being well stocked with food for the birds and protected animals.

Game Protector Clark has completed the placing of more than 2,000 rabbits, so that next season there will be plenty of cottontails.

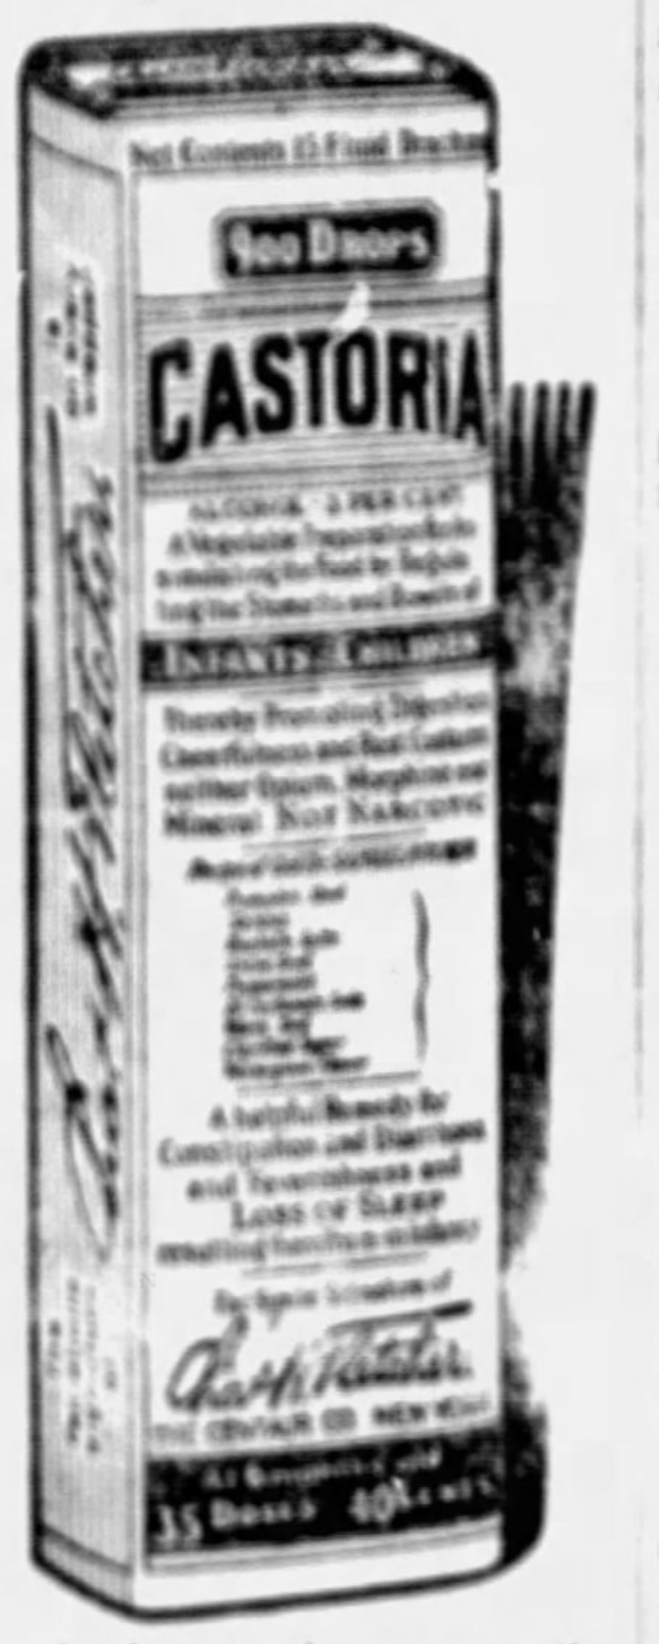
HUNGARY BALKS AT YOUNG PLAN

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—The representatives of the "big six" powers at The Hague reparations conference will hold a special meeting this afternoon to consider the refusal of the little entente to sign the agreement reached under the Young plan unless a satisfactory agreement with Hungary is reached, a Central News dispatch from The Hague states.

The little entente, consisting of Rumania, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia, insists upon further reparations from Hungary. Hungary, on the other hand, points out that since the war it has already lost 72 per cent of its territory, most of which was absorbed by the little entente, and that should be considered sufficient reparation.

The ceremony for the signing of the protocol of the agreement reached by the "big six" has been tentatively set for tomorrow.

Restless Children



Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as it tastes. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset—this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed to set everything to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

A SIMPLE STEP TOWARDS HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a Daily Essential and Millions Know Its Effectiveness in Relief of Constipation

Perhaps the one simple thing you are not doing to guarantee permanent health is having sufficient roughage in your food. Absence of this roughage is the direct cause of constipation which results in so many other ills—headaches, listlessness, general depression, indigestion and, sometimes, serious disease.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is roughage. It is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily (in serious cases, with each meal) is the proper amount.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also helps you to health in other ways. It is rich in iron, practically all of which goes into the blood, bringing red, healthy color to the complexion. It helps prevent anemia. Be sure to include it in reducing diets.

Many eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with cream or milk added. It is a delicious addition to cereals, fruits and soups. In cooked foods, such as bran muffins, it is just as effective in the relief of constipation. Recommended by doctors. Ask your grocer for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

POLICE AID 5 IN STRANDED AUTO

Two Mexican women and three children stranded on William Penn highway at Wilkinsburg, en route from Detroit to McKeesport, today had a newly-formed opinion anent the generosity of police officers and civic authorities.

Last night Wilkinsburg police found Mrs. Macressa Jimenez, her three children, Albert, 18; Elena, 16, and Casimera, 12, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Manuella Jimenez, stranded without food or money in a delapidated truck in which they were driving to the home of Norbets Jimenez, 924 Jerome street, McKeesport.

Elena said the truck had broken down and that they had not eaten for two days.

Taken to Wilkinsburg police station, all were fed by the officers and given lodging for the night. Today Burgess William Turner ordered the police patrol wagon pressed into service in transporting the family to McKeesport.

HAWKS WRECKS PLANE, 2 HURT

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Capt. Frank Hawks, holder of the coast-to-coast nonstop flight record, wrecked his record-making plane and badly damaged three other ships at Roosevelt field here today taking off.

Hawks was not injured, but two occupants of the machine were hurt. Hal. P. Henning, Houston, Tex., suffered a fracture of the arm, and P. J. Calusen, New York, mechanic, had several ribs broken.

Hawks came here from an air meet at Miami yesterday. He said he was watching planes on the right of the runway, and failed to see three ships on the left. Veering to miss a muddy spot, his plane crashed through the other ships.

Load of Alcohol Disappears As Agents Phone

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—It's getting so a hard-working prohibition agent can't leave a truck load of alcohol standing on the streets.

After seizing a truck loaded with 50 10-gallon barrels of alcohol here, Dry Agents A. W. Stoddard and William Tauczy, of the New York office, stopped at an office building to telephone news of their seizure. They took the three men they found on the truck inside with them. When they came out the truck was gone. A bystander said a man had driven it away.

Although the evidence had disappeared the three men were held charged with violating the dry law.

BRITISH AIRSHIP OUTRACES ZEP

CARDINGTON, England, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The new giant British dirigible R-100 was back in its hangar today after a successful test flight of more than 12 hours, during which its officers credited it with cruising at a speed greater than that of the Graf Zeppelin.

The ship's officers said their craft made 81.5 miles per hour with 600 horsepower in reserve. They said the ship was steadiest at a speed of 80 miles an hour.

During much of the flight fog obscured the ground from the crew.

BLIND CHURCH HEAD GUILTY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 17 (AP.)—Albert Nisbet, blind ex-magistrate and former treasurer of the Baptist Tabernacle building fund, was convicted of embezzling $2,084 from the church funds by a jury in Criminal Court here. He was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary.

The defendant, swathed in blankets and lying on a cot in the courtroom, showed no emotion when the verdict was read. A new trial was denied by Judge A. T. Burgevin, and counsel filed notice of an appeal, but Nisbet was taken to jail when a new $10,000 bond was not forthcoming.

Judge Burgevin deferred pronouncement of sentence. He set February 17 for Nisbet's trial on a second indictment which charges embezzlement of $20,000.

The embezzlement of $2,084 is but one of a series charged to Nisbet. He is alleged to have manipulated $22,048 of church funds in all, and to have involved relatives and friends to the extent of approximately $50,000.

Nisbet's chief defense was that he had speculated with the money with the consent of the pastor of the church and of members.

During his term on the bench Nisbet was known as "the hard-boiled magistrate" because of the severe penalties he dealt out to liquor law violators. He openly invited law enforcement officers to bring their cases into his court, assuring them that their prisoners would get maximum sentences.

Blackbirds Roost In Trees Near Here

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 17.—Residents report the arrival of a large flock of purple grackles, or "blackbirds."

TEXTILE KILLING TRIAL SHIFTED

GASTONIA, N. C., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Five men charged with second degree murder of Mrs. Ella May Wiggins, Bessemer City cotton mill worker killed during mob disorders here, will go on trial in Mecklenburg Superior Court, Charlotte, February 24.

Presiding Judge J. H. Clement, on motion of State Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt, yesterday ordered the trials removed from Gaston County. Judge Clement said he agreed with the attorney general in his contention that a fair and impartial trial here was improbable.

Mrs. Wiggins, a member of the National Textile Workers' Union, was slain, the state contends, by members of a mob which prevented her and other Bessemer City members of the union from attending a district union meeting here.

She was shot while in a truck five miles from here after the group had been turned back by a mob. She was a widow and the mother of five children.

Those indicted were Horace Wheelus, Troy Jones, Lowry Davis, Fred Morrow and O. H. Lunsford, all Gaston County Textile Mill workers. They are at liberty under bond.

Girl Hikers Free To Search for Mother

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—Picked up by police while hiking from Atlanta, Ga., to Altoona because they refused to answer questions, Peggy Myrlin, 18, and her sister, Betty Myrlin, 19, have been released and will continue search for their mother, whom they believe to be in the latter city.

SEEK PIPE LINE TO MILLWAY

The Public Service Commission today has on file the application of the Manufacturers' Light and Heat Co., of Pittsburgh for permission to purchase a pipe line system from the Southern Pipe Line Co. In this move is seen the first step in the plan of the company to service natural gas to the southern counties of the state.

The pipe line system involved is one extending from the Pennsylvania-West Virginia line to Millway, Lancaster County, Pa. It is a surplus line of the Southern company. The would-be purchaser provides natural gas for light, heat and power purposes in the southern tier counties where there is no available supply of natural gas.

The pipe line to be taken over would connect with natural gas pipe lines now operated by the company. It is expected that opposition to the move will be made by artificial gas producers in Southern Pennsylvania.

W. B. Kearney, manager of the company at Cleveland, will be in charge of the company's business here, having his offices at 1013 Penn avenue.

NATIONAL THRIFT
WEEK

THIS IS
- THRIFT DAY
- BUDGET DAY
- SHARE WITH OTHERS DAY
- MAKE A WILL DAY
- OWN YOUR OWN HOME DAY
- LIFE INSURANCE DAY
- SAFE INVESTMENT DAY

This is "Thrift Week" nationally observed.

Today is "Thrift Day."

Thrift is reasonable financial provision for unknown tomorrows.

It does NOT mean selfishness, meanness, nor self denial of all life's good things.

It DOES mean common sense applied to spending, with ability to deny one's self that which cannot be afforded.

The secret of thrift is THOUGHTFULNESS—reasonable restraint on the natural impulse to spend carelessly.

Thrift is the business of years—not of a day, or a week, or a season.

It is never successful when tried on an "off-and-on" basis.

The rewards of thrift are sure.

It is the great contributor to "peace of mind"—without which there can be no true happiness.

It gives those who practice it the courage and right to put their abilities and ambitions to the test.

It is a builder of character—the latch key to the door of opportunity.

EAST END CLUB CLOSED IN RAID

The East Liberty Hunting and Fishing Club 218 Collins avenue, said to number among it members some of the city's leading politicians, was closed today and the vintage wine it boasted was in the hands of prohibition authorities.

Agents said they were attracted to the place by an odor of whiskey coming to them from the second floor of the building in which the clubrooms are located. Whiskey and old wine were reported confisticated.

Phillip Papps, 48, arrested as the stewart, was said by agents to have supplied them with a list of men, prominent in city government and county politics, who are members.

Robert Killen, 42, was arrested at 6309 Broad street where raiders said a score of men were found playing cards. Moonshine was reported confiscated in the store of Nick Schenk, 38, at 1023 Carson street, and a cafe at 1219 Woods Run avenue, where E. A. Hallewell, 40, and Joseph Huether, 62, were arrested.

Trailing an automobile laden with 50 gallons of moonshine from Squirrel Hill to Allegheny avenue, the agents seized the car, they said, and arrested Saverio Raitano, 38, of 6496 Monitor street, as the driver.

ROAD CLEANING FUND CUT

Council in budget session today cut $50,000 from the request of the Department of Public Works of $699,700 for cleaning highways during the year.

The fund was further decreased another $100,000 when that amount was set aside for the proposed purchase of road maintenance machinery that would eliminate considerable labor.

John S. Herron's motion was adopted in which the department was asked to report the number and location of city stables that have become a public nuisance and recommendation as to the number that could be abandoned.

The department also was asked to report on the number of horse-drawn vehicles that could be efficiently replaced by motor trucks.

HURT IN CRASH, ACTRESS SUES

Unable to follow her occupation as an actress as the result of injuries in an automobile accident, Ruby Whitmore Loeb, of Edgewood, asked $25,000 damages of W. W. Scott, of 109 South Lexington avenue, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. She alleged she was a passenger in an automobile driven by Scott on the Neville Island roadway August 27 and that it turned over three times in speeding around a curve.

Miss Loeb says she suffered several broken ribs, jaw and forehead injuries and the loss of eight teeth.

Victim Identifies 2 Men as Bandits

Robbed of $37 by two highwaymen near his home early today, Wasil Wertziko, 47, of 415 Fourth avenue, Homestead, identified Michael Winsky, 19, of 438 Beech way, and Andrew Koval, 20, of Dickson street, both of Homestead, as his assailants, police say, after they had been arrested as suspects. The prisoners are being held pending an investigation.

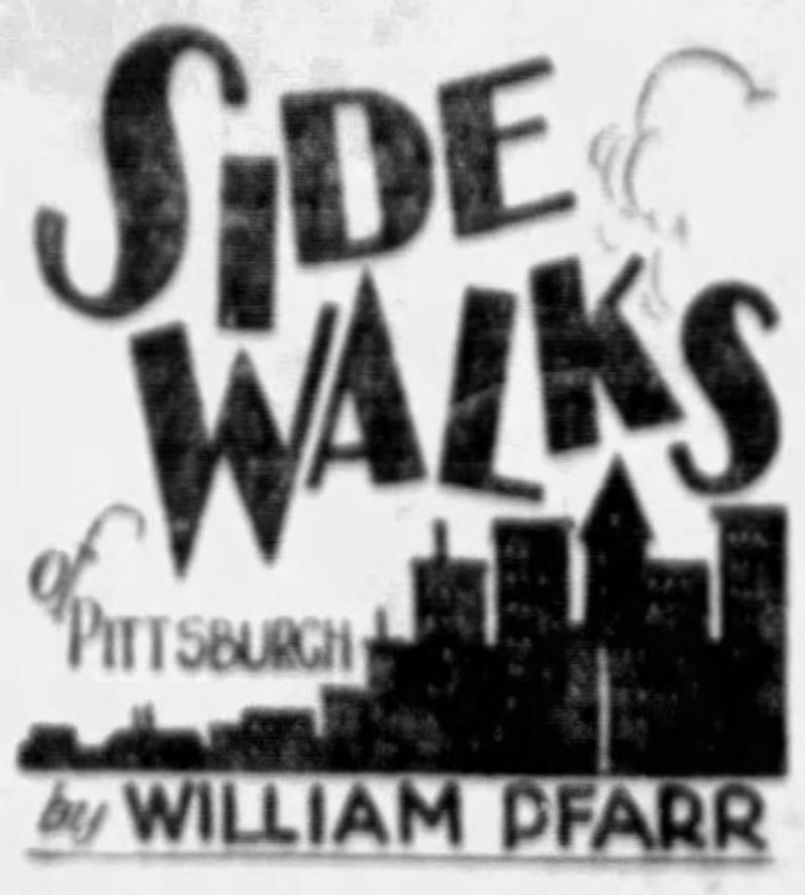
JUVENILE HOME CALLED WORST IN U. S.



by WILLIAM PFARR

THE question most often asked Judge Josiah Cohen, the oldest jurist on the bench in Pennsylvania, is this: "When are you going to retire?"

The Judge answers the question with a story. During the war the famed Gen. Von Moltke went to the Kaiser with his resignation.

"Why?" asked the Emperor.

I QUIT — I CAN'T GET ON MY HORSE

To which Judge Cohen adds: "And I'm going to retire when I'm too old to mount the bench."

* * *

Old in years (he is approaching 90), Judge Cohen remains mentally alert. One example: John Englert, the tipstaff, was telling a group in the Courthouse of his attempts to graft one thornless rose to another.

"Grafting, John?" Judge Cohen appeared shocked. "Will you watch your conversation when I'm around?"

THE new license numbers are interesting enough, but Marion P. McGrew, of Crafton, won't be content until these numbers are sighted:

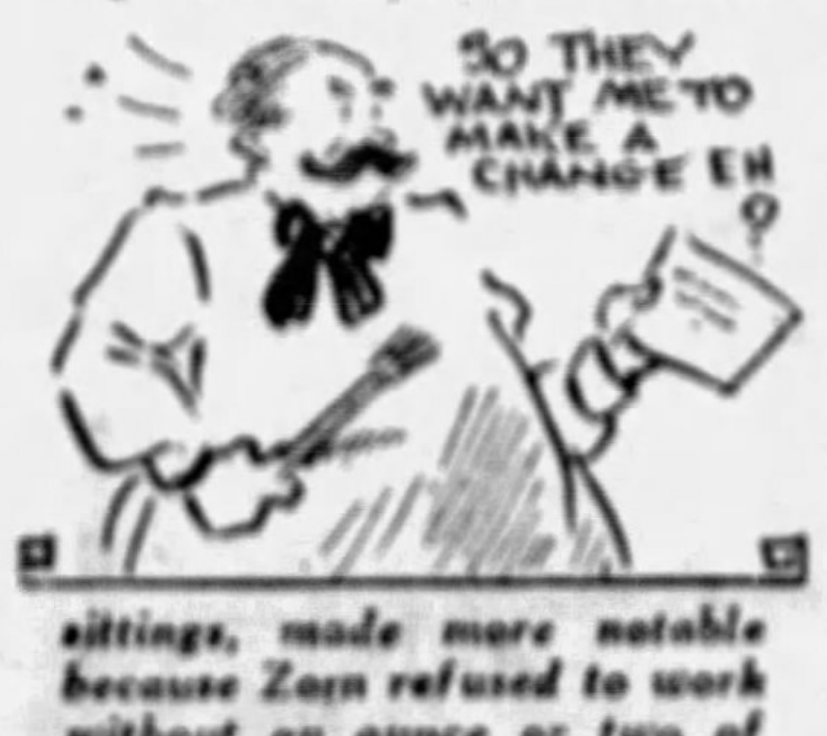
Of all the portraits which hang in Carnegie Museum, that of Andrew Carnegie probably owns the most admirers. It was painted by Andre Zorn years ago, expressly for the Museum.

Zorn came to Mr. Carnegie's Pittsburgh home from Europe for the assignment. The painting was completed in three sittings, made more notable because Zorn refused to work without an ounce or two of whisky always available to satisfy his thirst.



SO THEY WANT ME TO MAKE A CHANGE EH

Friends of Mr. Carnegie were not satisfied with the portrait and, months later, asked Zorn to return from Europe and brush it up here and there. His refusal contained a glowing description of the painting and a request for his fee—$8,000.

ABE MARTIN once observed that the first thing a fellow does when he's held up is to forget what he intended to do when he was held up. This conclusion might apply to the young woman, a well-known county employe, who is frank enough to tell what she did in the crisis.

She was in bed when she heard noises outside her unlocked door. Promptly she slid to her knees and prayed for courage and protection.

Minutes passed, the noises stopped. She opened the door and found looking up at her—the cat.

Auto Hurls Pebble, Shatters Window

A window in Dow's Drug Store at 701 Liberty avenue was broken last night by a pebble which glanced from beneath the wheel of an automobile. Pedestrians who were passing the store at the time narrowly escaped injury, police reported.

Will Rogers Says:

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 17.

LANDED here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by lamplight. Our Peace Pilgrims were due to arrive at Plymouth Rock this morning. Papers here announce the type of clothes to be worn at the opening by the King on Tuesday, and say everyone is to dress the same as the King.

I am here as official observer for the Democrats and social adviser to Senator Joe Robinson, minority member of the delegation, and I am going to have a tough time making that suit of Joe's look like anything the King ever owned, so if Joe and I don't get in you will know there wasn't anything we could put on that we would be mistaken for King George.

Yours,
WILL.

Lovejoy Promised Relief After Tom's Big Sale

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Happiness and love have remained steadfastly with Tom and Lovejoy Nicholson during their first year of married life. The arrival of Tom, Jr., brought more joy to the little green bungalow. Then comes Mrs. Aline Alderson, rich but childless neighbor, to sow the first seeds of discontent. When Tom refuses to go to the Aldersons' New Year's party, Lovejoy is incensed. Their first quarrel is patched up and they go to the party. Mrs. Alderson's husband is elderly. Lovejoy is glad she has Tom who has youth and looks if not money.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER IX.

SHE saw him jump out of his car and come tearing across the lawn like a boy.

And, like a boy, he took the front steps in his stride and came bursting into the living-room, slamming the front door behind him so that the whole house shook.

"Whatever brings you home at this hour?" Lovejoy asked him eagerly, in an excited whisper. The baby was having his afternoon nap at this hour.

"Good news," Tom answered. "Can't you see it written all over me like the headlines in a newspaper?—Lovejoy, we're made. I just sold Allen Alderson's company a gob of bonds as big as a house. A hundred of them."

Satisfaction beamed from his eyes and his whole face.

"But what does that mean? What does that mean to you and me in actual dollars and cents?" Lovejoy asked.

Like most women she did not understand the mysteries of her husband's business.

Tom laughed.

"Well, it means we'll have a little more money than we've been having," he explained. "And, besides that, it was a wonderful stroke of luck in another way. . . . You see after a fellow makes a big sale like this one of mine for Alderson, other people are likely to come to him for their bonds. It's a kind of advertisement."

He went on with his explanation.

But Lovejoy wasn't listening to him, although her gray eyes, with their flecks of gold, were fixed on his.

"It means more money," she was thinking. "More money at last!"

It meant that she could hire a girl to come in and help her with the housework and the baby, perhaps. . . . It meant that once in a while she could get out of the house and go down town to shop with Mrs. Alderson. . . . It meant freedom, on a small scale.

"And just think, this never would have happened to you, Tom," she said. "If you hadn't gone to the Aldersons' house on New Year's Day with me. . . . You see, we've got to get out and meet people. It's a help in your business to know people with money, isn't it?"

Tom nodded his dark handsome head. "Yes, I guess it is," he answered gravely. "And we've got to get out once in a while, anyway, Lovejoy. I can see that it's getting on your nerves to be cooped up in the house all the time."

He came across the room and took her in his arms, holding both of her small work-hardened hands in one of his big ones.

"The only kick I get out of making money is telling you about it," he went on, "and giving it to you to spend. . . . I want you to have all the things that other women have. New clothes and . . ."

"And some furniture of our own instead of this rented stuff!" Lovejoy finished the sentence for him. "Some silver for the table and a lace cloth like the one that Mrs. Alderson had on her table the other day. And a lot of lovely big fluffy bathtowels and bath-salts and a Pompadour silk bed-spread like the one I saw in Mrs. Alderson's bedroom."

Ever since New Year's day the little furnished house had struck Lovejoy with its cheapness and its shabbiness as it never had before. She had begun to hate the little place that had looked like an earthly Paradise to her only four months before.

She wanted a house like Aline Alderson's house now. . . . Thick soft rugs, wood fires, bowls of roses everywhere, silk curtains, hand-carved chairs and tables. . . .

"I'll never be satisfied with anything else," she told herself, when Tom had gone back to work and she was in the kitchen scraping carrots for supper.

Late that night when she went into the bedroom to turn down the covers and lay out the night-clothes, she stood looking at her plain muslin gown for a long time.

"I'll buy some silk ones as soon as Tom gets this money that's coming to him," she made up her mind, "and some French perfume."

She would find out what kind Aline Alderson used. It had a spicy smell like clove carnations. And what kind of face powder did she use to give her skin that pearly look?

"I'll find out and get some of that, too," Lovejoy promised herself.

Tom came in yawning. And together they tiptoed into the baby's room to see if he was covered.

She crossed the room to lower the window. Through it came the faint sound of music from the Aldersons' big house on the next street. All of the windows of the first floor were glowing with the light within.

"They're having a card party, I suppose," Lovejoy said when she was brushing her hair a little later. Her voice was wistful. She did love a good time.

"Tom, do hurry up and make lots of money!" she said, suddenly turning away from the mirror and facing him. "I can't wait to have a lovely house and a load of friends . . . and card parties and things . . . Tom, I just want everything!"

"You wouldn't trade places with your neighbors, would you?" he asked. "You'd rather be poor, the way we are, and and have the baby, wouldn't you, than be the Aldersons?"

"I'd rather be ourselves than be anybody," Lovejoy declared passionately. "And if we just get hold of some money, and make some friends and have some fun, I'll be the happiest woman in the world."

Tom kept his eyes on his book. But Lovejoy noticed that he did not turn a page for a long time . . . She wondered if she had hurt him by saying that.

"He's perfectly happy without any friends and without any money," she thought. "He wants just me and the baby. He's a born stay-at-home."

Well, she wasn't. She wanted something in life besides a

Vare-Wilson Votes Ordered Destroyed

The final chapter of the Vare-Wilson contest for the seat in the United States Senate was written yesterday when in answering Sergeant-at-Arms David S. Barry's inquiring to the commissioners as to what disposition should be made of records and ballots of the Allegheny County 1926 primary election, they advised him to destroy them.

New Settlement Building to be Dedicated

MEETS TO BRING 30,000 HERE

More than 30,000 persons will attend the annual conventions of 41 organizations in Pittsburgh between now and January 1, 1931, according to an estimate in a bulletin issued today by Mark W. Egan, manager of the conventions and visitors division of the Chamber of Commerce. Since October 1, 1927, 117,000 visitors and delegates have attended 148 conventions here.

The annual meeting of the National Safety Council next October will bring 6,000, it is estimated, while the convention of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States in July and the meetings of the Order of Amaranth of Pennsylvania in April will bring about 2,000.

3 AUTO VICTIMS SEEK $80,000

Suits seeking to recover damages aggregating $80,000 from John Magura, of Leetsdale, were filed in Common Pleas Court by Warren R. McMillen and his wife, Mrs. Hilda L. McMillen, of North Braddock, in behalf of themselves and their two minor children, Warren R., Jr., and Virginia.

Mrs. McMillen and the children were seriously injured when their car, parked on Brighton road, Ben Avon, November 24, was struck by the car of Magura, the suits allege. The collision was caused by two automobiles driving abreast over the brow of a hill, it was averred, charging Magura with negligence.

Navy Flier Saves Himself by Leaping

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 17.—(INS.)—Lieut. G. H. Debaun, Naval Aircraft Squadron, battle fleet, yesterday joined the "Caterpillar Club" when he jumped 4,000 feet and landed safely from his damaged airplane.

Debaun was practicing an inverted spin at 10,000 feet over Otay reservoir. At 4,000 feet the ship failed to right itself in response to the controls, Debaun reported.

M'KEE, HILLTOP LEADER, DIES

James F. MacKee, 75, president of the Graff Company, stove manufacturers, and the Monongahela Inclined Plane Company and vice president of the South Hills Trust Company, fell dead last night in his home, 602 Grandview avenue, Mt. Washington. He had presided at a meeting of the incline company earlier in the evening.

Born in Pittsburgh, he had lived for 45 years in Mt. Washington. He was a lifelong member of the Central Pittsburgh Reformed Presbyterian Church.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Minnie MacKee, and three sons, Frank H., James I. and Chester K. MacKee. The funeral will be held from the family home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial will be in Uniondale Cemetery.

DEDICATION AT SETTLEMENT

Observance of the thirty-fifth anniversary and dedication of a new addition will mark Founder's Day of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Saturday night.

The addition, erected at a cost of $650,000 and the gift of Henry Kaufmann, features modern facilities for many activities within the settlement's program. The dedication program will be staged in the new Theresa L. Kaufmann auditorium with Paul U. Kellogg, of New York, editor of "The Survey," as the principal speaker. His subject will be "The Settlements and the Times."

SPEAKING PROGRAM

Besides musical offerings, the program will include invocation by Rabbi Benjamin A. Lichter and welcome by S. Leo Rulander. Mrs. A. Leo Weil, honorary president, will speak on early days of the settlement and Nathaniel Spear will have as his subject, "The Settlement Grows Up." Other speakers and their subjects will be: A. Leo Weil, "The Settlement's Contribution to Pittsburgh;" Louis J. Affelder, "The New Building and the Present Settlement;" Sidney A. Teller, executive director, "The Future of the Settlement;" and Rabbi Samuel H. Goldenson, "Towards Neighborliness and Brotherhood."

Henry Kaufmann will make a few remarks and following the exercises will informally meet guests.

The new building will be open for inspection before and after the program. Among features of the addition, besides the auditorium that contains a stage and modern facilities of a theater, are a gymnasium, swimming pool, dancing, art and music studios, children's play rooms, social and recreation rooms.

BEGUN IN 1895

The settlement was begun in 1895 in a small house at 32 Townsend street by the Council of Jewish Women. It moved to the present location, 1835 Center avenue, in 1900, and until 1909 was known as the Columbian School and Settlement. Following the death of Irene Kaufmann, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kaufmann, $200,000 was given by them to erect a new building as a memorial to their daughter. This was dedicated in 1910.

PAUL U. KELLOGG

Mr. Kellogg, editor who will be the guest speaker at the dedicatory exercises tomorrow.

ODD FELLOWS TO HEAR DAVIS

Chief Justice H. M. Logan, of the Kentucky Supreme Court, grand sire of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis will be honor guests at a three-day rally of Western Pennsylvania Odd Fellows in Pittsburgh today, tomorrow and Sunday. Both will speak at tomorrow night's session in North Side Carnegie Hall.

Sessions were to start today in Odd Fellows Hall, Sarah and Eighteenth streets, South Side. A meeting and banquet will be held tomorrow afternoon and evening in the William Penn Hotel, preceding the North Side meeting.

Judge Logan will be among officers taking part in the dedication of the home for Rebekahs in Avalon Sunday.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: Have you broken your New Year's resolution?

W. O. BASKIN, North Side, ticket clerk: "No, but it is only a matter of luck that I didn't. At New Year's evening I resolved not to hire any taxicabs during 1930. I stuck to the resolution even though I do have a weakness for them, the cabs. Now that the strike occurred it is much easier to conform to the self-imposed restriction."

W. O. Baskin

* * *

MARG GRUSCH, North Side, file clerk: "I've kept mine to the letter. I am no longer seen in the company of a mustached gentleman. The hair on a man's lip has been my pet hate for some time so this year I decided to avoid the man who features it. Wouldn't I be out of luck if all men decided to grow mustaches?"

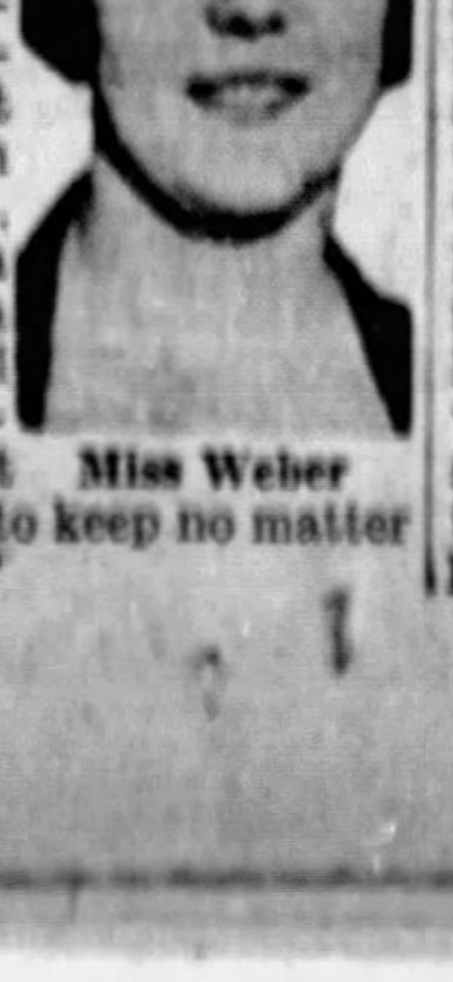
Miss Grusch

AUGUSTUS M'CUNE, downtown, publicity agent: "When the bells ceased ringing in the New Year I lit a cigar, smashing my little resolution to bits. The cigar, my friend for many years, would have been the victim of my little holiday joke—it was a joke. I certainly proved the old saying that resolutions were made to be broken."

A. McCune

* * *

ANN WEBER, Elliott, order clerk: "There's not one little break in my resolutions. I promised myself not to go out with men and not to get in anymore automobile wrecks. Last year I was in three accidents. This year not a one, but it's a long time 'till 1931. The resolution about dates is difficult to keep no matter how hard I try."



Miss Weber

JOSEPH CARTWRIGHT, East End, agent: "The old pledge has gone the way of them all. A fellow has to have a lot of will power to break away from tobacco and night clubs. I tried enough but just couldn't make the grade. Oh, well, 1931 may be my lucky year. One good thing: a person can always make new resolutions."

J. Cartwright

* * *

MILDRED CORNELIUS, West End, clerk: "I resolved to work harder in the New Year and be in the office on time every day. I suppose there have been little slips, but I'm trying and just trying helps a lot. We will never accomplish anything if we don't make a start. I've made the start and look with hope upon the end."

Sun-Telegraph Carriers To See Talkie Thriller

There is another treat in store for the home delivery carrier boys of the Sun-Telegraph. The management of the Olympic Theater, just turned into a first-run house, and Tiffany Pictures, Inc., have invited them to a special showing of "The Lost Zeppelin," an all-talking picture now on view in New York City at $2 a seat.

In these days when the conquest of the air offers thrill after thrill, when the world teems with adventure in the clouds, there could be nothing better in the way of entertainment for these youngsters who brave all kinds of weather to bring the Sun-Telegraph and all the news of the day to your door every night. It is in appreciation of this service that the Sun-Telegraph arranges for these theater parties from time to time.

The Olympic Theater party is scheduled for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp, and admission will be by ticket only. Boys will not be admitted unless they secure their tickets in advance and present them at the door of the theater.

It's a whale of a picture—just the kind that will make young and old stand on their toes with excitement. Aside from "The Lost Zeppelin," however, there will be comedies and news reels—a full two hours' show—all for the Sun-Telegraph home delivery boys.

'DETENTION' ROOMS FAIL TO DETAIN

Need for New Buildings To Halt Escapes Cited; Can't Lock Doors Now

"To the best of our knowledge there is not a city or county with a population approaching our which has so inadequate a juvenile detention home as that of Allegheny County," said W. H. Macafee, chairman of the board of managers of the home, in a statement issued today.

The statement, Macafee explained, is to refute any erroneous impressions about the home which may have been gained from reading recent publicity given to escapes of boys from the home.

"At present the situation at the home is deplorable," Macafee asserts, "and it is the profound hope of the board that the plans for a new home on which the county architect is working will be completed, approved by the county commissioners, and construction of the building begun as soon as possible this year.

PRESENT HOME "MAKESHIFT"

"It was for the purpose of rushing these plans to completion that the present board was selected by the judges of the local courts," he continued. "Every effort is being made to provide a modern detention home where juvenile wards of Allegheny County will be cared for intelligently and economically."

His statement explains that the juvenile home is now housed in four dilapidated residences in Fifth avenue, near Craft avenue, which he describes as "simply a makeshift." He reiterates the explanation given by Supt. A. L. Wills when boys have escaped that "the fire department has ordered that no doors in the buildings be locked," which "makes moral suasion the chief deterrent for runaways."

"Much ventilation is required. The only way to get it is by opening old-fashioned windows that offer no obstacle to escape," he said.

Toilet facilities in the buildings are "inadequate" and the dormitories are "often overcrowded." The present quarters are "hopelessly inadequate as a place of detention, where children emotionally upset and homesick run away, although their judgment under other conditions would tell them to remain."

DETROIT, Jan. 17.

AT a meeting of the British Naval League yesterday in London, they passed a resolution demanding that Great Britain be free to fix her own standard of naval needs. In other words, England will make no reduction that will in any way weaken the guaranty of imperial safety. Which means Great Britain will gladly give up all her row boats and canoes during the winter months.

In Atlantic City at the convention of American Roadbuilders' Association, Lem Baker, state highway commissioner of Tennessee, urges a back-to-the-farm movement. He claims that good roads will bring many city folks back to the farms.

Brother Baker, one more upheaval in the stock market and you will see a back-to-the-farm movement like there never was—roads or no roads.

HAL COFFMAN

It would be if men learned anything from their own mistakes or the mistakes of others.

A few do. Most don't, and that is why Mr. Coffman draws it.

There will always be large, plausible and friendly gentlemen to let us in on the ground floor, as this gentleman is doing.

There will always be little fellows to crowd in.

We are incredibly optimistic. Stung once, we come back for more, and LIKE it.

M'GINNESS OUT OF HALL FIGHT

Announcement of his resignation as a member of the Allegheny County Town Tall Association, an organization of business men interested in locating the proposed Town Hall in the downtown section, was made last night by J. E. McGinness.

"Since organization of the association one and a half years ago, many sites were considered both by our organization and the County Planning Commission and studies made of the same by my associates assisted by experts, at an outlay of considerable money," he said.

"All of the sites presented, which we were willing to consider, involved, for land and building, to $5,000,000 more than the $6,000,000 provided for in the Bond Lssue.

"One of the site proposed included property which I own, but which I did not consider in the interest of the public.

"Feeling that further activity in behalf of the Golden Triangle or Allegheny county would be futile and defeat the achievement sought for by the citizens of the county in appropriating the amount named, I have decided to withdraw."

PASTOR ADMITS ILLEGAL VOTE

The Rev. R. S. Young, of Glenshaw, testified in Quarter Sessions Court that he had been unknowingly violating the law for several years, and so had his family.

The pastor was a witness in the Shaler Township election contest filed by George P. Thomas against C. E. Cathers, president of the township board of commissioners. He alleged Cathers, who defeated him by seven votes for the commissionership at the November election, won by illegal votes, asserting that about 20 of Cathers adherents either did not live in the district or had not paid taxes.

The Rev. Mr. Young, his wife, two sons and daughter, all testified at the trial before Judge Thomas J. Ford, that they voted for Cathers, but had since learned that their residence was beyond the precinct line. Elmer Graham and his wife, who is Cather's daughter, admitted they live in a bungalow just outside the district, but maintained they live part of the time at Cather's house. Other witnesses admitted they had no tax receipts.

Attorney George Stambaugh is representing Thomas and Attorneys George F. P. Langfitt and William T. Kissler have charge of Cather's case. Their witnesses are testifying today.

CHARGES FALSE, MAN ASSERTS

Hearing was fixed for tomorrow on a writ of habeas corpus procured by Daniel S. Stone, of Homestead, ordered released under $2,500 bail by Judge Ambrose B. Reid, in Common Pleas Court, on his plea that he has been illegally imprisoned. Stone, who said that he is manager of a Homestead drug store, alleged that he was arrested Wednesday by Michael J. Maroney, Homestead police chief, without a warrant and lodged in the Homestead police station.

Stone averred that Maroney told him he received word from Chicago to make the arrest on charges that Stone was a confidence man, had been unfaithful and jumped bail of $5,000. Stone denied the charges and declared he had never given bail in Chicago for any offense and had, in fact, never been in Chicago except in passing through. His release on bail was ordered pending the hearing on the writ.

Mr. Mitchell was born in New Brighton and spent most all his life in the Beaver Valley. He was educated in the public schools of Beaver County and graduated from Cornell University. He began his professional career as a mechanical engineer for the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. Later he became manager of sales for the Pressed Steel Car Company and later acting president of the American Steel Company of Cuba. BUILDING TAX HERE HIGH

The average tax a square foot in high class office buildings in Baltimore is about 35 cents compared with from 50 to 60 cents in Pittsburgh, J. W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners and Managers Association wrote to President of Council John S. Herron.

Mr. Bamford, who was active in the unsuccessful battle to prevent an increase in city taxes, sent his letter to refute statements that while the Baltimore tax rate has been reduced the owners pay the same amount due to increased assessments.

He declared an investigation revealed that the 1922 tax rate for one Baltimore office building was $2.97 per hundred dollars and the total bill was $49,412. In 1929, he found, the tax rate on the same building was $2.38 and the total tax bill for it had been reduced to $39,508.

On another building, his investigation revealed, the 1922 tax bill was $17,350 while the 1929 bill was $14,445.

One of the contributing factors enabling Baltimore to lower their rate was that tax collections in 1922 averaged 80.7 per cent and this average increased to 95.8 percent in 1929, Bamford wrote.

Mr. Bamford said that statements that the owners of buildings in Baltimore still were paying the same amounts despite the reduced rates were made, he believed, by Councilman W. Y. English and City Assessor Thomas C. McMahon.

FOREIGN LABOR AT WORK HERE PROTESTED

Twenty-Seventh Ward Traders Urge Workmen Here Be Given Preference

The Twenty-seventh Ward Board of Trade has gone on record as opposed to the employment of out-of-town labor on county bond issue contracts.

At its monthly meeting, this week, the board adopted a resolution protesting to the County Commissioners against hiring of non-residents on the Ohio River boulevard and other projects when many Pittsburgh men are seeking employment.

"I have knowledge that Booth & Flinn, contractors on the Ohio River boulevard, bring men here from Ohio and Michigan and keep them in labor camps rather than employ laborers from this city," declared Alderman George A. Young, president of the board of trade.

"We think this is unfair to the people of Allegheny County, whose bond money is being used to build the Ohio River boulevard. We know that the commissioners are helpless as to the hiring of men by contractors, but we feel that it should be given consideration in the future award of contracts for public improvements."

"I am told that when men are to be laid off, the preference is given those men from out-of-town who live in the camps of the company."

Incline Transfer Plan Begins Monday

Effective next Monday, transfer privileges will be established by the Pittsburgh Railways Company permitting passengers originating on Grandview avenue to transfer to West End cars by way of the Duquesne Incline. In addition, passengers originating on Grandview avenue will be permitted to transfer to inbound Smithfield Street Bridge routes by way of the Monongahela Incline. These new transfer privileges do not include the incline fare. It was announced by the railways company that reverse privileges will also be established.

PLAYLETS USED IN CHEVROLET EXHIBIT

800 Dealers, Business Men Shown Extensive Methods Used to Market Models

The fashion in which selling, particularly automobile selling, has developed in the past 20 years was graphically demonstrated in Syria Mosque Temple during the annual winter dealer meeting being staged in Pittsburgh by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

More than 800 Chevrolet dealers, associated bankers and star salesmen of the Pittsburgh zone are in attendance at the meeting, the fourth of a series of 42 to be held throughout the United States. This evening they will be guests of the company at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel.

A series of playlets was used to dramatically outline the extensive methods now employed in selling automobiles, sharply contrasting with the indifferent practices in vogue in the horse and buggy days.

MILLIKEN SPEAKS

"Automobile selling has advanced enormously since the first automobile salesman sold the first automobile, but it remained for the Chevrolet Motor Company to borrow from the stage of its effectiveness in putting across a message.

"Twenty years ago it was common for an automobile manufacturer about to introduce a new model or to present a selling campaign, to send a factory representative to the dealer with a bundle of literature under his arm.

"The factory man showed the dealer photographs or sketches of the new line. He presented pamphlets on the advantages of the new car and offered suggestions on how to sell it.

"The bewildered dealer looked over the literature with a sceptical eye. He was not certain that the suggestions were right or suitable, nor certain even if the new car was an improvement over the old. If he accepted the suggestions it was with misgivings. If he acted on them his success was based on the inadequate and rather pitiful presentation made him by the factory man. That day is passed.

WARNED SALESMEN

"Today the alert manufacturer sends into the field trained factory officials schooled in every phase of retail automobile merchandising. They have no literature, paint no verbal pictures. Instead they present the actual car. They visualize every function of a dealership. Nothing is overlooked. The dealer becomes a looker-on of his ideal self in an ideal salesroom, conducting his service, accounting, selling in the most efficient fashion possible. By implication and indirection he is shown how he can improve himself, his business, his profits.

"We make this elaborate presentation because we realize that the success of the Chevrolet Motor Company is dependent on the welfare of the individual dealer. By showing him the proper way to conduct his business we make him a better dealer for himself, the company and the industry. We are able to conduct these meetings on this huge scale because of our tremendous manufacturing operations. With an output last year of more than 1,300,000 cars and trucks we have become the world's largest manufacturer of six-cylinder cars."

Over the whole Ohio valley and the lower Mississippi valley there was a slight rise in temperature and over Northern Montana, Alberta and Saskatchewan there was a marked rise. In Wyoming the temperatures range from 32 to 38 degrees below zero, which establishes a new low temperature record in the northern portion. PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Heading for Southland

SOME go east, and some go west, but most go down to Florida's shores. And all this going and plans for going have created an exhilirating atmosphere of excitement.

Among those who'll go to Florida is Miss Neil Stewart Zang, who will visit Clearwater. Mrs. Charles Wharton and Mrs. Thomas H. Bakewell are motoring to Daytona, Fla, I've been told.

And I hear that Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., will spend the later winter season in St. Petersburg, where there'll be a small Pittsburgh colony this year.

And Mrs. William Zang and her daughter Neil Stewart Zang, are in New York stopping at the Plaza. Before returning home they'll visit Stamford, Conn.

And I know of some more folks who are attracted to Daytona Beach, Fla. The George L. Claypools have arrived there and are occupying a suite at the Osceola Gramatan Inn.

The Henry C. Wards of the Ruskin apartments left this morning for Washington and later will go to Miami Beach, where they've taken an apartment in the Lincoln for the winter season. Before returning north in the spring the Wards will spend some time at the Boca Raton Club at Miami.

Did you know that Priscilla Hall, daughter of the William M. Halls, of Devonshire street, is in California? She'll return home the first of February.

Monday night the Clarence J. Cochranes, of Rutledge Hall, will leave for New York, and will sail on Saturday, January 25, for Bermuda. In New York they'll meet the Harold Dinkers, of Lansdale, who will go to Bermuda with them.

From Palm Beach comes the news that Mrs. Thomas Richard Cowell entertained at her new winter home with a tea on Wednesday.

* * *

AND the late winter has brought us another betrothal of two prominent society folks. The J. King Scotts have made known the engagement of their daughter Anne King Scott to John H. Ricketson III, son of the junior John H. Ricketsons of Ridge avenue, North Side. Anne made her debut here several seasons ago, and is a member of the Junior League. And her fiance is a prominent member of the younger set, and is on the committee for the cotillions, and is, of course, a cotillion leader.

* * *

AND I might add to the news of today that Miss Sara F. Ellis will entertain the senior class of the Ellis School at a tea in the College Club Wednesday.

MISS ELINORE SILVER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Silver, of South Atlantic avenue, and Harry Goldblatt, son of Mrs. Rose Goldblatt of West Park, were married on Sunday in the terrace garden of the Hotel Morrowfield by Rabbi B. A. Lichter of the Temple B'nai Israel, Negley avenue. The ceremony took place beneath a canopy of smilax and white carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin and a veil of white tulle. The veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones, and she carried roses and orange blossoms. Her sister, Mrs. Sara Smolevitz, was matron of honor and wore a gown of orchid trimmed with rhinestones and carried a bouquet of tea roses, orchids and lilies of the valley. Miss Katherine Davis, of Greensburg, was the maid of honor and wore eggshell satin and carried roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids, Miss Marion Levene, of Beaver Falls, and Miss Pedora Eisenberg, of Pittsburgh, wore bandeaux of camelias and gowns of beige and cerise. They carried sheaves of stock. The mother of the bride and Mrs. Goldblatt both wore black chiffon and old lace and corsages of roses and lilies of the valley. Small Eveline Gusky was flower girl.

Samuel Goldblatt was his brother's best man and the ushers were Aaron Silver, brother of the bride; Louis Swartz, the bride's uncle, of New York; David Macklin, of New York, and Joseph Cohan, of Pittsburgh.

The wedding was preceded by a dinner in the bride's home and after the wedding a reception was held in the Morrowfield ballroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldblatt sailed for Bermuda for a wedding trip and later will reside in West Park.

AN especially interesting program was given yesterday morning at the Epoch Club meeting in Mrs. Truman P. Gaylord's home, Jackson street. Mrs. E. J. Searles speaking with "Fifteen Minutes with an Amateur Versemaker" as her subject, read some of her own verses and told the circumstances which led to their being written. Several of these related to the club members. Mrs. Fred W. Scott gave a biographical sketch of Rudyard Kipling and read his "If," while rounding out the program came a combination offering by Mrs. J. Layng Hukill and Mrs. Lamont H. Button, Mrs. Hukill talking on modern poetry which Mrs. Button illustrated with readings. Epoch's next meeting will be a guest afternoon in Mrs. Norman W. Storer's home, Reynolds street.

ATELIERS CENTER MUCH INTEREST ON DECOLLETAGE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph

PARIS, Jan 17.—The back is still to the front in the scheme of things sartorial. Panels, bustle effects, trimmings at the base of the back decolletage, tiers, these are just some of the clever treatments resorted to by the designers to obtain back interest. The line in front is as a rule smooth, straight and unbroken, and together with the elaborate back, creates a frock of charm and originality. The decolletage at back is very deep, making the cultivation of a flawless back a necessity as well as a duty. Fashion demands beauty in order to bestow it, and so the style of today makes it incumbent on us to look our best in order to live up to the mode in all its appealing charm and grace. The hoyden with mannish stride and brusque gestures has no place in the scheme of things, and has almost over night transformed herself into a graceful young woman without yielding any of her charm or bounteous vitality. Another score in the favor of fashion, and another argument with which to annihilate those carping critics of the mode who complain that is fosters only extravagance, and breeds selfishness.

• • •

AS a practical example of the treatment accorded to the back of the gown, we send you a sketch of a gown worn by Lady Abdy at Ciro's last Friday night. The frock is of dahlia velvet. The three-tiered flounced effect is had only at the back, and the front of the bodice is plain and bloused beneath a narrow belt. The deep flounce on the skirt, is, however, an all-around affair. The interesting sandals are made of strips of dahlia satin.

• • •

THE VERY interesting collection shown by Jane Regny included some delightful sports clothes developed in heavy hand-knit jersey that perfectly simulates tweed. We have sketched for your interest one of the smartest of these frocks. It is in green and gray, the green predominating, and has a diagonal ribbed effect. The kimona sleeve bodice is bloused more in back than at front and at a high waistline.

• • •

IT fastens at the side with jersey covered buttons, and being a true sports frock scorns any other trimming but the fabric covered buttons, obtaining its effect through the medium of the fabric and line. The circular skirt is set on a shallow yoke at the hips, and like the bodice buttons at one side.

CLUB NOTES

SOME results of the Rollins College system which has abolished rules, lectures and recitations and given the students control of their own leisure, were related by the president, Dr. Hamilton Holt, last night when he spoke at the opening budget campaign dinner of the Pittsburgh Young Women's Christian Association. Barriers have been broken down between students and teachers and education has become a major sport at Rollins, Dr. Holt stated.

He was given a richly humorous introduction by Dr. Thomas Arbuthnot, a Yale classmate. Miss Ida M. Fullerton, chairman of the annual budget drive for $140,000, presided, but gave place to Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield during the business session, when the following ticket was elected: Directors, Miss Mabel L. Gillespie, Mrs. Charles H. Spencer, Miss Annie D. Campbell, Miss Jean C. McKinney, Mrs. Gibson Packer; nominating committee, Mrs. R. D. Campbell, Mrs. E. E. Cole, Mrs. Charles Longenecker, Miss Laetitia Hunter and Mrs. Samuel Hamilton. "Much Ado About Ducats," an hilariously funny take-off on a financial campaign, the lines of which are put into the mouths of Shakespearean characters, was amusingly presented by a group of Central branch secretaries, Norma Seal, Dorothy Moore, Dorothy Naumann, Pauline Kinsinger, Mrs. Verna Nelson, Grace Wilson and Mary Katherine Hubbard.

* * *

THE first affair to be given in the remodeled clubhouse by the Carrick Mothers' Club will be a dinner from 5 until 7 o'clock Wednesday. The committee in charge includes Mrs. John M. Phillips, Mrs. Sarah R. Pierce, Mrs. Trott, Mrs. Susan B. Kirk, Mrs. Frank Beech, Mrs. John Anderson, Mrs. William Colteryahn, Mrs. E. R. Davis, Mrs. Clyde Cain, Mrs. W. H. McComb, Mrs. M. A. Keffer and Mrs. John Robson, all past presidents of the organization.

Sisterhood Hears Talk By Curtis

AN eleventh hour substitution brought Dr. Heber D. Curtis in place of the Rev. Dr. Nathan Krass as speaker to the Rodef Shalom Sisterhood for its reciprocity day yesterday. And it was, as the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson pointed out, a three-fold demonstration of reciprocity—reciprocity between the Sisterhood and the other Jewish women's organizations, reciprocity between Christian and Jew and between scientist and religionist. Dr. Curtis took Dr. Krass' subject, "Will Science Supplant Religion?", and gave it a most comprehensive discussion.

"Will science supplant art, poetry, love of the truth or ever cut out from our higher existence the things of the spirit?" Dr. Curtis queried. He quoted from the great English physicist, Eddington, "Life would be stunted and narrow if we could find no significance in the world about us beyond that which can be measured by the tools of the physicist or described by the symbols of the mathematician." He closed with Lord Kelvin's words: "If you think strongly you will be forced by science to a belief in God, which is the foundation of all religion."

Mrs. Saul Lavine welcomed the large assemblage of members and guests and Mrs. Leo Half, president of the Conference of Jewish Women's Organizations responded. There was the usual social hour to close the afternoon.

THE annual election of officers will take place Tuesday at the meeting of the Woman's Club of the City of Pittsburgh in the Congress clubhouse. Mrs. J. C. Wanner and Mrs. Harry Wilson will serve as registrars.

MONONGAHELA MILLS GAIN

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 17—The resumption of the Allenport plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Company has provided employment for 400. The American Steel and Wire Company, of Donora, has recovered from a brief depression, and production in all departments is on a par with pre-Christmas output. The Donora mills, which normally employ 4,200 men, are being enlarged.

The Monessen mills are working steadily. Confidence in 1930 was indicated with the opening of additional departments this week. The Pittsburgh Steel Company has announced an early start on the $4,000,000 by-products plant which will be constructed at Gibsonton, opposite Charleroi. The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad will have completed the double-deck bridge across the Monongahela River at Speers by July and will link the Monessen and Allenport plants of the Pittsburgh Steel Company.

Estimates compounded by the Chambers of Commerce of Charleroi, Monessen and Donora indicate an expenditure of more than $11,550,000 within the next two years for industrial improvement and enlargement.

MARKETING ACT CALLED PERIL

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17—(AP)—John G. McHugh, secretary of the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, attacked the Agricultural Marketing Act under which the Federal Farm Board is operating as "the most socialistic piece of legislation ever enacted by Congress."

McHugh said there was no reason to believe that the Agricultural Market Act would solve the farm problem and asserted that it threatened to drive out of business many lines of activity related to farm products.

No government-aided system can operate as efficiently and economically at so low a cost to the producers as the present grain market system, he said. He declared the farm board has been forced to acknowledge its inability to raise wheat prices or even to maintain them.

Nail Found in Egg

MRS. G. E. TAYLOR, owner of a grocery at Beaumont, Tex., found a nail in a hen egg which was normal otherwise.

DAILY TRUE STORY

THE SPITE FENCE

WHEN Peter Stiles and his wife took Marie Haynes, his orphaned niece, to live with them, there were people in Maplewood who said that it was a mighty nice thing to do.

Those people were the ones that didn't know Peter so very well.

Others, who had known Peter for years, were surprised, and wondered why he did it. Some of the more catty ones said that he took in the little girl so that when she got older he would have a maid in the home at the mere cost of board and a few clothes.

The Stiles cottage was next to Mrs. Ryerson's rather pretentious place with its narrow but wellkept side lawn.

Jack Ryerson, being five years older than Marie, paid little heed to her when she arrived at the Stiles home. To Jack the little girl was just a "kid" and a big boy of 12 couldn't waste his time nor endanger his reputation for manliness by playing with her.

There were days, now and then, when Marie would trot over and sit and watch Jack build scooters from discarded roller skates, or do other boyish tasks. Jack permitted Marie to pass him the hammer or hand nails to him. Marie thought it wonderful.

"Marie's a rather nice little kid," Jack said to his mother, and then added, hastily, "for a girl."

Mrs. Ryerson agreed.

And then Jack went away to school and after three years came home for vacation wearing—in Marie's eyes—the most gorgeous uniform imaginable—light blue with gold buttons and stripes down the long trousers and a cap with a hard visor, just like pictures in books of brave soldiers.

Marie would come over and stare at Jack and touch the shiny gilt buttons and one dull day Jack gave her an old wooden gun he used to play with when he was a kid—he was 15 at this time—and put Marie through the manual of arms, to her utter delight.

Jack could have told her that he never did care much for him, but he simply said, "That so, girlie?"

"Uncle Peter said it was wicked to go and learn to be a soldier because it was wicked to have wars," Marie said solemnly.

Mrs. Ryerson, who overheard it, tried to explain that Jack was not learning to be a soldier, but just getting an education, and the military part of it kept him strong and healthy.

"He's awful strong now," Marie said, staring at Jack with an adoration in her eyes few males, whether adolescent or mature, ever get from women.

"And so handsome," Marie added.

Mrs. Ryerson turned away to hide a delighted grin and Jack flushed and said, "Aw, now, don't be funny, Kid."

"Honest," Marie declared.

By the time Jack was ready to go away to college Marie was at the terribly awkward age. Jack used to tease her and call her "skinny," and tell her that she had two left feet. He never knew how this hurt Marie.

By the time Jack was through college and ready to take a partnership in a new real estate company Marie had lost her awkwardness.

Not only had she lost her awkwardness, but she had blossomed forth into about as pretty and 18-year-old girl as one could find in Maplewood, or 50 other towns.

Jack was amazed. Somehow it had come to him all of a sudden that that scrawny, awkward little Marie Haynes had disappeared, and here was a beautiful young lady in her place.

"If the girl had only half a chance," Jack's mother said when he remarked on her beauty, "she would be wonderful, but her uncle makes her do most of the work and the cheap clothes he provides is a shame."

But Marie seemed to make the best of it.

She told Jack frankly enough, but with delicious color racing across her velvety cheeks, that it was splendid to see him home again.

"Some fairy godmother must have done a Cinderella act to you, Marie," Jack answered.

Marie flushed.

"I look more like Cinderella in the corner before the fairy godmother arrived," she said, and then, "but who am I to murmur?"

This made Jack uneasy. He knew that she referred to her shabby clothes. But he was tactful.

"I mean that you have suddenly lost your awkwardness and have developed into—well—you turned out to be one mighty pretty girl, Marie."

"Do you really think so, Jack?"

"For Pete's sake, Marie, didn't you ever look in a mirror?"

"Well," she said and hesitated.

Her Uncle Peter was calling to her to come in.

"Well," she repeated, speaking rapidly, "you grow easier to look at every day, Jack," and she turned and ran in.

The Marley sisters strolled along and paused to greet Jack and as he chatted aimlessly with them he was thinking how Marie would put them utterly in the shade if she could have the nice clothes they could afford.

A little later he was telling himself that even in her poorly fitting, out-of-style clothes she was ten times as attractive as the Marley sisters—or any other girl he had ever seen.

In the midst of some busy days planning a new real estate development and examining a "model home open for inspection" the thought came to Jack that Marie would certainly adorn a home like that.

"Here, here, old man," he muttered to himself, "you'll be falling in love, next thing you know."

But he knew well enough that there was no future tense to it—the situation was even then in the present tense—he was in love with Marie.

Jack had to go to the adjoining town to open up a branch office. Whenever he was home—evenings, Sundays and holidays are the real estate man's busiest work days—he tried to see Marie.

"Sorry, Mrs. Ryerson," said Peter, "but that's my line. You've been using it all these years for nothing."

Mrs. Ryerson acted promptly. She got her lawyer, a civil engineer and her deed, all up there within 20 minutes, and stood guard so no destroying spade could uproot her peonies and phlox.

The civil engineer found that the Stiles boundary line came nowhere near the phlox. In fact, the path along the side of his house was actually half-way over on the Ryerson property!

When Jack got home he and Marie talked it over. They were glad no more trouble had come. Jack even suggested to his mother that she give Peter the foot of land that put her line down through the middle of his side path.

"I offered it to him, but he said that if he accepted it it would be an admission that his boundary was there, and he is going to take it to court," Mrs. Ryerson explained.

The second time Marie and Jack were talking it over Peter Stiles called her in.

"Come off that robber's land," he yelled, "and don't you ever speak to any of them people again!"

"What will we do?" whispered Marie.

"I'll fix up a plan, dear," Jack told her.

"Get off my property, Stiles," Jack said, "and remember that I wouldn't have minded only you tried to be rough to my guest."

"Guest? She's my niece!" Peter snarled.

"That is her hard luck. My good luck is that she happens to be my guest for the moment—get back on your land!"

Peter walked back and yelled to Marie.

"Yes, Uncle," she said.

"I'll 'uncle' you!" he shouted.

Jack walked to the line with her.

"Listen, Stiles, if you so much as lay a finger on Marie I'll slap your ears down. I'll spank you with a canoe paddle. I'll do everything except sock you—I won't hit an old man."

"I never hit a woman yet," Peter said, a little abashed.

"That's because you couldn't see any profit in it!" Jack replied, his temper oozing fast.

"Jack, dear—please," said Marie.

"March into the house," ordered Peter.

Marie obeyed.

After two weeks Jack managed to meet Marie down at the store. She told him her uncle threatened to do everything if she even spoke to him again.

That night Jack tied a note to his telescope fishing rod and tapped the window to Marie's room, which looked over his lawn. She got the note. Half an hour later he held up the rod and she tied on a reply.

In the middle of the following week Jack got a telephone call from his mother. He was still in the adjoining town, breaking in a new branch manager.

"Don't worry—that's a dear—I'll fix things when I get home," he promised.

When he got home he saw the fence, built right along the middle of his walk, so as to be sure and not get on Ryerson's land. The fence went up almost to the top of the second-story window.

Jack studied the situation.

That night Jack was out with his telescope rod. He had bought a new and longer one. He cast the line over and dangled it and after a while felt a tug. Marie had got the note, despite the high fence, for that fence wasn't more than a couple of feet from the side of the house.

Marie answered the note.

For three hours, in darkness, they exchanged notes. Then Jack went home. The week that followed inclined Peter Stiles to believe that he had broken up the silly affair. Marie went singing about her work.

Then one dark night Jack went out there with a thin-bladed saw and a can of grease and a rag. By keeping the saw well greased he noiselessly cut almost through each of the fence posts—cutting through evenly from his side.

Then he lifted a note over with his rod.

The little sinker ticked the glass of another window as it swung out and Peter heard it. He sneaked out and squeezed himself between his spite fence and his house to get under Marie's window—he thought that something was up.

Jack didn't know Stiles was back of the fence. His plans were made. He suddenly threw himself against that fence as if making a football tackle.

The fence, which each post practically severed, fell over against the house with a great thud, leaving the top of Marie's window exposed.

There was a lot of yelling and something close to curses from the supposedly pious Peter Stiles, because he was wedged in between his spite fence and his house.

"Come on, dear—slide!" shouted Jack.

Down came her suitcase. Marie followed and slid down the sloping spite fence into Jack's arms.

Jack put Marie into his car and they drove away from there; they drove all through the night and over into another state, where they were married.

It took Jack's mother half an hour with a crow-bar for a lever to release Peter Stiles. His wife slept through it all.

The lumber from the spite fence made a nice poultry house for Peter, but he has to care for the hens himself.

By FAY KING

MANY a beautiful woman has come to an end of regret and dispair because she has followed the dictates of vanity rather than her heart.

She had put out of life the sincere love of a man who adored and respected her, to cast her lot with men who were more able to cater to her vanity, and paraded her in public places as one of the luxuries they could afford.

Vanity has destroyed many women.

Vanity is the chaff of life.

Being the toast of the town for a brief time appealed more to her vanity than being always the unsung shrine of one man's love.

When she is forgotten and alone she sees the fallacy of the mirage she preferred to marriage.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mary Is First of Romancers to 'Break'

MARY'S face was flushed, her eyes glittering feverishly, as she leaned over my desk in the corner of the Underwood living room and told me she must talk to me. Harry Underwood's prophecy was coming true, I saw. "Sooner or later Mary will crack under the strain," he had said, and I knew what I must do for my husband's winsome niece.

"Steady, dear!" I whispered. "Of course you shall come to me. But not just now. We mustn't attract attention. Go back to your work, and after I have been gone about ten minutes come to my room. I'll go over in about five minutes. Pull yourself together, child. You're not going to let her see you like this, are you?"

It was the fillip she needed. Any reference to the Princess Olina was a spur to her pride and her temper at any time. It was especially roweling at this hour of her threatened collapse, and she threw up her head with the fever in her eyes changing to grim determination.

"Thank you, Auntie Madge," she said aloud, with a fine pretense. "It's all straight in my head now. If I get stuck again I'll call on you. You're sure a first aid kit all by yourself."

She sauntered back to the table at which she was working across from Prince Georges. She was a picture to fill any man's eyes with admiration, but I noticed that he only returned her bright, laughing glance with one of answering mirth, and then went back to the papers on the table in front of him. That her outrageous behavior of the day before was mirroring itself in his remembrance I was as sure as I was that her undeniably strong attraction for him was being dwarfed by his consciousness that he was very near to a throne and needed a woman to share it who would respect its traditions.

Then, too, Princess Olina was very lovely. I made the mental comment that I never had seen her look better as she sat at the table opposite Noel, looking exceedingly remote and haughty as Noel devotedly performed not only his own task, but most of hers as well. Pallor becomes her, and her dusky hair and great pansy eyes were never more striking. She was something exotic, and I could visualize what a wonderful picture she would be in coronation robes. I wondered if Prince Georges, so near a kingdom, might not be thinking the same thing.

But it was not Prince Georges' reaction to Olina's charms which was torturing Mary. I knew that, of curse, but she made it concrete when at the end of the time I had named she came to me in my room, turning and locking the door dramatically as she entered.

"I don't have to act a part now, do I?" she demanded.

"No, dear," I returned, and Mary went into action, striding up and down the room, uttering the most astonishing anathemas against Olina—most of them silly epithets which she had picked up at her school, but some of them of stronger flavor. But I knew better than to interfere. It was better for her to explode in this way than in the storm of sobs and tears and hysterical laughter which I had feared.

"Did you see her leaning back and letting Noel do all her work, just as if he were a lackey?" she demanded at last, whirling upon me. I nodded. She gave me no time to do anything, for she flung herself on the floor at my feet, resting upon her knees, with her arms crossed upon mine and looking anxiously up into my face.

"Do you know, Auntie Madge, I'm afraid Noel is falling for her. I thought he was acting a part because of his father—he was at first, I know—but lately—why, Auntie Madge, he never looks at me any more, never. And the way his eyes talk to her—oh! I just can't stand it. I'll—I'll——"

"Mary," I said sternly, at the end of my patience, "stop using this atrocious language. I want to help you, but——"

She looked up at me piteously, and I thought that the man who first spoke of the eyes of a wonderful fawn had made a wonderful discovery in similes.

"Oh, I know I'm awful," she said, "but don't you see, Auntie Madge, if I don't talk this way I shall scream. I'm—I'm so miserable, and she has done it all."

Her voice broke into a choking sob, and now for the first time I marvelled at the frankness of the modern girl. At her age I would have died rather than tell some woman relative of anguished suffered because the young man of my heart loved someone else. Fortunately, I had no such experience in my early girlhood, but I knew enough of the standards which prevailed to be astonished at Mary.

However, not surprise but sympathy was the emotion I wished to convey to her, and I took her face in my hands and looked down at her steadily.

"Noel has not changed in the least," I said. "He is acting this way because I asked him to play the part so that Olina would get tired of his apparent devotion. But he loves you loyally—all the more, I think, because he promised to let no one, not even you, have a glimpse of his real feeling."

Incredulity, doubt, gradual conviction, belief, joy, passed in little waves over her face. Then she sprang to her feet, hugged me ecstatically and whirled toward the door.

"The darling old trouper!" she said. "And I doubted him! Just watch my smoke. I'm going to stage a performance that will make his look like the small time."

"Stop!" I gasped. "Come back here! What are you going to do?"

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Keeping Up With Mother!

THE modern woman may be put on a diet, on an allowance, on a jury or a committee, but never on the SHELF!

* * *

We may have lost our Santa Claus, but that old goblin—the fear of being "shelved"—has disappeared along with him. The average girl's problem is not how to keep Mother up-to-date, but how to keep her DOWN.

* * *

If you tried to put Mother on the shelf she would probably swing right off it, with that clever little bar-trick she learned at the gym last week.

* * *

If you handed her a lace cap and told her to go sit in a corner and "set an example," she would promptly toss the cap over the windmill, and tell you to be yourself! She may set a precedent or a fashion—or a pace—but if you MUST have an "example," go look at Queen Mary.

* * *

If you handed her a pair of knitting needles and a ball of yarn she'd laugh, and tell you to leave that to the younger generation.

* * *

Yet Mother's hands are never idle. If they aren't busy with a vibrator, a pack of cards or a club gavel, they are at the wheel of the car or at the business end of a golf-stick.

* * *

If you put Mother's feet on a footstool and told her to keep them there, you'd find that, at the first wail of a saxophone, the first note of the Opera Season, or the first call of Spring, she'd be off and away!

* * *

* * *

You can't "go home to Mother," and take the baby, when marriage disappoints you, or your husband doesn't appreciate you. For like as not, you'll find the Old Homestead dark and deserted, the key under the mat, and nothing in the icebox but Mother's "beauty pack."

* * *

Mother MAY be out attending a christening—the christening of a new battleship, or a new set of by-laws for her latest club. Or she may be "sitting up with the sick"—nursing along a new-born political movement.

* * *

You can lay your head on Mother's bosom and sob it all out, but do be careful not to crush her shoulder-corsage or to scratch yourself on a committee pin. You can bring all your troubles to Mother's knee, but don't start a run in her invisible silk stockings!

* * *

In short, Mother is not the "comfort" she used to be. She is the PRIDE of the family now! And its greatest puzzle!

* * *

But don't look for her in the sewing room, the pantry, the chimney corner, in the old rocking-chair—or on the SHELF! Because "the shelf" for women disappeared with Santa Claus!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

That Introduction

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please tell me the proper way to introduce one's husband to a lady and to older men? MRS. L. B. D.

YOU introduce your husband to the lady, not the lady to your husband, dear Mrs. D., for a gentleman is introduced to a lady. And the best way to make this introduction is "Mrs. Morris, may I introduce (or present) my husband?" or "Mrs. Morris, this is my husband," or if you wish to be more informal and casual, this form may be used: "Mrs. Morris, my husband." If both have heard much of each other, you may use the most informal manner of making this kind of introduction, "Mary, this is Tom."

When two gentlemen are introduced to each other, usually the person introducing uses only the names: "Mr. Morris, Mr. Brown." If one gentleman is much older than the other, or if one is an especially distinguished gentleman, the formal type of introduction may be used: "Mr. Famousman, may I present Mr. Westwood?"

After Theater Suppers

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I go out frequently with young men, and after a show or dance they usually suggest going some place to eat. I always decline, because I am at a loss as to what to order. Won't you please give me a few hints? WANTS TO KNOW.

I HAVE a very full list of suggestions of things to order after the theater. I recorded everything I could think of, from the humble roll and coffee to the patrician dishes "under glass." Would you like a copy of it? It is called "After-Theater Eats," and if you'll send me an addressed envelope I shall be most happy to send you a copy.

The Knife and Fork

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Should the sherbet be eaten before or after the meat?

2. Is it correct, when dining, to cut the meat, lay down the knife and change the fork to the right hand and pick up the food, or should one use the fork in the right hand only for salads? T. B.

1. THIS depends on its appropriateness to the course.

2. This is just as one chooses. And there is always a great deal of controversy on this subject. Usually well-bred foreigners eat in what is called the non-fork shifting method of eating. That is, they cut off a piece of meat, say, with the knife in the right hand and the fork in the left, and convey the piece of meat to the mouth with the fork still held in the left hand. The knife is held in the right hand, as a convenient "pusher," taking the place of the piece of bread that is often seen as a pusher.

In the fork-shifting method of eating, the diner cuts his piece of meat with the knife in the right hand, of course, and then places his knife on the plate, transfers his fork to the right hand and conveys the piece of meat to the mouth with his fork in the right hand.

The Proper Introduction

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

How should I introduce a girl friend to my mother?

2. Do you like my writing paper? BEATRICE.

"MOTHER, this is Miss Alice Rule," or "Mother, this is Miss Rule," or "Mother, this is Alice Rule."

2. Yes, pretty well. It is a bit too vivid for my taste. The same kind in a lighter blue or in white or light gray would have been so much better, I think. It is of a good texture, however, and of excellent size for your handwriting.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Sound Mind and Body the Best Heritage

MENTAL health means the ability to adjust one's self successfully to economic and social needs, just as physical environment.

DR. COPELAND

The present-day study of mental health is an effort, not only to find out just what is normal human behavior, the proper treatment of crime and insanity, and the failure of meting out cure and punishment, but of finding the causes of mental ill health, so that future generations may be protected. This is important because there is a constant increase in the number of people suffering from mental ills in this country today.

At a recent meeting of the New York Academy of Medicine, Mr. Clifford W. Beers, founder of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene gave the following interesting statement:

He said that there are about 400,000 patients suffering from mental ills at the present time, as compared with 187,000 20 years ago. The number is increasing at the rate of about 10,000 a year. This is a very grave problem for public consideration.

Mr. Beers declares that this great increase calls for the provision of more hospitals and medical care than the country now has. Provision must be made to cope with this very great menace to the public health for generations to come. Intensive efforts must be made to prevent the thousands of curable cases from becoming incurable through neglect and ignorance.

These statistics are interesting to every layman because the burden of care of these incurable mental patients will fall on the taxpayer, as well as on the family and state. Here, again, we see the necessity for preventive measures to protect the public health and to safeguard future generations.

Recent research brings much of the blame of crime, insanity and failure back to the home. Mental hygienists are stressing one great point, and that is in most cases of extreme nervousness in children, in many cases of delinquency, in some cases of insanity, as well as in almost all cases of conduct disorder, the trail leads directly back to the home and parents. They agree that the final responsibility for the mental health lies in the home.

Fortunate is the child whose parents appreciate the importance of a good start in life, and are able to give him a heritage of sound physical and mental health.

LOVEJOY :: By BEATRICE BURTON

sit-by-the-fire career—and she was going to have it . . . She wanted something in it besides just work and a family.

Life ought to be so wonderful . . .

Early next morning, while Lovejoy was doing the breakfast dishes, Mrs. Alderson came running up the back steps and knocked on the glass pane of the back door.

Her face and hair and her fur coat were powdered with rain drops. She was breathless from her run, and she looked excited.

"A long distance call just came in over at my house for me," she said, dropping down on the chair beside the kitchen door and throwing back her wet coat, "and I told the telephone operator to switch it over here to your telephone. Do you mind?"

"Of course not," she said, plunging her hands back into the dishwater.

"Our telephone is out of order," her neighbor explained. "I could hardly hear Central . . . By the way has your husband told you about all the bonds he sold my husband yesterday?"

Lovejoy nodded. "Yes . . . and we're both so grateful to him," she said heartily. "It means some extra money for us—and we surely can use it."

"Be grateful to me, instead," Mrs. Alderson cried. "I knew he was thinking of buying some bonds and I asked him to get them from your husband. I had an idea you needed all the money you could get, with your new baby and so on."

Once more Lovejoy nodded her bright head . . . But she said nothing. It hurt her feelings to be told that she and Tom were poor.

And yet any one with half an eye could see how poor they were.

"There's my call!" Mrs. Alderson's voice shook with her excitement as she jumped up and ran to answer the phone.

She closed the kitchen door behind her. Then, a second later, Lovejoy heard her close the door of the dining room.

But the walls of the little house were thin, and she could not help hearing every word that Mrs. Alderson spoke.

WALSKA WINS DUTY FIGHT

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Madame Ganna Walska McCormick, wife of Harold F. McCormick of Chicago, has won exemption from customs duty by decision of the third division of the United States Customs Court.

The decision held that her legal residence is in France and explained that the legal status of a married woman has changed so greatly in recent years that in most states she stands on terms of equality with her husband.

The decision ended a case started a year ago when customs officials held Madame McCormick liable to duty on $2,000,000 worth of personal effects she brought with her from abroad when she came to visit her husband.

For the purpose of the test case duty was paid under protest on a coat. The other articles were left with customs officials until she returned to her Paris home last March.

A concurring opinion filed by Justice Genevieve R. Cline, the only woman member of the court and the first woman appointed to a place in the federal judiciary, made a vigorous plea for recognition of the rights of women.

MEXICAN REDS FACE EXILE

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The attorney general of Mexico has announced that a thorough investigation would be made into Communist demonstrations in front of the Mexican embassies in Washington and Buenos Aires. He said that if it was found the incidents were organized from Mexico, all those implicated would be deported.

The announcement was the result of a statement by Mexican Communists published in newspapers here in which they said they were responsible for the demonstrations. The statement was issued as a denial of reports that the Russian government had organized the affairs. It came from the Mexican Chapter of the International Red Aid Society and claimed that the society had instigated the Washington and Buenos Aires demonstrations.

Health Leaders Acclaim Herbal Flaxolyn Discoverer

Tired-out, Run-down, Weak, Nervous, Sick and Ailing People Show Quick Improvement

DR. HARRIS H. LUNTZ (M. D., D. O.) who has devoted 25 years to the perfection of liquid Flaxolyn, which has become sensationally successful. The deman has become so great that whole trainloads have been required to keep the druggists stocked.

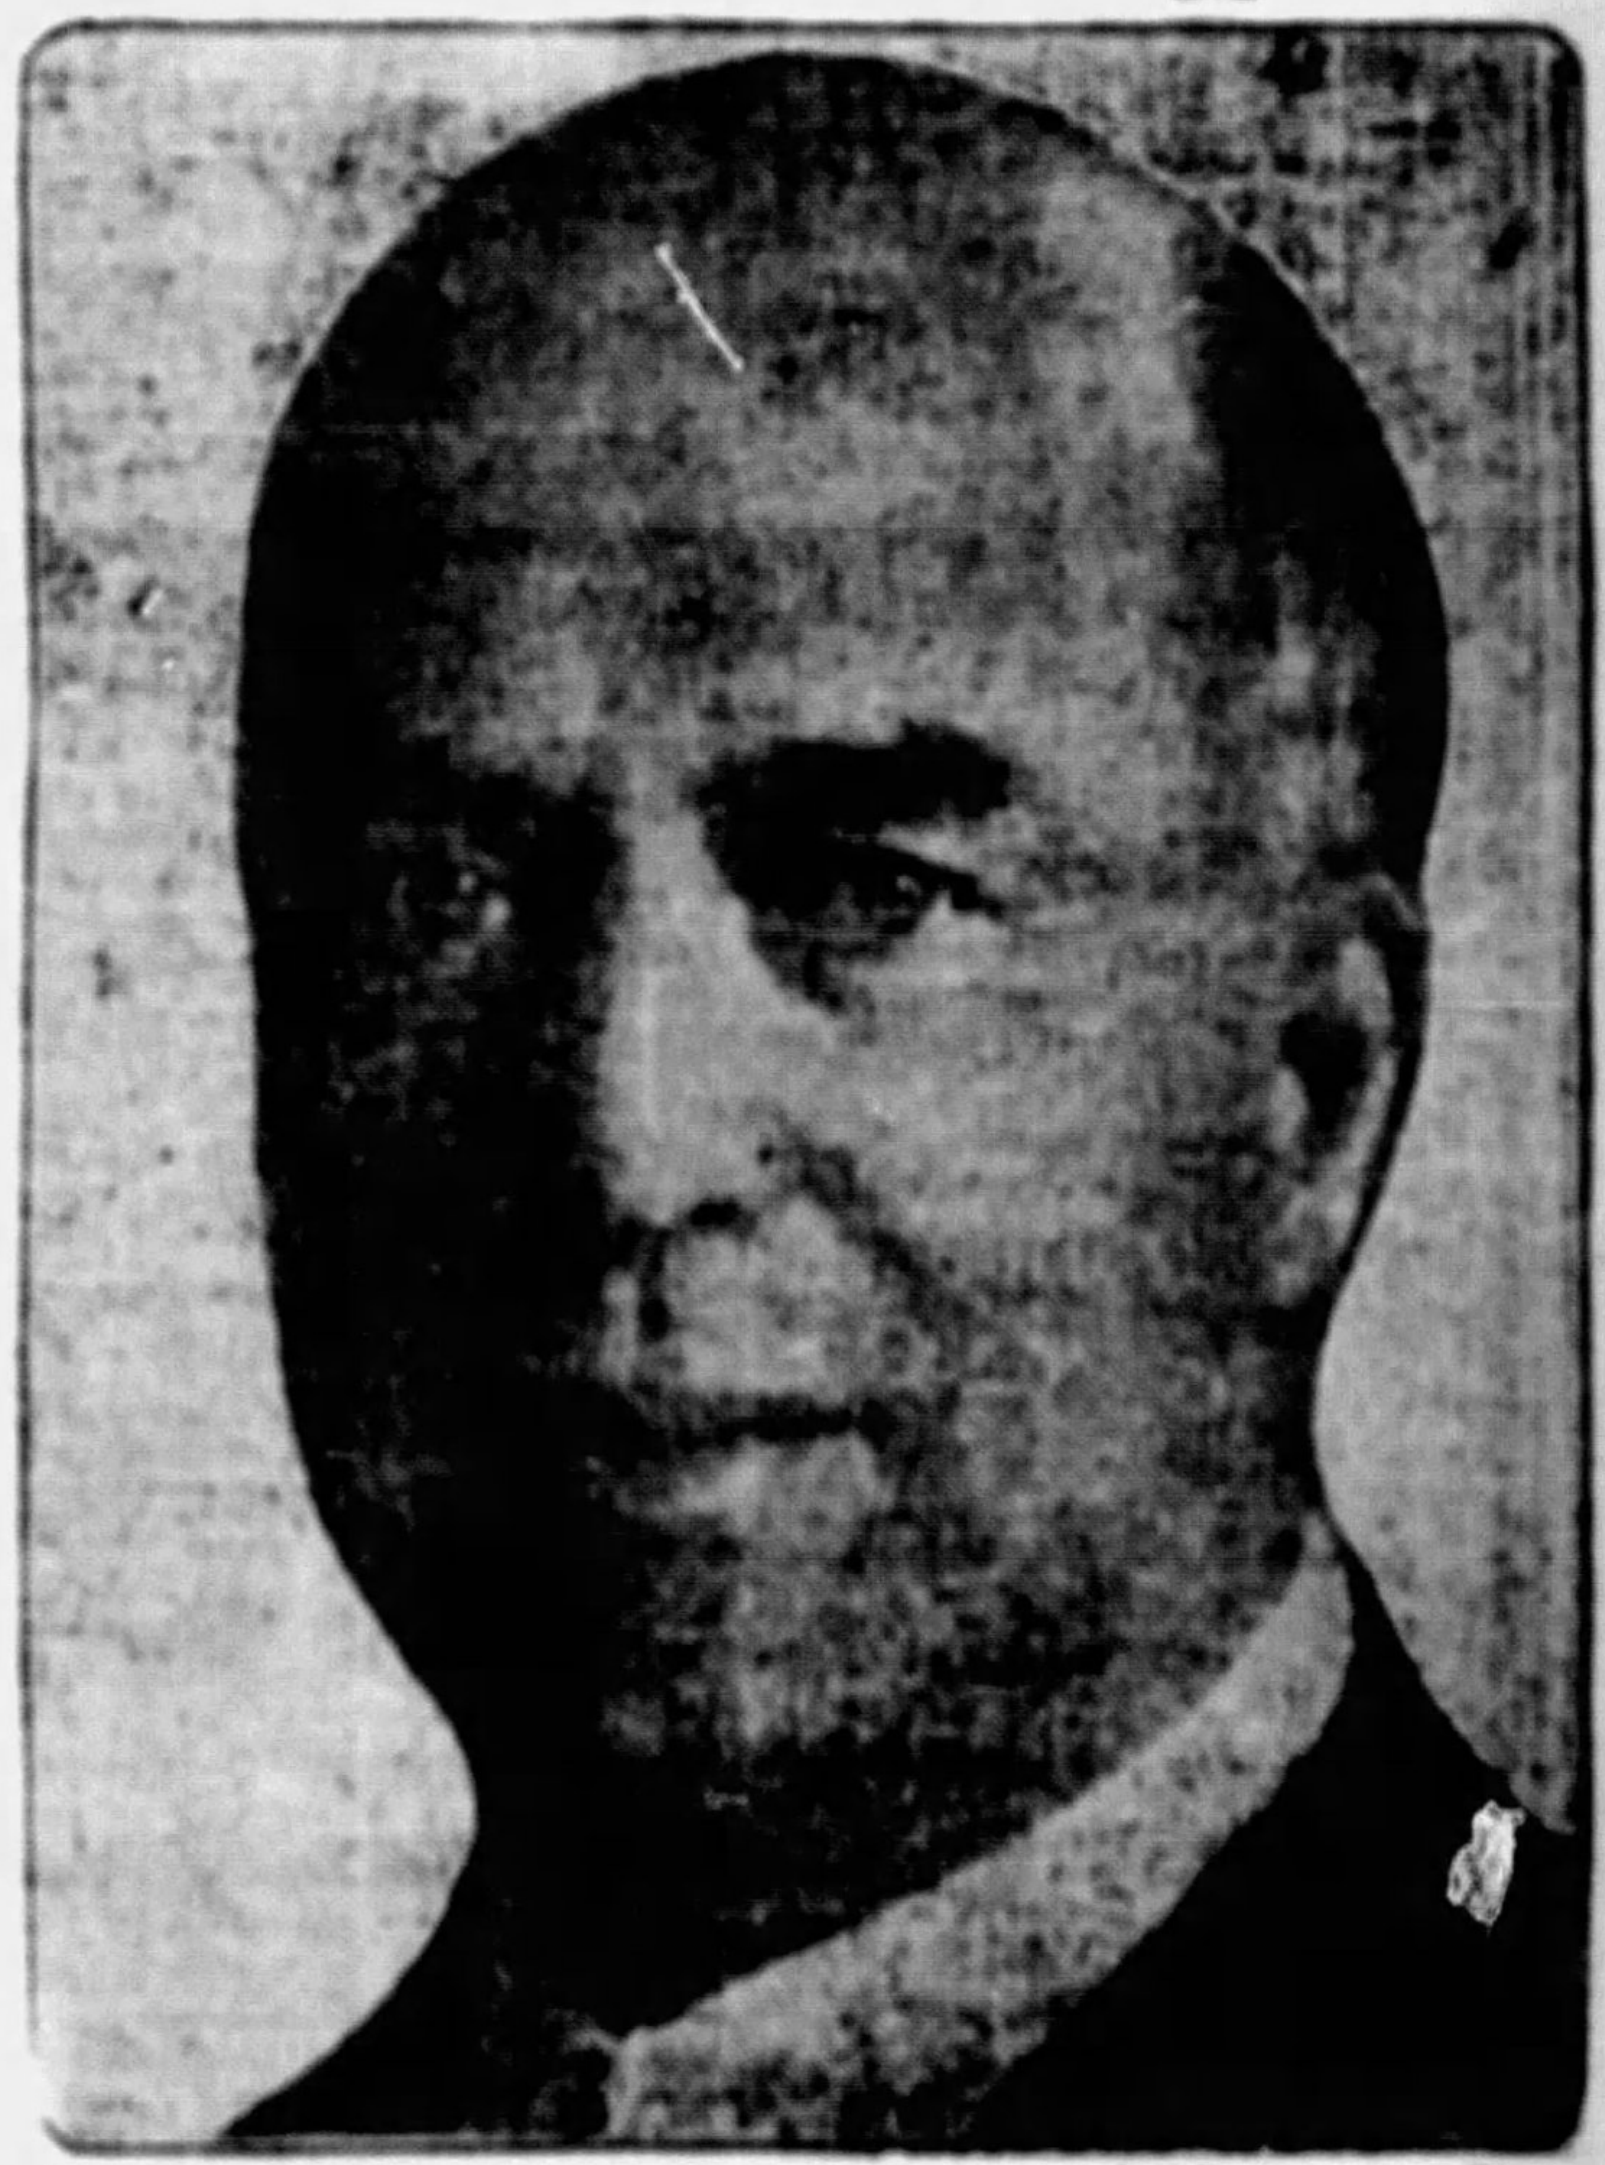
How New Flaxolyn Speeds Strength to Rundown People

Dr. Eldridge, Blood and Nerve Authority, Declares That No Prescription in All His Years as a Physician Ever Gave the People as Much Benefit as the Brilliant Discovery of Dr. Luntz.

Forty years experience in the treatment of organic blood and nervous diseases has convinced Dr. Thomas Edwin Eldridge that patients suffering from anemia, nervousness, loss of appetite, vertigo, auto-intoxication, should quit the use of salts, mineral oils, and drastic drugs.

"I am convinced that Flaxolyn is one of Nature's most valuable and efficient herb remedies ever prescribed. I find that Flaxolyn is tonic in its effects upon the patient, while acting as a soothing tonic to the entire nervous system; and what is best of all, it leaves no bad after-effects.

"I am very sure that where there is a mental depression or physical weakness due to torpid liver, or auto-intoxication due to intestinal disturbances, Flaxolyn will prove to be desirable and a natural aid."



Dr. Thomas Edwin Eldridge has had a remarkable career. Born in Devonshire, England, he came to this country to study medicine and stayed to contribute to the development of the X-Ray for therapeutic purposes. Dr. Eldridge says: "I shall always be glad to endorse the use of Flaxolyn. It is one of Nature's most valuable herb remedies."

Physician Tells How Flaxolyn Improves the Condition of the Blood

Dr. Victor P. Fleming, of York, Pa., says: "I have experimented with many products—mineral, saline and vegetable—over a period of many years. I am now ready to state publicly that Flaxolyn meets the utmost requirements of our work, in that it tends TO RESTORE THE REQUIRED ALKALINITY OF THE BLOOD. This is essential to normal functioning."

Dr. V. P. Fleming (M. D., M. B., Toronto), who says: "Flaxolyn has passed the most stringent clinical tests with flying colors."

"Flaxolyn Gives New Power and Strength By Aiding the Action of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels," Says Noted "Drugless Physician."

Dr. Benedict Lust, founder of the American School of Naturopathy, is known for his fight against the use of drastic drugs.

Concerning Herbal Flaxolyn, Dr. Lust says: "I have been using Flaxolyn as a health measure in the treatment of a number of my patients. I find it a great help assisting the process of elimination of irritants from the system.

"It helps stop disease by bringing the body back to its normal stage. It gives new power and strength by aiding the action of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Flaxolyn certainly is a natural remedy."

"Keen Appetite, Restful Sleep, Normal Functioning, Bright Eyes, Ruddy Cheeks—Thanks to Flaxolyn," Say Dr. Doak of Pittsburgh and Other Doctors All Over the World.

Doctors from every nook and corner of the country are writing Dr. Harris H. Luntz to congratulate him upon the wonderful success of his Herbal Flaxolyn, in such conditions as the following: Gas, Headaches, Bloating, Paleness Which Quickly Vanish.

Biliousness, heartburn, belching, poor digestion, acid-dyspepsia, sluggish liver, irritations which should be flushed out of the kidneys, dizzy spells, backaches—have been corrected through the aid of Flaxolyn in any number of cases.

Pimply, sickly complexion, dull eyes and generally poor appearance is promptly "spruced up" when Flaxolyn promotes sleep, gives aid too the blood, relieves constipation and counteracts auto-intoxication.

London Health Centre Lauds Amazing Flaxolyn Discovery

Dr. Edgar J. Saxon, head of the London Health Centre, says: "Flaxolyn has become a tremendous success in England. People like it because it is natural in its action. It brings a ruddy glow of health to the body worn out by toxic poisons."

Dr. Claude Anderson Doak, of Pittsburgh, Dr. Frederick Cook, of Los Angeles, Dr. L. B. Wilson, of Portland, Oregon, Dr. T. A. Wallace, of New York, and many others, have openly endorsed Herbal Flaxolyn. Don't wait. Start taking Flaxolyn. You will feel the tonic change at once. You will enjoy renewed vigor, and a better grip on life.

Dr. N. Weiss, Viennese physician, who states: "Three results which most every patient seeks—keen appetite, restful sleep and normal bowel action — are quick to follow when I prescribe Flaxolyn. It is a splendid formula."

25 Years' Study Behind Flaxolyn

No one knows better than the discoverer of Flaxolyn what it means to be in a rundown condition.

As a result of overwork when he was a physician in the City of Philadelphia, Dr. Luntz suffered a breakdown which seriously threatened his life. It was then that he determined to make a deeper scientific study of the botanical medicines, with a view to the perfection of a highly efficacious herb tonic. After 25 years he presented the new Flaxolyn to the public.

The success of Flaxolyn has been phenomenal. Men and women of all ages—children, too—must be getting a tremendous lot of good out of Flaxolyn because druggists all over the country have been constantly besieged to fill the enormous demand.

BARTHELMESS TO DO AVIATION PICTURE ON RETURN TO HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright 1930 by Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 17.

HERE'S a chap who promises to teach me "how to write stories that sell," via correspondence. That isn't news. If he could tell me how to write stories that won't upset equilibriums—ah, that's news . . .

Richard Barthelmess and his wife voyage from Paris to New York on February 13. Thence to Californy and the flicks. Dick is to star in an aviation story written by Howard Hawks who will also direct. If this department may be pardoned to step into the personal it would like to congratulate Mr. Hawks for the grit that will enable him to make the picture. Mr. Hawks lost his brother Kenneth, also a director, in a recent airplane smash.

Richard Barthelmess

The Chauve Souris bowed into a local theater with bailiff officiating before the footlights. And a right smart flick crowd turned out to applaud. Mary Pickford and Doug Fairbanks snapped their fingers at the cold and appeared. Likewise the Frank Lloyds, the Robert Miltons, Alice Duer Miller, the Edge McGregors, Colleen Moore, the Ernest Lubitschs, the Ernie Halletts, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Jowitt (Doris Anderson), Dr. Hugo Bisenfeld, et ceters.

About Players And Birthdays

Ramon Novarro

Myrna Loy has signed to traipse as the girl in "Soul of the Tango," which Roy O'Neill will direct for the James Cruze outfit.

And while on the subject of casting, Beatrice Lillis is to star in an English musical comedy for Fox. Um, all English cast.

The local automobile washing stations harbor ungentlemanly thoughts toward the rainy weather. 'Tis being railed about.

There hasn't been a movie discovery in months. Maybe the producers made a New Year's resolution, among other things.

Young Woman Tries Directing

HER name is Winifred Laurance. She was born in China some 20 years ago. The Chinese staged a revolution and rather contribute to a chop suey course Winifred and family fled to Russia, her mother's native country. They lived in St. Petersburg until the Russians ate marital yeast and did a little rising of their own. Again the family fled, this time to Paris.

Miss Laurance is now an assistant director at RKO. Her introduction to pictures was in Paris, where she got a job with the First National exchange. But the future held no gleam, so after a serious conference with finances she sallied forth to the U. S. A.

Miss Laurance is young and enthusiastic and intelligent. She has covered many miles in her life and absorbed color and atmosphere galore. One of these days she'll be a director. She's the only assistant woman director in the colony. She's due to be the third directress. Lois Weber led the way. Dorothy Arzner carried on. There'll be a niche for Winifred Laurence. Her courage and determination smacks of a Horatio Alger go-getter. Fighting it alone in a strange land is no cinch. And if you'll please notice, I don't add—even for a woman.

Brings Plays

George M. Cohan and his play, "Gambling," will come to the Nixon Monday. His latest production, "Sporting Blood," will have its premiere in three special matinees.

TWO CHORUS GROUPS IN REVUE

J. J. Shubert pulled a smart trick when he engaged two dancing units for "A Night in Venice", which returns to Pittsburgh for a week's engagement in the Alvin Monday. There is the Chester Hale troupe of sixteen dancers and an equal number of Allan K. Foster girls. By pitting one outfit against the other the tersichorean portion of the sextravaganzea is said to be kept at a never slackening tempo.

George M. Cohan and his play, "Gambling," are to hold forth in the Nixon next week.

The entire original cast is assured, bringing a company of 40 and four lavish scenes, one of which depicts a gambling house in full operation. Mary Philips, Harold Healy, Robert Middlemass, Isabell Baring and Jack Leslie are listed on the roster.

George Sharp, manager of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, following his policy of bringing stars to Pittsburgh as guest artists, announces that Robert Warwick, prominent stage and screen actor, will appear next week in the leading role of "Her Friend The King". It is a romantic comedy, in which William Faversham recently closed in New York, and this will be its first presentation in stock.

PACKERS' PLEA BAN ASKED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Dismissal of suits filed by Swift & Co. and Armour & Co., seeking modification of the packers' consent decree, was asked today by the Department of Justice.

Shortly after the Justice Department had filed its petition Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, offered a resolution calling upon the attorney general to supply the Senate with information concerning the court application of the meat packers for modification of the consent decree.

The consent decree was entered into by Swift and Armour and three other large packing firms in 1920 after suits had been filed against them by the government. They agreed to confine themselves to the meat packing industry and to certain closely related lines. The decree has never taken effect and the packers began proceedings in the District of Columbia Supreme Court looking to a settlement.

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—King George will come into Buckingham Palace from Sandringham on Monday for a brief visit to open the sessions of the Five-power Naval Conference on Tuesday.

It is understood that Lord Dawson will then decide whether the King should spend a month abroad or go for a short rest and change to a resort on the English Southwestern Coast.

Though the King will return to Sandringham after a stay of only 24 hours in London, his medical advisers are anxious that he should not spend February on his favorite country estate, believing that he should go to some warmer place.

The King, who has been doing a great deal of shooting at Sandringham, is believed to be in excellent health.

Black Diamond's 70-Year Tipple Dismantled

CHARLEROI, Pa., Jan. 17.—Wrecking crews of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, under the direction of the United States engineers, has completed removing the Black Diamond tipple and abutments. The 60-year-old tipple was ordered removed after the mine was abandoned in 1927 and the river abutments were declared unnecessary obstruction to river traffic.

When the harbor lines are cleared at Black Diamond Mine there will remain only two lower Monongahela River tipples where once 12 of the largest mines in the country operated.

Art Hickman Dies After Operation

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Art Hickman, 42, dance orchestra leader, died here yesterday after a major operation. Three blood transfusions were made after the war. Hickman climbed to fame as director of dance music. A stage engagement took him East a decade ago, and he later directed orchestras at several large hotels in the East.

HUGHES KILLING SUSPECTS HELD

Arrested in connection with the murder of Plainclothesman James Hughes on December 27, Charles Stewart, 19, of 4 Emmett street, and Philip Fears, 16, of 314 Morgan street, both Negroes, were held for court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today.

Fears was arrested in Canonsburg. Police say he admitted being one of the gang that shot and killed Hughes and implicated Stewart.

Police testified today that a wooden box containing revolvers, knucklers, skeleton keys, jewelry, ammunition, rings, vanity cases and cigaret lighters had been found in Stewart's home.

Another angle in the Hughes case is being investigated. The coroner ordered the body of Robert J. Muckler, Negro, of Wylie avenue, exhumed for an examination. An anonymous call said the man, who is reported to have died of pneumonia, had three bullet wounds in his body.

CROWN OF LAMB is one of the crowning glories of a Sunday dinner in the Prudence Penny establishment. Perhaps you'd like to try it, too? Well then, select parts from two loins containing ribs; scrape flesh from bone between the ribs, as far as the lean meat, and trim off backbone.

Shape each piece in a semicircle, having ribs outside and skewer the pieces together to form a crown.

Trim the ends of bones evenly and rather short and wrap each bone in a thin strip of the fat scraps to prevent bone from burning. Roast 1¼ hours or until tender, covering bones with buttered paper. Remove the fat from the bones before serving and fill the center with puree of chestnut, made as follows.

SHELL and blanch the chestnuts. Then cook them in boiling salted water, drain, mash and moisten them with scalded milk. Season with salt, pepper and a bit of butter and beat until they are light.

Remove the stones from the prunes and let them cook slowly after they have been soaked overnight. Fill each cavity with 2 or 3 nuts or cream cheese and you will have as fine a salad as you have eaten. Of course the prunes

RAISIN SAUCE is delicious with chocolate cake if the sauce is prepared with ½ cup raisins, 1 cup of boiling water, ¾ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ cup chopped citron, 1 teaspoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon butter.

Simmer the raisins and citron in the water until the raisins are tender (about an hour). Sift the sugar and cornstarch together and add to the raisin mixture. Mix well and continue cooking for 10 minutes. Then add the butter and lemon juice.

* * *

CHILI CON CARNE: Cut 1 pound of beef in small pieces and brown in 1 tablespoon hot fat. Add 1 chopped onion and 1 canned pimento and fry until golden brown. Then add ½ cup tomato, 1 cup kidney beans and 1 cup water. Season with ½ teaspoon paprika and salt to taste. The beans should be prepared beforehand by soaking them in cold water over night, then cooking them until tender in fresh water to which ½ teaspoon soda has been added. Drain well before adding them to the meat. Bring all to a boil and thicken the gravy with flour. Serve hot.

* * *

PRUNE BLANC MANGE: Mix 3 tablespoons cornstarch with 3 tablespoons sugar and a scant ½ teaspoon salt. Gradually add 6 tablespoons cold milk, and then 1 cup hot milk. Cook in a double boiler 20 minutes. Add 1 cup cooked, cut prunes, and ¾ teaspoons each of lemon extract and vanilla. Beat well and serve cold with cream.

* * *

BAKED HADDOCK: Clean 4 pounds haddock, sprinkle with salt and pepper on all sides and place in a baking pan. Peel and slice 3 tomatoes and lay over the fish, together with 2 sliced onions and a clove of garlic. Make a smooth paste of 1 tablespoon flour and 1 cup water; then add ½ cup olive oil and the juice of 1 lemon. Pour the mixture over the fish. Place in a moderate oven to bake until the liquid is absorbed and the fish is tender.

* * *

SWEET POTATO AND PINEAPPLE: Boil 6 small sweet potatoes with the skins on. When cool, peel and cut them in pieces about ¼ inch thick. Mix 1-3 cup honey with ¼ cup hot water. Just cover the bottom of a baking dish with the water and honey mixture. Add a layer of the sweet potatoes, then a layer of sliced pineapple, using 1-3 as much pineapple as sweet potato. Pour the remaining honey mixture over the top and bake for 10 minutes in the oven.

* * *

PARTY WAFERS—One cup sugar, ½ cup water, 10 marshmallows, 2 egg whites, 1 cup broken pecans, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Bring the sugar and water to the boiling point and boil until the sirup spins a thread. Remove from the fire and add the marshmallows cut into small pieces. Pour the mixture gradually while beating constantly into the whites of the eggs, beaten stiff, add the pecans and the vanilla. Spread on salted wafers and bake in a slow oven until a delicate brown.

* * *

ENGLISH SCONES—Two cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 eggs, 1-3 cup top milk.

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt. Cut in the butter. Add well beaten eggs, reserving a small amount. Pour in the top milk and blend to a soft dough. Toss on a floured board and roll to ¾-inch thickness. Cut in squares, brush with reserved egg and bake in 400 degrees oven for 15 minutes. Makes 12.

* * *

RICE FLAKE STRUDEL—Line a buttered casserole or earthenware dish with rice flakes, covering them with a layer of thinly sliced apples; sprinkle generously with sugar; dot with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon and a dash of nutmeg. Fill the dish to the top with alternate layers of rice flakes and apples, making the final one a layer of the flakes. Pour over all enough rich cream to moisten well, and bake in a moderate oven until the apples are soft. It's good!

* * *

CRAB SALAD WITH FRENCH DRESSING—Here is a dish that is the last word in culinary luxury. Line a platter with crisp, well washed lettuce leaves, shred the contents of a medium-sized can of crabmeat on the lettuce and dot with stuffed olives. Pour a rich, tangy French dressing over the salad, and then sprinkle paprika over it. You might border the salad with thin slices of hard-cooked eggs, or with slices of tomato, if you like. And serve it with toasted cheese crackers, or with cheese sticks.

* * *

CRAB CHOWDER—Chop half a small onion very fine and cook for 2 minutes in 3 tablespoons butter. Add 2 cups potatoes cut in small cubes and 1 cup canned tomatoes. Season with salt and pepper to taste and add 1 pint water. Cook without stirring in a closely covered kettle for 20 minutes over a moderate fire. Add a pound can of flaked crabmeat and cook slowly for another 2 or 3 minutes. Serve hot.

* * *

GINGERBREAD WAFFLES—Sift together 2 cups flour, 1½ teaspoons ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon and ½ teaspoon salt. Next heat to boiling point but do not boil, 1 cup molasses and 1-3 cup butter. Remove from the stove and beat in 1½ teaspoons soda. Add ½ cup sour milk, 1 well-beaten egg, then sift the dry ingredients. Bake in greased waffle iron (if an electric waffle iron is used, greasing is not necessary). Iron must not get too hot—watch carefully. Serve waffles hot with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored to taste.

KEENE VALLEY CAKE—Mix together ½ cup butter, 1 cup

Good Pie Harmless If It Is Eaten Sensibly

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City
And United States Senator From New York

IT is too bad that in some circles there is a prejudice against a really good food. I am thinking of pie!

That pie is indigestible is not strictly true. It certainly is not true of really good pie. Perhaps some will be surprised to have me say this, but if you stop to think, you will discover the foundation for the statement.

Any food, no matter how good it is, will do harm if eaten in excess. It is likely to cause trouble if taken into the stomach when that organ is already filled to overflowing.

Did you never hesitate to take mince pie at the end of an eight-course dinner? You would hesitate if you really took time to consider what you were about to do. There isn't a thing in the world the matter with that pie. It is good to the taste, digestible and nutritious. The crust is flaky and white. The filling contains fruit, wholesome meat and all ingredients of the best.

We might say the same of apple pie and all the other delicious fruit pies. It is true of custard pie.

WRONG TACTICS

The trouble is we do not follow the right tactics in eating. Sometimes we fail to use common sense. After we have eaten fully of a large dinner, with large portions of meat, vegetables, and the nice salad, after first having hearty soup, we proceed to the dessert. Alas! There is no room for it. How much better it is to take only such size portions of food as will enable us to include a dessert of some kind.

We enjoy good looking and tasting desserts in the diet. A well-baked pie is a most wholesome and nutritious food.

NOURISHING FOOD

A "well-balanced meal" requires the proper quantity as well as the quality. In order to have a well-balanced meal we add desserts of pie, puddings and other delectable things to eat. Most of us remember many a meal that has been eaten with the full knowledge that some favorite dessert is coming.

Is there anything more wonderful than juicy apple pie, or a rich and colorful cranberry pie, cherry, lemon or a dozen other fruit pies? They afford us energy and nourishment and complete the enjoyment of the meal. Why not have pie?

Do not give the stomach a larger task than it can perform. It is your own fault if you have indigestion, and not the fault of the right kind of pie! Of course, a person with digestion already impaired will not do well to eat pie very often, but the average person in normal health should not feel any qualms about enjoying this good food.

molasses and 1 cup hot water. Mix 2 egg yolks and 1 cup maple or brown sugar and beat well. Sift together 3 cups flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves and 2 teaspoons soda. Gradually add to the first mixture, then add the beaten yolks and sugar mixture. Lastly fold in the whites of the 2 eggs stiffly beaten. If you use brown sugar, add ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Pour into buttered shallow pan and bake 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven. This is a mild, sweet cake, lightly spiced.

* * *

SOFT GINGER COOKIES—Sift together 6 cups of flour with 1 teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons cinnamon, 2 tablespoons ginger, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Cream 1 cup shortening and gradually add 1 cup sugar. Add 1 egg and beat together thoroughly. Add 2 cups molasses, 2 tablespoons vinegar, then sifted dry ingredients. Lastly add 4 teaspoons soda dissolved in 1 cup boiling water. If necessary add more flour to make a soft dough. Stand in a cool place over night. Next morning flour the hands well, break off small pieces of the dough, roll into balls, place in baking pan and pat into cakes, not too thin. Sprinkle with sugar, bake 8 to 10 minutes in a moderate oven, 350 degrees.

* * *

ALLEMANDE SAUCE—Cook together without browning 2 tablespoons butter and 2 tablespoons flour. Add 2 cups of white stock and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Simmer for 10 minutes, seasoning with pepper and salt. Take from fire and add the yolks of 3 eggs, well beaten. Heat thoroughly, but do not boil, strain and add a tablespoon of butter and the juice of half a lemon.

* * *

BLANQUETTE SAUCE—Cook together 2 tablespoons each of butter and of flour, add 2 cups or more of boiling water, and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper, and sweet herbs and add ½ cup each of chopped canned mushrooms and small boiled onions.

* * *

TOMATO SCRAMBLED EGGS—Simmer 2 cups tomatoes with 2 teaspoons sugar for 5 minutes. Heat a frying pan and fry a slice of onion in 4 tablespoons butter for 3 minutes. Remove the onion and add the tomatoes, together with 6 eggs, slightly beaten, ½ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Cook until of creamy consistency, stirring the mixture to keep it from sticking to the pan. Serve on whole wheat toast.

* * *

FROSTED CHEESE SALAD—Whip ½ cup heavy cream until stiff. Mash 3 ounces of cream cheese and add ¼ cup mayonnaise. Blend until soft and smooth. Add 2 tablespoons lemon juice, blend well. Fold into whipped cream, add ½ cup chopped dates and ½ cup crushed pineapple and mix lightly but thoroughly. Place in a cold refrigerator pan and freeze for 3 hours. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

* * *

FRENCH SAUSAGES—Cut 8 pork sausages in pieces about an inch long and brown them in a frying pan in hot fat. When well browned, remove from the pan and pour off all the fat except 1 tablespoon. Add 1 tablespoon flour to the fat in the pan and when browned add ½ cup water. When the sauce is thick add the sausages, ½ cup peas and 4 eggs, well beaten. Pour into a baking dish and bake in a slow oven until the eggs are set.

* * *

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES—Cream 2 tablespoons of butter, add ¼ cup of sugar, 1 egg well beaten and 4 tablespoons peanut butter. Cream well. Mix together ½ cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, then add ½ teaspoon lemon juice and 2 tablespoons of milk. Drop from a teaspoon on a buttered sheet. Bake for 12 minutes in a slow oven.

* * *

ORANGE WAFFLES—Sift together 3 cups of flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar and add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind, 2 cups milk, yolks of 3 eggs and ¾ cup of melted butter. Lastly, fold in the beaten whites of 3 eggs and bake in a waffle iron in the usual way. Serve with butter and orange syrup or marmalade.

SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

Spirit Makes Ball Stars.
Lacking in Beaumont.
Grantham's Handicap.
Another Rockne Coach.
South High Comes Back.
Fraser Hockey Roamer.

ENS PRAISES PIRATE SECOND-SACKER

MORE than mere playing ability alone enters into the making of baseball's greatest stars. Natural ire and competitive spirit are tremendous factors in causing them to stand out. Ty Cobb was a notable example. Fred Clarke was another, and so was Johnny Evers. Born ball players, all of them, of course, yet their natural ability would not have made them as great as they were had it not been backed up by a flaming spirit of fight and hustle and a determination to win at any cost. Pie Traynor is a modern product of the same school.

Clarence Beaumont

Some other players have possessed just as much natural ability, but have failed to reach the same heights because they lacked the fiery dash of the superstars. There was Clarence Beaumont, for instance. He came here from Milwaukee in 1899 in exchange for Billy Hart and Jimmy Gray and was a Pirate outfielder until the end of the 1906 season, when he was traded to the Boston Nationals with Claude Ritchey and Pat Flaherty for Ed Abbaticchio. Had nature given him the spirit of a Cobb, a Clarke, an Evers or a Traynor he would have been one of the greatest of all time.

BEAUMONT was good at that, make no mistake. As a mechanical ball player he had few equals. He was one of the fastest men that ever wore spikes, a splendid fielder and an exceptional batsman who combined slugging power with a rare ability to place and beat out bunts. In 1902 he led the National League in hitting with an average of .357, a lofty mark before the days of small parks and the lively ball.

One remarkable record made by Beaumont attested his speed. At old Exposition Park on July 22, 1899, he made six hits and scored six runs in six times at bat, and not one of his hits went out of the infield. What is more, though a left-hand hitter, he made that record against a southpaw pitcher, Wiley Piatt, of the Phillies. That's evidence of the native class that Ginger possessed. But he lacked the old fire. He was of the Clyde Barnhart type, quiet and unexcitable, never moved any faster between plays or times at bat than was necessary, and a ball game was only a day's work to him. He would drag his bat lazily to the plate, and in returning to center field never stooped to pick up his glove, merely sticking the toe of his right shoe into it, kicking it into the air and catching it as it came down.

THAT'S why Beaumont never shone as brilliantly as some other stars. He didn't have the enthusiasm and drive to get the utmost out of his ability. Imagine what a wonder George Grantham would be if he coupled a dashing, fiery spirit with the talent he owns.

Even as he stands, Grantham is a mighty big asset to a ball club and his value to the Pirates cannot be too highly estimated. He is a great hitter and base runner and is never found holding back when there is something to be done. But it isn't his nature to be constantly on his toes and oozing pepper. He has got to be prodded at times.

George Grantham

DISCUSSING the various types of players after his arrival here yesterday, Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, expressed the opinion that if Grantham were of a more fervid temperament he would come close to being the greatest ball playr in the country. "There is nothing that George can't do on a ball field," said the Buccaneer chief. "He is smart and cool at the plate, one of the toughest men in the business for a pitcher to face; a great hitter, as fast as a greyhound, and his judgment and daring on the bases are in keeping with his speed. You've got to spur him on at times to keep him going at top speed, but he's a great ball player nevertheless. Give him the spirit of Pie Traynor and he'd be a world beater.

"AND maybe I'm not tickled to learn that Grantham's injured leg is coming around and that his general physical condition is so much improved that he is certain to be in tip-top shape for the 1930 season," continued Ens. "To have him fit and ready for the pennant start will mean a great deal more to our club than can be figured on paper.

"I am counting confidently on Grantham for the second base job, now that we've got Gus Suhr for first, and it is a foregone conclusion that George will help us mightily around the keystone. Don't underestimate his ability there. His speed and quickness enable him to make plays around second that I don't see anybody else making, and I don't hesitate to say that in some respects he's the best second baseman in the league."

THOUGH Charley Crowley has left Columbia University, New York will not be without a touch of Notre Dame color in the matter of football coaching next season. For another addition has been made to the rapidly growing school of Notre Dame grid coaches.

John Law, captain of the Irish team last fall and mate of Jack Cannon at guard, has signed as assistant coach at Manhattan College. He will be first lieutenant to Joe Schwarzer, head mentor, in handling the 1930 squad.

G. C. Washabaugh

IT has been a long, hard climb for South High School to regain its old place of eminence in interscholastic basketball, but the splendid coaching of Grover C. Washabaugh, director of athletics, and the fine spirit of the school form a combination that is at last getting results. The South boys are on the up grade and forging straight ahead. They haven't lost a game to date and are tied with Schenley High for first place in Section I of the city division of the W. P. I. A. L. Schenley has played and won one game more, but if South succeeds in defeating Westinghouse High this afternoon it will even things up in the victory column, and a battle royal for the leadership will follow when Washabaugh's lads meet Schenley next Tuesday.

NATURALLY, South's followers are enthusiastic over the prospect that the team may have a chance to capture the league championship, inasmuch as that distinction has not been held by the school in 12 years. South won the league title in 1908, 1916, 1918, the last victorious quintet being made up of Callahan, Gross, Lehner, Broderick and McDonnell. The school also finished first in 1920, but the victory was ruled out.

This season is only the second at South for Coach Washabaugh, who previously directed athletic affairs at South Hills High, so the clever mentor must be given credit for extraordinary progress in bringing the school to the front again in basketball in such a short time after its lengthy stay in the rut. His showing bears out the rating popularly given to him as one of the best coaches in the scholastic ranks.

CAREY SELPH, young infielder of the Cardinals, has been shipped back to the Houston club, of the Texas League, now managed by Joe Schultz, former Pirate and Belthoover citizen. Selph struck nothing but misfortune in the majors. First he found Frankie Frisch

CITY LEAGUE, W. P. I. A. L. IN ACTION

Peabody High School's basketball team, once a victor and twice defeated in its City League scholastic basketball campaign to date, can play a low trick on Chester Briggs and his champion Fifth Avenue combine this afternoon, especially if South High bumps off Westinghouse. A win for Peabody and one for South will elevate the latter to the leadership of Section I of the league and kick the Fifth Avenue team into second place.

Marty Reiter.

Coach Briggs, however, is counting on the clever Marty Reiter, his stellar guard; Jack Skeegan, Marty's running mate, and Lou Brenner, the elongated center, to keep the Uptowners in the running. Against Ralston last week, Brenner sank three baskets and Skeegan caged five, while Moll, a sub for Brenner, dropped in four. Peabody, for all its fight and fairly strong defense, will have its hands full in checking Fifth today.

FULL SCHEDULE

The day's scholastic card is full with banner contests booked for the City League and for all sections of the W. P. I. A. L. There are three games in both divisions of the City loop. In Section I, Peabody tackles Fifth, South invades Westinghouse and Ralston and Allderdice, sharing the cellar in the section, meet at Allderdice.

Section II features the South Hills, Perry battle at Perry. Perry is tied with Allegheny for the leadership at present, the latter having won an even standing with Perry by knocking off the highly favored South Hills aggregration Tuesday. South Hills needs a victory over Perry today to insure its remaining as a factor in the race, and will be greatly pepped up for the game, feeling as it does the sting of the setback at the hands of Allegheny.

BIG W. P. I. A. L. CARD

Heading a fine card in the W. P. I. A. L. are the Aliquippa-Beaver Section IV and Scottdale-Jeannette Section X battles. Beaver, with an in-and-out team, has hopes of checking the mad rush of Nate Lippe's team to the sectional title. Jeannette and Scottdale are old rivals, and both put great stress on taking victories from each other.

In Section I, Har-Brack and New Kensington tangle in a feature title. Section II finds Sewickley testing Moe Rubenstein's Ambridge High hopefuls and in Section III, Butler and Elwood City head the card with a battle at Elwood City.

California and Monessen tangle in a Section V fracas. Rankin meets a test in Norwin in division VIII and Waynesburg and Claysville hoop up in Section XV in other league contests of interest.

YESTERDAY'S EXPLANATION: THE COW TREE OF GUATEMALA—Prof. Record, of Yale, and Representative Henry Kuyim, of the Marshall Field Museum, both have had the distinction of "milking" the cow tree in Guatemala. They say the fluid tastes much like cow's milk and the natives of the Puerto Barrios district use it in coffee and for desserts. Also, they report that a half-quart of the fluid, taken straight, produces the same effect as a good square meal.

NEW COLISEUM ARENA OPENS TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Pittsburgh's newest boxing arena, the Coliseum, formerly the Columbus Temple, located at Van Braam and Locust streets, makes its bow to the fans tonight, with Tom Malco, who lives directly across the street from the entrance to the building, meeting Vincent Hambright, hard-hitting Filipino, of Cincinnati, in the 10-round main bout.

Tom Malco

Hambright is the lad who recently has developed a knockout punch that has startled the fans. His victims include Tug Phillips, who lasted less than a round against him.

Promoters Francis Flynn and Apples Meyers have arranged a good preliminary card for their inaugural offering. They have Mickey Duris, of Johnstown, who registered such a hit beating Johnny Smackey at the Moose Temple last Friday night, in the semi-final against U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, subbing for Ken Hargraves, also of New Kensington, who is ill. The second bout brings together Georgie Chambers, of the East End, and Harry Spencer, formerly of Washington, Pa., and now of Pittsburgh. Roy Minteer, of New Castle, and Jimmy Thomas, of the Hill, will appear in the opener.

The first bout is scheduled for 8:30. The new, compact arena, with every seat a good one, can accommodate 1,800 fans, and it looks like a sellout for the first card.

Club Champs Reach Semi-Final Round

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Two rounds of match play yesterday whittled the field down to four men in the annual amateur championship of golf club champions.

After defeating John K. Scott, Philadelphia, 6 and 4, in the first round, Carl Dann, of Winter Park, Fla., eliminated William Connellan, 2 and 1. Connellan had advanced to the second round by beating George Dantzler, St. Petersburg, Fla., 2 and 1.

MICHIGAN FIVE FACES TECH TONIGHT

By JESS CARVER

Capt. Van Zylen

The Aggies, on a two-game swing through this section, met Bethany's clever Conference hopefuls last night and will wind up their local engagement against the Tartans this evening.

The Agriculturists will show a nine-man squad, including, as Max Hannum takes great care to tell me, four forwards, three guards and two centers. The team is captained by J. H. Van Zylen, who cavorts as a forward, and includes a center, Harry Haun, who stretches out to a 6-foot 2-inch height. What a guy to pick cherries!

PITT ON EDGE

Tonight's Tech-Aggie battle opens what promises to be a brilliant week-end of basketball in the city. Tomorrow Notre Dame and Pitt clash in the Stadium Pavilion, and the Tartans resume action by playing Bob Thorn's Grove City team in their own. Tech's, gym.

It makes it tough, this matter of having two good local games booked for the same evening, especially as one of them has for a participant Notre Dame. The Irish are bound to attract a crowd of our best paying citizens, more so because the South Enders are op-

SPEARS SPEEDS TO CONFAB

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Although Dr. Clarence Spears apparently has decided to sever his connections with the University of Minnesota as head football coach, official announcement of that decision was still in abeyance last night as the Gopher mentor sped westward for a conference with University of Oregon officials.

Elected coach at the Oregon school Wednesday, Dr. Spears was en route to Missoula, where he will confer with Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of Oregon University. Meanwhile, his resignation had not been submitted to Minnesota officials.

Dr. Spears declined to make any announcement before boarding the train for Montana beyond saying he had promised President Hall to give no interviews. Any statement of definite action would be issued after the conference at Missoula today by Dr. Hall, he said.

Oregon offers Dr. Spears $11,500 a year to coach its football team, and in addition would grant him the privilege of practicing medicine during the off-season, a concession denied him at Minnesota.

TARTAN STAR COACH FOR TWO YEARS

Howard Harpster, all-America quarterback at Carnegie Tech in 1928, signed a two-year contract to act as head coach at Geneva College, Beaver Falls. He will begin his duties with the holding of spring training.

Howard Harpster

Announcement that Harpster was considering an offer to lead the Covenanters was made exclusively in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph recently.

The former Tech star, who is concluding his studies here, coached the Shadyside Academy team through a defeatless season last fall. He had several offers for college berths.

Harpster was signed by R. M. Young, president of the board of trustees of Geneva College. He succeeds Mack Flenniken, who has been head coach at Geneva for two seasons, assisted by C. W. Davies, director of physical education at the college. Flenniken succeeded Bo McMillin.

A decision will be reached later as to the makeup of Harpster's staff of assistants.

X-RAYS TAKEN OF L. WANER

Lloyd Waner, star centerfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has been suffering from spasmodic stomach attacks for the last four years, this morning was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital, where X-ray pictures were taken in an effort to discover the cause of his ailment.

Until the photographs are completed this afternoon doctors in charge of the case do not know what course they will take. The little baseball star is scheduled to return to the hosptial at 3 o'clock.

Robins Release Max Rosenfeld to Toledo

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Max Rosenfeld, outfielder, has been released on option to Toledo of the American Association by the Brooklyn Dodgers. It marks the second year that the Robins have sent Max to Toledo, where he batted .350 last year.

The Brooklyn Club mailed out contracts to 37 players today. Those who will give the most trouble over signing perhaps will be Arthur (Dazzy) Vance and Floyd C. (Babe) Herman.

At Coliseum

MICKEY DURIS

Duris, Johnstown lightweight, boxes U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the semi-final at the new Coliseum here tonight. He registered a hit in his bout with Johnny Smackey at the Moose Temple last Friday night.

WOMEN'S GOLF DATES SET

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

The national women's golf championship is to be played at the Los Angeles Country Club, in California, October 13 to 18, this year, according to an announcement today by Herbert H. Ramsay, chairman of the championship committee of the United States Golf Association.

The dates were recommended to the U. S. G. A. by the women's committee, following a meeting in New York Tuesday night. Among the more prominent women who attended were Mrs. Stewart Hanley, chairman; Mrs. Edward H. Baker, Jr., of Boston; Florence McNeely, of Philadelphia; Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., and Rosalie Knapp, of New York.

ROSE MAY GET CALL

J. Bernd Rose, of the Allegheny Country Club, vice-president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, is expected to be nominated to succeed John Graham, of Oakmont and South Hills country clubs, as president of the W. P. G. A. for this year. The annual meeting will be held, as usual, in mid-April, unless the local golfing fathers decide otherwise. George Ormiston, secretary, and James Barber, treasurer, are almost certain of being re-elected. They have held down their offices for years and maintain a high respect in local golfdom. Who is to be vice-president is the main issue in the coming nominations.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17.—A Pittsburgh golfer, Frank E. Douglas, is playing in the second 16 final in the annual mid-winter amateur championship tournament over the Country Club Course here today. He is opposing Dan Healy, of Detroit.

In the third division, C. M. Scott, of Pittsburgh, is teeing off against J. Stacey Palmer, of Garden City, N. Y. Douglas yesterday disposed of John P. Boland, of Rahway, N. J., by 1 up.

In championship sixteen, Harcourt M. Brice, of Miami, trounced Joseph Swanson, also a local player, by 7 and 6. James W. West, of Atlanta, Ga., defeated George Dockerty, of Fort Lauderdale, 1 up.

In a special best-ball match, Babe Ruth, home-run king of the Yankees, was paired with William Wallace, of Chicago, and lost to a pair of professional golfers, Bill Pairman and Bert Way, both of Miami, by 5 and 3.

FINE SOCCER CARD ON TAP

By TOM BIRKS.

Headed by the West Penn senior semi-final game at the Westinghouse High School Stadium, featuring the German Sport and Pittsburgh Celtic elevens, quite a well-balanced soccer card is on tap for tomorrow for the fans' approval. The Beaver Valley League again will swing into action, following an extended layoff. Two games will be played in the loop. Beaver Falls will travel to Midland to meet Crucible Steel, and New Castle meets Ambridge at the Bridge Works grounds.

All soccer roads should lead to the Westinghouse High School field when the German Sport and the Celtics get together. On New Year's Day, after playing 90 minutes on a heavy muddy field, the Sport boys outplayed but did not outscore the Celtics, and the game finished with each club finding the net once.

Unless a heavy snowfall is experienced, the Westinghouse High School field will be in great shape. It should be one of the best soccer games of the season. Reisman, German center half, played brilliant soccer around Cleveland and he expects to hold Barrett, sharpshooting Celtic center. The duel should be worth while seeing.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—Robert Inghram Flenniken, aged 53 years, of Carmichaels, Pa., well known horseman, died early yesterday morning. Flenniken was dancing and started to leave the floor, dropping dead before he reached his chair.

PIRATES MEET RANGERS HERE TOMORROW

By CARL W. SHATTO

It was a case of polishing up their plays in an effort to keep from being polished off by opponents as the Pirates went through their last stiff workout today in preparation for their game with the New York Rangers at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night. Les Patrick's skaters have handed the locals three setbacks in as many engagements this season, and as the Bucs put the finishing touches to their training work they realized that they will have to show plenty of fight and dash to keep the guests from putting the finishing touches to their hosts and making it four in a row.

Andy Spooner, 19-year-old star who is to make his debut as a National League goaler in tomorrow's fray, was in the nets during the workout, and Manager Frederickson is convinced that Andy will prove a stumbling block to any and all Rangers who have scoring ambitions.

Frederickson has decided to start building for the future, and Bud Jarvis will help Spooner to give the starting lineup a rookie complex. Bud, who has shown brilliant form in his first year in the big show, is to be started at left wing.

The Rangers are waging a bitter fight with the Chicago Hawks for second place in the American Group standings, and they are certain to give their all in an effort to pick up a couple points at the expense of the Bucs.

The fray with the New Yorkers is the only game remaining to be played here this month. From January 18 until February 1 the local puckmen will do their cavorting in enemy territory.

ENS HUSTLES FOR SNAPPY JUMPOFF

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pirate officials, principally Manager Jewel Ens, today went to work on spring training problems. With the date of departure of the first squad only a month away, there is much to be done at local headquarters.

Owner Barney Dreyfuss expects to leave for Florida on a health trip within ten days. The Pittsburgh magnate was in ill health through a part of the winter and he has been advised that a trip South will help him. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Dreyfuss.

Manager Ens and Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss will be in complete charge of all arrangements relative to spring training. Most of the details already have been completed, but there are certain things that need the personal attention of the officials.

NOT HOLDOUTS YET

There is, for instance, the question of a new contract for Pitcher Burleigh Grimes. The star sharpshooter of the club is one of the players without the fold. It is a fact that the Pittsburgh team is far ahead of most of its rivals in the matter of lining of players for the coming race, yet there is a chance that the few who may be unsigned will be stubborn.

The identity of the other unsigned athletes of Pirate persuasion has not been given out but it cannot be said that any are holdouts at this early date.

The generally accepted definition of a holdout is, "a player who fails to report at the spring camp at the alloted time." On the other hand, however, a performer is not supposed to be allowed to go to camp unless he be signed. So you can take your choice in the matter.

FEW SINCE ALDRIDGE

Manager Ens does not seem to be worrying about the financial status of his players. Anybody who has played the game realizes strongly that the chances for a player to remain away from his team are very slim.

Last season the two Waners were bona-fide holdouts. Brother Paul not reaching the club until a short time before the beginning of the championship season. Brother Lloyd came in a couple of weeks earlier than Paul.

Back in 1925, the Pirates had a firm holdout in Victor Aldridge. The Hoosier Schoolmaster was adamant until the season began, he reaching an agreement with his employers just about the time the bell rang.

Criss' Manager Accepts Shires Go

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Vandes Gildersleeve, manager for Battling Criss, of Rockwood, Mich., announced today that he had accepted terms for a match between Criss and Charles Arthur Shires, pugilistic Chicago White Sox first baseman, in the Chicago Stadium, January 24.

It was Gildersleeve's charge that he had been approached with a proposal to "fix" the originally scheduled bout between Shires and Criss that led to the Chicago ballplayer's suspension by the Michigan Boxing Commission as well as the National Boxing Association. The suspension later was lifted against Shires, but continued in force against his manager, Nessie Blumenthal, and Benny Ray, Detroit promoter.

Yellow Jackets Open Home Mat Season

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 17—The Waynesburg College home wrestling season will be opened here this evening when the Yellow Jackets matmen meet the grappling team representing Gettysburg College.

Captain Morgan, Zollhas, Healy, Gurnerris, Demoise, McCall, Younkin and Bord. Ed Durbin, of West Virginia University, will referee.

JONES STOPS PETRIN

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, 173, scored a technical knockout over Don Petrin, Newark, N. J., 175, in the third round here last night.

Yanks Get Small Cut of Stadium Grid Gates

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—E. G. Barrow, secretary of the New York Yankees, turned aside from thoughts of baseball and Babe Ruth's salary demands, to talk of football.

"I hear we are accused of being regular Shylocks in extracting 33 per cent of the receipts of the Army-Notre games at the Yankee Stadium," said Barrow. "The plea is not guilty.

"For the last three years the Army-Notre Dame football game has been played at the Yankee Stadium on a flat rental basis and in no case has our rental amounted to 10 per cent of the receipts. The game will be played on the same basis—a flat rental figure—in 1930 and the rent will not be 10 per cent. The Army-Illinois game also will be played on a rental basis and it is safe to say now that the amount paid the Yankee club will be less than 10 per cent of the receipts."

NEW COLISEUM ARENA OPENS

Sarco of Buffalo will top off the McKeesport show next Thursday night. It will be a double windup affair.

Gene Reed of Charleroi will be the opponent of Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., in the main bout at the Eagles hall, East Liverpool, O., next Thursday night. Young Saponica, of Edinboro, Pa., and Ross Fields, of Weirton, W. Va., will appear in the semi-final of six rounds, and in the two four-rounders Harry DeVore, of Huntington, W. Va., will face Johnny Demko, of Weirton, W. Va., and Eddie Lane, of East Liverpool, will battle the Gypsy Kid of Beaver Falls.

Leonard Zaccarino, of Jersey City, and Nick Abate have been matched for the 10-round windup of a show at Newark, N. J., next Thursday night. Al Delmont meets Lou Halper, and Jackie Shupack and Tony Lambert will box the other 10-rounder.

SANDERS IN NEW YORK

Len Sanders, of Beaver Falls, is boxing around New York with Herman Fulton, of Ambridge. The pair were on the card at Newark, N. J., last Monday night in which Vince Dundee knocked out Billy Leonard in the first round. Fulton subbed for his stablemate Nat Arno, and handed a drubbing to Jose Martinez, the Spaniard, in the eight-round semi-final, and Sanders lost by a technical knockout to the experienced Buster Brown, of Baltimore, in six rounds.

Battling Battalino, the featherweight champion, is one of the oddities of the ring. He has had only 23 professional bouts and had fought for money only 21 times when he snared the title from Andre Routis at Hartford, Conn., last September. He began as an amateur in 1925 and won the national title in 1927, knocking out four opponents in a total of less than eight minutes in two nights. He has had only one bout since winning the title and in that, recently, he stopped Phil Verdi in three rounds after Verdi had just scored a victory over Andy Martin, of Boston. The Battler's next start will be against Lew Massey at Philadelphia next Monday night.

Because he is a curiosity, Primo Carnera is proving a great attraction in this country, and Madison Square Garden, New York, is reported virtually sold out now for his American debut, next Friday night, against Big Boy Peterson.

BIG GATE FOR BUFFALO

Buffalo promoters expect the Jimmy Slattery-Lou Scozza match for the alleged light-heavyweight championship there, February 10 to draw a capacity crowd of 12,000 and gate receipts of $100,000. It is the first titular match Buffalo has staged since Jimmy Goodrich and Rocky Kansas fought there five years ago before a crowd of 10,000 and a $65,000 gate.

Answer to query, A. F. G.—Harry Greb's blind eye was not removed until shortly before he died. He did not engage in any fights while the possessor of a glass eye.

CANZONERI MEETS BERG

Tony Canzoneri and Jack (Kid) Berg, the English pocket edition of Harry Greb for whirlwind action, meet in the windup in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight. Harry Carlton boxes Sammy Dorfman and Herman Perlick meets Jose Sarriegui in the two other 10-rounders, and Henry Perlick, Herman's twin brother, opposes Edouardo Corti in a six round preliminary.

Mickey Doris, of Johnstown, who now is a flashy boxer, featuring fast footwork in his attack, has changed his style in recent bouts. Formerly having been more of the slugging type, according to Eddie McCusker, of Johnstown, his manager. Mickey has been boxing only since November, 1928. In this time he has knocked out Joe Phillips, K. O. Curtis, J. Simmons, Jimmy Duffy, Dutch Lamont, Jackie Griffiths, Mike Hogan, Joe Renaldo, Steve Brady, [illegible], Tommy Heilman and Benny Toothman, and won decisions over Mike Hogan twice, Gene Reed and Johnny Smackey. He lost his first bout, a four-rounder, to Joe Phillips, whom he later stopped. The fans will watch his work with interest against U. S. Carpenter at the Coliseum tonight.

Long's Sport Comment

standing between him and the second-base job in St. Louis and then he suffered an injury to one of his knees that bothered him throughout last season. He batted only .253.

It is announced that the terms of the "deal" with Houston provide that Selph goes only "under option" and that he will be "subject to quick recall." Quite an unnecessary proceeding, it would seem, in view of the fact that the owners of the Cardinals happen to be also the owners of the Houston club.

Gordon Fraser

GORDON FRASER, the defense man obtained by the Pittsburgh hockey club recently from Les Canadiens in exchange for Bert McCaffrey, is one of the most-traveled players in the ice sport. He came East from Victoria, B. C., with the original Cougars, including Frankie Frederickson, now manager of the Pirates, played a season with the Chicago Black Hawks and then was transferred to the Detroit Cougars. He was relegated to the Detroit Olympics in the International League last season, but came back to the majors this season as a member of Les Canadiens. The latter loaned him to Providence in the Canadian American League, recalled him after a time and then traded him to the Bucs. So in four years Fraser has played in four leagues and on seven clubs—Victoria, Chicago, Detroit Cougars, Detroit Olympics, Les Canadiens, Providence and Pittsburgh.

GORMAN BEATS M'FOWLER IN SLOW BOUT

A pair of slow-moving heavyweights, Bud Gorman, of Newark, N. J., and Ike McFowler, Johnstown Negro, stumbled through 10 slow and uninteresting rounds last night in the main bout at the Palisades, McKeesport, and at the conclusion of the unsatisfactory go, Gorman received the decision of both judges and the referee.

One of the biggest crowds of the year was on hand and only the main event turned out to be a flivver, the three fast preliminaries saving the show from being a total "flop."

TAME FIGHT

Gorman and McFowler failed to get a rise out of the crowd at any time. The harder they tried, it seemed, the worse they looked and Referee Red Robinson was forced to warn both several times that their money would be held up unless they displayed a little more inclination to mix it.

McFowler's best round of the 10 was the fourth when he shook Gorman up with two pretty rights to the jaw. Gorman had complained of being struck low twice during the round and while he was attempting to call the referee's attention to the fact, McFowler let fly his powerful right, but the Newark veteran quickly recovered after taking both punches.

Throughout the remainder of the bout, neither did any particular damage, although Gorman's superiority at the conclusion of the tenth round was unquestioned. He weighed 201 pounds against 198½ for McFowler.

JOHNNY SMACKEY WINS

Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, received the referee's decision over Tommy Heilman, of Donora in the six-round semi-final. Heilman appeared to have a slight shade over his speedy opponent. The Donora fighter's sharp left jab found a ready target on Smackey's face. Heilman weighed 140¼, and Smackey scaled 138.

Louie Stosito, Red Mason's new welterweight, went down three times in the fifth round of his bout with Sammy Madison, of Wheeling, but refused to quit and managed to stay until the final bell. Stosito showed a hard left hook, but was unable to take Madison's right on the jaw. Young Judy, of Charleroi, defeated Paul Balint, of the North Side, in the opener.

LATZO STOPS CLARKE

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Pete Latzo, of Margate, former welterweight champion, marked his return to the ring wars after a lay-off of 15 months, by knocking out Eddie Clarke, New York Negro, in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-rounder here last night. Latzo weighed 177, and Clarke scaled 173.

Latzo, whose ring career was interrupted when he suffered a broken jaw in a bout with Jimmy Braddock, appeared to be quite his old self.

TRAFTON VICTOR

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—George Trafton, 219-pound center on the Chicago Bears professional team, who handed Charles Arthur Shires his only professional ring setback, scored a technical knockout over Rudy Hoffman, Chicago life saver, in the fourth round at the Jai Alai Fronton Arena last night.

The match was similar to the Shires-Trafton fight, the big football player wearing his man down with his great weight and powerful, swinging right hand smashes. He knocked Hoffman down for a count of nine in the third round and for a count of four in the fourth.

Bob Martin Disabled From Army Fights

CHARLESTON, W.Va., Jan. 17—(AP.)—Fighting Bob Martin, of Nitro, W. Va., heavyweight champion of the American expeditionary forces in which Gene Tunney fought in France during the World War, has been judged permanently disabled by punishment absorbed in 60 fights in the service. As a result, the United States Veterans' Bureau has awarded compensation of $100 a month for the remainder of his life.

Martin, who was considered a better fistic prospect than Tunney at the close of the war, contended that a traumatic brain tumor, from which he has suffered in recent years, was caused by blows received while winning 54 service bouts by knockouts, four by decision, drawing once and losing only one match—to Tunney. He was granted a pension of $20 a month two years ago by Congress. This he has waived in view of the larger grant.

Fight Results

At McKeesport—Bud Gorman defeated Ike McFowler, 10 rounds; Johnny Smackey defeated Tommy Heilman, 6 rounds; Sammy Madison defeated Louie Stosito, 6 rounds; Young Judy defeated Paul Balint, 4 rounds.

At Atlantic City—Pete Latzo knocked out Eddie Clarke, 6 rounds.

REGATTA SET FOR JUNE 26

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie has been fixed for Thursday, June 26, by the stewards of the Rowing Association. At the same time the Naval Academy was admitted to membership, and stringent new rules adopted to prevent delays or false starts.

The admission of the Navy marks the first addition to the association's membership in many years, although it has been the practice to invite outside crews to compete annually in the championship regatta.

The Navy first competed in 1907. Since the war, with the exception of 1924, the Midshipmen have been regular competitors, winning the varsity championship three times. The other members of the association, voting unanimously to accept the application presented by Commander Jonas Ingram, are Columbia, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

Under the new rules passed by the stewards, as the result of the prolonged delays marking last year's races, crews will be disqualified for failure to be at the stake boats on scheduled time. The stewards also decided to abolish recalls of any start except for actual breaking of equipment, henceforth, a jump, slide or "a crab" will not be considered cause for a new start.

Navy, Bobcat Battle Moved To Nov. 1

ANNAPOLIS, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Moving of the date for the Navy-West Virginia Wesleyan football game this year from November 22 up to November 1 was announced yesterday by athletic officials at the Naval Academy, clarifying a situation which threatened the meeting between the Navy and the University of Maryland.

Navy, in announcing its schedule, had Maryland down for the November 1 date, and officials at the College Park institution immediately said their date for the Navy was November 22, a Southern Conference battle with the University of Virginia being booked.

Ability of the West Virginia school to change the annual meeting date cleared the situation, and all three schedules now are set.

PITT, SCHENLEY HONORED AT BANQUET

The Chamber of Commerce and the City of Pittsburgh honored its two championship football teams at the annual gridiron dinner of the chamber in the organization's dining room last night, the gridders of Pitt and Schenley High School were presented with the trophies emblematic of their pigskin titles.

Pitt was presented the city title trophy, awarded each year to the college team winning the city title, and was also the recipient of the Chamber of Commerce award, a sterling silver football. Schenley was given a like award by the C. of C. as a reward for winning the City League crown.

BURKE PRAISES SCHOOLS

The Honorable James Francis Burke made the speeches of presentation. He threw bouquets both at Pitt and Schenley, touching not only on their ability to turn out winning football teams, but praised the schools for their qualities as institutions of learning.

Chancellor John G. Bowman, of Pitt, accepted the two Pitt awards on behalf of the university, while Principal Edward Sauvian, of Schenley, received the award for the Bellefield school.

Mayor Charles Kline delivered the principal address. Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, also gave a short talk. E. T. Whiter presided.

SCOTS REMAIN CARD FARM

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 17.—The Scottdale Middle Atlantic League baseball club will continue to be a farm for the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, it was made known here today following a meeting of the local club directors last night. The Scottdale moguls voted to conduct the farm for the Cards for $3,000, a sum offered, and will wire their acceptance today.

Although the team officials were informed by letter from St. Louis that Rochester, of the International League, made the best record as far as financial returns were concerned, the Scottdale club led in the development of players.

Rosenblums to Play Kittanning Tuesday

The Rosenblums, of Cleveland, professional basketball champions, and first half winners in the American League race, will appear in Kittanning next Tuesday, meeting the Sterling Oils, a team composed of the outstanding players of the territory. Most of the players who will comprise the Sterling five are former college stars and in their first appearance against the professionals hope to give a good account of themselves. Eddie McGivern, a former Duquesne University player, is at the head of the association in charge of the Rosenblum game.

FORD CITY WINS

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

DUQUESNE MAY BE ADMITTED TO LEAGUE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

A special mid-winter conclave is on the card for Pittsburgh Tennis Association officers, committeemen, and team captains at the P. A. A., at 8:15 o'clock this evening. Return of frosty weather has turned the minds of local net followers back from unseasonable contemplation of playing the game to the more immediate business of planning for the summer months of 1930 and quite a flock of interesting items can be found upon the program for tonight's gathering.

CONSIDER APPLICATIONS

Foremost among these will be consideration of an application for an Inter-Club League franchise for a squad to represent Duquesne (Pa.) Library in Section Two of the racquet loop. Sam Keller, 1929 Duke varsity court captain and later a luminary of Howard Moore's College Avenue crew, will attend the association meeting in behalf of the Library host and hopes to have matters in such shape that he will be able to present his petition for admission without reservation of any sort.

Keller has been pulling virorously for a Monongahela Valley outfit on the P. A. A. circuit for two or three years and appears at last to have swung things pretty well into line. In adition to himself, his aggregation aims to include the redoubtable Bill Servick, Alabama ace, Bill Snee, of Cornell, Ed Baker, Wash-Jeff crack, and several other prominent tennis devotees of the Mon-Yough district.

FORMIDABLE OUTFIT

A contingent of the caliber outlined would cause plenty of trouble for Second Division rivals and would very likely prove rather more of a title contender than a weak sister. It is to be hoped that nothing will occur to prevent the prompt induction of the up-river applicant into the Steel City group.

Committees to be heard from in the course of the session at the Winged Head include the League Cup Committee, the Inter-City Match Committee, the District Tournament Committee, and the League Schedule Committee. Numerous veterans of the sport have promised to be on hand after lengthy lapses from activity and all in all a most successful scene looms ahead.

The Marshall-West Virginia Wesleyan game in Buckhannon completes tonight's college card. Wesleyan will seek to take its shite out on Marshall for the defeat served by West Virginia's Mountaineers in Morgantown Tuesday.

The Tipoff

Among those scattered along the dining room of the C. of C. at the annual football banquet to Pitt [illegible] last night were Al Becker and [illegible], of the Penney, [illegible] and Al Irwin, of Carnegie Tech and Chappell Coach.

Among those not present were Martin, Dan Very, Russ [illegible], Eddie Martin, Pat Daugherty, [illegible], Art James, Lee Frank, Bill [illegible], [illegible] Martin (Yes, he slipped a free one) and Luke Barrett.

You will gather from the list of absent notables that the affair was conducted with the utmost decorum.

End—Carlmark, Army, against Notre Dame.

Guard—Cannon, Notre Dame, against Carnegie Tech.

The best meal of the season was breakfast in the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles Friday morning before the Pitt-U. S. C. game. Ma 'n Dex 'n Dutch 'n Mary.

The [illegible] that set [illegible] was the Corn King, crack [illegible] of the Chicago & Northwestern, from Chicago to Omaha. What a steak—and what a [illegible].

READING, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Frank Troeh, of Portland, Ore., the International flyer champion and National target champion, won the opening event of a three day white flyer shoot here yesterday. Troeh scored 25 straight kills to win the Hercules introductory. He defeated a field of 54 gunners. Today Daniel Kessler, of Mt. Carmel, will defend his eastern title, won at Reading last year.

IRISH DEFENSE STAR

ED SMITH

Notre Dame boasts one of the best college basketball guards in Ed Smith, rangy defense star, who will battle against the undefeated Pitt quintet here tomorrow night. The Allentown Club will stage one of its best attractions of the season at Allentown Turner Hall tonight when it meets the crack Homestead Ackermans in the only game scheduled in the Allegheny County League.

The Homestead Ackermans, including such well-known stars as Moon and Boots Klinzing, Scotty McGill, Vic Dober and Art McGuirk, boast victories over the strongest teams in the County League this season, numbering among their victims the Duquesne Lafayettes, Fintex, Goldensons and Charleroi.

The Allentown passers virtually eliminated the Fintex team from the first-half race, two weeks ago, when they defeated the downtown quintet at Duquesne University. They hope to add the Homestead entry to their list of victims tonight.

In the West Penn League tonight the Kingsley House passers meet Penn Five at Sharpsburg.

Elizabeth took another set-back in the County-League last night, when the Goldensons came through with a 23-14 victory. In the Central League, I. K. S. Varsity nosed out the Forresters, 24 to 23, and the Manchester Community five tripped Kingsley House, 32 to 25.

The I. K. S. Reserves played a three extra-period game before they set down the Mt. Washington Triangles, 34-32, in the Metropolitan loop. Y. M. H. A., defeated Kingsley House, 30 to 20, in the Institutional League. Sales and Service bested the Pittsburgh Railways, 36 to 28, in the Philadelphia Company circuit. The lineup:

Long Shots Sweep Fair Grounds Race Card

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The track was good at the Fair Grounds yesterday, but it was no day for the form players. Scoring a win in every race except the sixth, the long shots made a clean sweep of the New Orleans track.

Hilary started off with a victory in the opener, paying $17.20 for a $2 win investment. Then followed the longest shot of the program, Clemence scoring in a six-furlong claiming event for 3-year-olds and paying $109.70 for a 2 win ticket.

Princess Isabel was more highly considered in the third and paid only $9.00 to win, but Star O'Morn went across in the feature, known as the Bienville, and paid $49.20 to win. The victory of Broadaxe in the fifth was worth $18.20 for $2, but Dear Inez broke the outsiders' string in the sixth. She paid $5.50. Sun Roman closed the card with a $12.20 triumph.

Shires Is Rated Failure as Cage Star

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Arthur (The Great) Shires may be a great baseball player and an interesting performer in the prize ring, but as a basketball player, in the opinion of Philadelphia fans, he is a rank failure.

Shires was in the lineup of the South Philadelphia Hebrew Association basketball team last night against Wilmington. S. P. H. A. won the contest, 39 to 29, but it was not through any ability of Art, who did everything but play basketball to the satisfaction of the spectators. He got such a razzing from the fans that Manager Gottlieb took him out after 11 minutes of play in the first period.

SKI TOURNEY SUNDAY

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The world's professional ski championship will be determined for the first time in competition to be held on the Rochester slide, near here, Sunday afternoon.

DUAL SWIM TOMORROW

An exceedingly tough aquatic outfit is the crack Baltimore Central Y. M. C. A. aggregation, which tomorrow evening will swim Gordon Mullen's P. A. A. array in the Winged Head pool in the second local inter-city match of the winter. The Marylanders include among their number no less than four performers of major titular caliber, three of the visiting aces being present holders of South Atlantic A. A. U. championships and a fourth being a former state scholastic premier.

George Dreyer, breast-stroke satellite, is the district boss of the 100-yard indoor and outdoor field in his specialty; Cyril Caulk boasts like distinction at the back-stroke; Franklin Layne is the indoor and outdoor fancy-diving champ of the South Atlantic group; and Fred Nordenholz, a member of the flashy Y. relay quartet, once ranked at the top of the Maryland scholastic water list.

In addition to these individual distinctions, the visitors cling collectively to the indoor and outdoor team championships of Baltimore, of the State of Maryland, and of the South Atlantic Association and are also long distance champions of the South Atlantic sector.

JOHNNY ROBERTS WINS

CHESTER, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Johnny Roberts, Wheeling, W. Va., easily won the decision over Alf Roe, Algeria, in an eight-round bout here last night.

LONG LOST SHIP MAKES PORT

SAINT JOHNS, N. F., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The three-masted schooner Neptune, missing since she sailed from St. Johns for Bonavista, on November 29, is safe at Tobermory, Scotland, a report received here said. Nineteen persons were aboard.

The schooner had been battered and storm-tossed on the North Atlantic for a month. She was one of a fleet of fishing vessels swept far out to sea in the November gales.

One by one the damaged craft made their way to port or were picked up by rescue ships. The Neptune was the last to be heard from. She was reported recently battling mountainous seas on her way to shore.

The Newfoundland government had offered a $1,000 reward by radio to the officer of any ship that would bring the stricken craft to land.

CHINESE SCORE RED CROSS

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—A memorandum prepared by the Famine Relief Commission, appointed by the Chinese National Government, made public by the Kuo Min News Agency, expresses criticism of the American Red Cross Society for its recent report on the Chinese famine situation and for its decision not to extend aid to the famine sufferers.

The memorandum, which the news agency says was authorized for publication by the Chinese legation in Washington, asserts the Red Cross attitude that the famine was partly "man-made" was due to "unfamiliarity with China's recent history as well as modern political current."

The statement says the nationalist government issued a $10,000,000 famine relief bond and took other measures to do what it could to alleviate the situation.

"To accuse the national government of not actively participating in the relief work," says the memorandum, "is therefore extremely unfair to a group of men who are laboring under extreme difficulties and conscientiously giving all they can of their time and money to afford assistance to the famine sufferers."

'Bootleg' Miner Loses Life in Cave-in

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 17.—(AP.)—When a ledge under which he was mining "bootleg" coal at Shantytown, near Laflin, collapsed, Benjamin Kukunskie, 46, a miner, of Plains, was killed. The man was buried under about five tons of rock and earth.

Kukunskie, who had resorted to mining coal at the outcropping for his use at his home, is survived by his wife and eight children. A neighbor discovered the tragedy and a volunteer corps extricated the body.

CITY APPROVES RESURFACING

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 17.—After a conference between City Council and a representative of the State Highway Department an agreement for the improvement of three streets which are included in the highway system was reached. They are Crawford and Morrell avenues and Snyder street.

A concrete surface will be laid in a section of Crawford avenue and the others will be resurfaced. The city will expend $14,000 and the state about $23,000.

Contracts will be awarded in time to permit construction work to begin before summer.

Woman Has Fight, Kills Big Snake

FORD CITY, Pa., Jan. 17.—Snakes are lively in this section, according to Mrs. William Dietz, who resides on the Gebhardt farm. Mrs. Dietz reports having a battle with a 30-inch snake.

LINK DOPE DEN IN MURDER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Federal officials have linked an opium den raided on Pennsylvania avenue, not far from the Capitol, with the murder of Lee King, Chinese narcotic informer, who was shot down on a busy Washington thoroughfare last June by Chinese gunmen.

The smoke-filled, double-barricaded den, into which police chopped and battered their way, was located on the third floor of a Pennsylvania avenue building, and contained more than $5,000 worth of opium and extensive smoking paraphanalia.

Col. L. G. Nutt, federal narcotic chief, did not disclose until yesterday, however, that the murdered Lee King had been investigating the place and had already made several purchases of opium there before further evidence from him was stopped by his death.

98 out of 100 Women Report Benefit.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the written endorsement of half a million women.

By accurate record, 98 out of every 100 women who report after taking it say, "It helped me."

What other medicine has such a record of success?

ETHEL FLEETWOOD
3023 Bandin St., New Orleans, Louisiana

"I am a saleslady in a store. My nerves got the best of me and I never had good finger nails because I couldn't stop biting them off. My appetite was poor and I was always tired. One of my friends told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would help me. I know that it controls the nerves because I have no desire to bite my nails now and they are long and well kept. My appetite is enormous and I feel like a new person. I have recommended your good medicine to many girls and I assure you that they have found the same good results. I will gladly answer letters from women or girls."—Miss Ethel Fleetwood.

MRS. ANGELINE MAJKOWSKI
517-153rd Place, Harvey, Illinois

"This is to thank you for helping me get my health. After I was married I had to be operated on and it didn't do me any good. I was so worried and cried all the time for I had spent over $800 for sickness and yet I didn't get better. I saw a sign about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in a drug store and I took four bottles. Now there is happiness in our home, for we have two little boys with nice red cheeks. I am healthy myself and the more Vegetable Compound I take the better I feel. I have told my friends about it for I believe it will help anybody if they take it regularly."—Mrs. Angeline Majkowski.

MRS. W. OVERMANN
918 Regina Ave., St. Louis, Missouri

"Nine years ago when my little girl was born dead, I seemed to lose every bit of strength and vitality. I had an awful pulling down feeling in my back and my legs were so stiff I could hardly walk. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for about four months. The next year I became the mother of a fine 11-pound baby boy. After he was born, I kept on with the medicine to build me up. About four months ago I became very nervous and rundown and suffered from other troubles which I knew Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable would relieve so I started taking it and now I feel fine again. Many of my friends could write a book on the good the Vegetable Compound has done them."—Mrs. W. Overmann.

DOLORES WINTERS
842 N. Lawndale Ave., Chicago, Illinois

"I got so nervous I could not sleep at night. I felt weak and had no appetite. My mother recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took two bottles. It helped me very much and I recommend it highly. I feel so much stronger, have a better appetite and work in the factory every day."—Dolores Winters.

VATICAN MOSAIC FOR U. S. READY

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—The Vatican mosaic works, one of the most unusual manufacturing plants in the world, is ready to consign to the Catholic University at Washington, D. C., the latest production, a copy of Murillo's "Immaculate Conception," valued at $25,000.

Very few American tourists making the rounds of the Vatican galleries and St. Peter's know of the existence of the mosaic works almost beneath their noses. Yet the shop is one of the oldest in Rome and one of the best known in the art groups of Europe.

Established by Pope Sixtus V, 300 years ago, the mosaic works has done much to beautify Rome. There are many mosaics in St. Peter's, 356 portraits of the popes in the Church of St. Paul-Outside-the-Walls, scenes wrought in mosaic in the Pope's private studio, and in scores of churches, all from this one plant. Few large cities in Europe are without one or two Vatican mosaics.

A visit to the plant is an education. Here one sees master craftsmen whose skill has been passed on to them through generations of fathers and grandfathers who were artists in mosaic before them. They are men of infinite patience in addition to skill, for a mosaic may take from two to 10 years to complete.

The mosaic for Washington required two years, although it is only eight and a half by six feet. It was done by three men, Prof. Ludovico Lucietto, dean of the Vatican mosaicists, and his assistants, Luigi Chiaserotti and Romolo Sellini.

When the visitor is told that there are actually 27,000 different colors or shades of color from which the mosaicists must choose, and also when he is told that thousands of small pieces of material, first heated to an intense degree, are later inserted, one by one, into a special form, each one being chosen meticulously for its shade of color, he will begin to understand why. One mosaic has been known to require 20 years for completion.

HOST OFFER AID IN TAYLOR QUIZ

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—No free rides to California await the hundreds of persons who have written to Los Angeles authorities professing to have information that would aid in solving the mysterious slaying of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director in 1922.

In making this announcement, Eddie King, investigator in the district attorney's office said:

"It's a remarkable thing how many persons in the United States have vital information concerning that murder. I don't understand how they've kept their secrets locked up in their breasts for the past eight years.

"All they need is an opportunity to come to Los Angeles, and according to their letters, the mystery would be solved. I might add we're expected to pay the freight here and home again."

King said that when the case recently was opened his office was receiving more than 100 letters a day, all the way from Bath, Maine, to Miami, Fla.

"And there wasn't a one," he said, "that didn't ask the district attorney's office to send them a ticket to Los Angeles."

In cases where the writer appeared to know something really vital, he concluded, the district attorney would ask the police in the city where the letter was mailed to investigate.

"And always we discovered just what we expected to—nothing," he said.

"Don't be absurd, Tom!—

STOCK PRICES DROP UNDER PRESSURE

Reactionary Tendencies Pronounced, but Losses Keep in Narrow Limit

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Reactionary tendencies were quite pronounced in today's stock market, although prices did not break out of the narrow trading area within which they have been floundering since the turn of the year. Renewal of selling pressure against many of the leading industrial and public utility issues carried several of them down 1 to 6 points, but the rails showed little change. Tobacco issues gave the only demonstration of group strength.

The market was confronted with another large quota of rather unfavorable business and financial news. The Anaconda Copper Company announced the closing of two additional mines, making three this week, presumably to curtail production and maintain the current 18 cents a pound price level for copper. The Department of Justice declined to modify the so-called "packer's consent decree," making it necessary for the packers to seek relief in the courts. The wholesale price index is reported to have declined in the week ended January 14 to the lowest level in five years.

MONEY RATE DROPS

Call money renewed at 4½ per cent but again dropped to 4. More activity was reported in the time money and bankers acceptance markets but rates were unchanged, although the longer maturities in the time market were reported to be a little firmer. The increase of $13,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans was somewhat smaller than expected.

Sale of more than $300,000,000 in new bond issues this week, believed to be the largest peacetime offerings on record, was accepted as evidence of a strong underlying investment demand, although considerable disappointment was manifest that it was not more pronounced in the stock market. Brokers have been reporting quiet accumulation of stocks since the first of the year, but "bear" traders nevertheless have found it rather easy to depress leading issues by throwing large blocks into the market.

Communications shares were among the leading selling targets in today's market. Western Union dropped 5 points and American Telephone, International Telephone and Radio Corporation 2 to 3⅝ points, and then made irregular recovery. Chemical and allied shares also were conspicuously heavy. Allied Chemical breaking 6 points, Columbian Carbon 4 and Union Carbide and Air Reduction 2 each.

MANY SOFT SPOTS

Other outstanding soft spots included Michigan Steel, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, J. I. Case, North American Company, Otis Elevator, Snider Packing preferred, Standard Gas and Electric and General Electric, all off 2½ to 4½ points. Crosley Radio broke 4 points to a new low at 10¼, which contrasts with a high of 125 last year, and then rallied above 12. Grigsby Grunow lost 2 points in sympathy.

The demand for tobaccos was stimulated by reports of an impending settlement of the cigaret price-cutting war. American Tobacco rallied 4½ points, and Congress Cigar, Lorillard and Reynolds Tobacco B sold 1 to 2 points higher.

P. & W. VA. DROPS MERGER FIGHT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(INS.)—The Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad has withdrawn its opposition to the plan of the Baltimore and Ohio to acquire stock control of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh.

This announcement was made today by W. S. Bronson on behalf of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia and the opening of arguments of the application of the Baltimore and Ohio to acquire the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh.

Bronson said that inasmuch as the commission, in its recent consolidation plan, had allocated the road to the Baltimore and Ohio, no useful purpose would be served by further opposition.

He declared the Pittsburgh and West Virginia intended to press vigorously its application to acquire control of the Western Maryland and Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroads.

Counsel for the Delaware and Hudson Company and Pennsylvania Railroad Company told the Interstate Commerce Commission that acquisition of the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh by the Baltimore and Ohio could not be considered as hinging on the commission's consolidation plan and declared that they would therefore continue their opposition.

Producers Oppose Mid-Continent Crude Cut

TULSA, Jan. 17.—At a meeting attended by approximately 400 oil producers of the mid-continent area, a resolution was adopted protesting against the recent cut in crude oil prices made by the Carter Oil Company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. One resolution proposed that producers refuse to sell their oil at the new prices. Another resolution was framed and forwarded to American Petroleum Institute and members of Congress representing Oklahoma, stating that cut in prices was unjustified in view of co-operative efforts of operators to prorate production of flush fields. Resolutions were framed under direction of E. B. Reeser, president of American Petroleum Institute and W. Franklin, prominent independent Oklahoma producer.

So far no other purchasers of mid-continent crude have met the cut in price initiated by Carter Oil.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—Under presure of general selling, wheat dropped today to the lowest price level reached since Nov. 12, and the rye market broke 5c a bushel. Reports of stagnation of European demand for breadstuffs were current, and denials that Canadian banks were getting tired of carrying wheat failed to act as a counter-balance. Opening ⅝c to ¼c off, Chicago wheat afterward receded further, but then rallied somewhat.

Corn, oats and provisions were also easy, with corn starting ¼ to ⅝c down, and subsequently recovering.

Acute weakness of the rye market here today had much to do with selling rushes that took place at times in all the grain pits, wheat in particular. Throwing overboard of speculative holdings of rye was an outstanding feature, and at one stage the May delivery of rye showed an overnight upset of 5c a bushel, the price tumbling to 90c with a subsequent quick upturn of 3c. Meanwhile, export demand early for North American wheat was apparently restricted to low-grade wheat from Canada.

Rallies in wheat values at Winnipeg accompanied by suggestions that there was nothing to reports that Canadian banks were forcing customers to let go of wheat met with only a hesitant response today in the Chicago market. More attention was given to the fact that future deliveries of wheat at Liverpool closed at 2¾ to 3 pence setback today, with larger and cheaper offerings reported from Argentina, and the visible supply of wheat in Australia announced as 51,000,000 bushels compared to 44,000,000 bushels a week ago.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today at an advance of 1 to 6 points on trade buying and covering, which was probably influenced by the fairly steady showing of the earlier Liverpool cables. Liverpool later eased off, however, and after selling at 17.32c for March and 17.67 for July at the opening, or about 4 to 5 points net higher, prices have slipped back to about yesterday's quotations.

Trading was quiet, with the market steady at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool cables reported trade calling and an active spot demand with continental buying, also a fair cloth inquiry from India, although many offers were unworkable.

Liverpool spot sales were reported at 10,000 bales, but they included only 2,000 bales of American cotton.

The market sagged off to 17.27c for March and 17.62c for July during the middle of the morning, but the comparatively small offerings were well enough taken by covering or trade buying to cause rallies and at one time the active months showed net advances of about 2 to 5 points, with March selling at 17.33c. This bulge was not fully maintained, with the market quiet and steady at midday, when prices were net unchanged to 2 points higher.

Packers' Decree Modification Opposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—The Department of Justice today filed its answer to the petition for modification of the packers' consent decree of 1920 in the District of Columbia Supreme Court and asked that the petition for modification be dismissed.

The petition was filed by Armour & Co., Swift & Co. and others, asking that the consent decree by which the packers in 1920 agreed not to engage in retail business be modified. Growth of chain stores and other developments in retailing since the decree was drawn up altered conditions and placed packers at a disadvantage, they contended.

The effect of the department's answer is to require the petitioners to settle their case in court.

The Attorney General was called upon for information as to what extent Armour and Swift have obeyed the packers' consent decree, in a resolution introduced in the Senate today, by Senator Nye, North Dakota.

Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP.)—Raw sugar was quiet early today, but the undertone was easier with offerings more liberal and at fractionally lower prices. Store sugars were available at 3.71c, while duty frees for January and February shipment were offered at 3.74c, with buyers showing no interest.

Raw futures opened easy at declines of 2 to 5 points and continued to sag throughout the remainder of the forenoon with active positions at one time 3 to 10 points below the previous close. The selling seemed to be centered chiefly in the nearer positions, which showed the maximum declines.

The action of the Senate yesterday in maintaining present rates on sugar was evidently a disappointment to holders and led to rather heavy general liquidation, which uncovered numerous stop-loss orders. After these were executed, the market rallied a trifle on covering, although the undertone was still unsettled with prices at midday 4 to 10 points net lower.

The volume of business was of larger proportions, with considerable exchanging from the near to the more distant deliveries.

Refined was unchanged with a fair withdrawal demand, but no new business. Prices were listed at 5.90c by all refiners, but second hands were available at 5.87½c.

Reserve Statement Shows Banks Strengthening Their Positions

FURTHER marked strengthening of the banking position was revealed in the weekly reserve statements. Among other things, it was shown that member banks in New York City are practically out of debt to the reserve, borrowings for their account standing at $15,000,000, a cut of $61,000,000 in the week and $126,000,000 under the total of borrowings this time a year ago. Rediscounts for the system were cut by $125,000,000 during the week and stand $332,000,000 under a year ago, totaling $442,000,000, as against the 1929 peak of $1,153,000,000 and the low for last year of $632,000,000 reached in the final week of December. Little change was shown in the system's open market bill holdings or government security holdings, the change in the total of reserve credit outstanding being accounted for by the cut in rediscounts.

Beyond emphasizing the sluggish nature of dealings in the speculative markets during the interval, the weekly report on brokers' loans showing an increase of $13,000,000 was without much interest. The detailed report was interesting in that it showed interior banks now finding funds disbursed over the year-end coming back are seeking employment for such surplus amounts in the local market, evidently finding little demand developing at the moment from business. While local banks cut loans for their own account by $33,000,000 during the week, and non-bank lenders reduced their commitments by $6,000,000, loans for out-of-town institutions rose $53,000,000. Slack demand for time money is likewise reflected in the further contraction in the amount of such loans outstanding.

YESTERDAY saw the first 3,000,000-share day since the new year began, but whether this pickup in activity was to be accepted as evidence of a broadening of public interest in the proceedings was a matter which developed a good deal of conjecture during the day. Among those who are closest to the situation, the heavier turnover did not tend to convey this impression. On the contrary it was declared that commission house business is still at a minimum. The expansion in dealings yesterday was ascribed in such quarters to greater activity on the part of floor professionals in seeking to scalp a profit here and there to offset the slack in commissions. The contention is that this element is not concerned over what side of the market its profits come from, but rather are disposed to follow the line of least resistance wherever it develops.

Wall Street expects the Nash Motor report for the fiscal year ended November 30 will be available in the next few days. It is understood that the statement will show the company in remarkably strong position, with property values written down substantially, and with cash position as good if not better than shown at the end of 1928. Moreover, and quite important under prevailing circumstances, it is learned that inventories will be shown to have been kept down to approximately the same level as shown at the close of the previous fiscal year.

NEWS of the closing down of two additional mines by the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, bringing the total of plants shut down to three since the beginning of the week, provided the basis for a renewal of heavy selling in that group. The red metal shares were pounded relentlessly from the opening, with the main force of selling converging on Anaconda. That stock yielded for a time, but developed powerful resistance at levels about a point or so under previous closing prices. Kennecott and American Smelting, the latter selling ex-dividend, also held against effort to depress them after yielding about the same distance. So far as the actual metal situation is concerned there is a deadlock, producers hoping apparently that low stocks will drive consumers into the market, while the latter are confident increasing stocks at refineries will bring a cut in the price.

Interests who have been prominent in Loew's, Inc., continue to take the stock on all minor recessions. These buyers point out that earnings in the first quarter of the company's fiscal year were at an unusually high rate and promise to continue with only the usual minor interruption during the summer season. Some interests have been held out of the stock by the Fox situation.

FIREPROOFINGS IN DEMAND HERE

Securities Rise Sharply In Response to Sudden Spurt in Buying Orders

The National Fireproofing issues shot ahead on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange late this afternoon in response to a surprise buying movement which lifted the quotations on the various classes 3 points.

There was no explanation of the movement and floor brokers said the demand came from various sources. The buying started in the certificates of deposit for the common stock, later switched to the preferred and subsequently to the common stocks. All sold at new highs for the 1930 market.

Fractional recessions were noted in a few issues in the early dealings today, but the trading was quiet and there was no noticeable pressure on any individual stocks.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass was offered down moderately, reaching 57 at the start, a decline of 2⅞ points from the week's high of 59⅞, established on Wednesday.

Carnegie Metals sagged off to $5 a share, a new low for the year, reflecting the unsettled conditions in the copper mining industry. Carnegie backed down easily under the weight of a few hundred shares offered shortly after the opening.

In other quarters the market showed no conspicuous changes. Armstrong Cork held close to yesterday's final figure and Blaw Knox ranged around 32½. Liberty Dairy retained the three-point gain made yesterday.

Second Suit Filed Against Kolster

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 17.—A second receivership action against the Kolster Radio Corporation was filed by Jacob Meyer, a stockholder. Meyer's petition asserted the company had assets of $2,000,000 against which there were liabilities of $18,000,000, inclusive of capital stock issued.

The first receivership action, filed with Vice Chancellor Lewis, in Paterson, has been referred by him to Vice Chancellor Church, who will consider the two together. It was filed by David Schiffman, Passaic.

ANALYIST SEES EARLY TRADE PICKUP

Adverse Factors to Be Discounted Probably by Spring, Brinkerd Says

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Perhaps the greatest cause of public loss in the speculative security markets is the disposition to assume that present tendencies will continue indefinitely.

As a matter of fact, all human experience belies this assumption. In human affairs all is flux, and the only certainty regarding the future is that there will be a change.

The inexperienced however believe that the present state of affairs will be frozen into a permanent set of conditions. Accordingly, they are prone to be unwarrantly optimistic toward the culmination of the bull market and unnecessarily cautious after deflation of prices has taken place.

Robert S. Binkerd, investment trust executive and investment analyist, sets a good example in avoiding this static attitude. Though he has been pessimistic concerning the outlook for security prices for months, he has notified his stockholders of a belief that "sometime this year, and probably by spring, every adverse factor will have been discounted."

EARLY RECOVERY SEEN

"We are now in a period of business and security recession. How severe it will be, and how long it will last, it is too early to judge. Heretofore a major depression in business has been preceded by excessive inventories, by inflation of commodity prices, and by exhaustion of credit. In this present case, however, these factors did not exist to any large extent. We may, therefore, feel considerable confidence that the present business recession will not be long and will be followed by a good recovery.

"Some time this year, and probably by spring, every adverse factor will have been discounted. There should then be presented the greatest investment opportunity which this country has had since 1921. Commitments made at that time should involve a minimum of risk and a maximum of opportunity for legitimate appreciation and there should be a sound basis for rising security prices by Fall."

One bank in New York at least is not concerned with making its capital stock a vehicle for get-rich-quick speculators. Instead of seeking to pile up inordinate profits this bank—owned by the Clothing Trades Union—has sought to share its prosperity with depositors, raising the rate on special interest deposits to 4¾ per cent. Whether it is sound business to set a new high record in payments on thrift accounts at a time when long term and short term interest rates are declining remains to be seen, but the spirit behind the move is noteworthy. The Amalgamated Bank does not wish to be classed with profiteers or gougers. Of course, the Mutual Savings Banks, which pay 4½ per cent, are subject to stricter regulations than the ordinary commercial banks, which pay from 3 to 4¾ per cent on thrift accounts. The saver should of course seek safety first.

"SWAPPING" EXTENSIVE

Nowadays Wall street brokers are seeking to make a living by doing one another's washing. Much of the condensed activity represents little more than the swapping of shares among professional traders. With commission business greatly reduced, brokers are seeking to derive income from trading profits. Accordingly, each rally is confronted with hurried offerings of shares. When speculators can resell to investors at substantially higher prices, the market will be in a new phase, but little progress can be made by swapping back and forth among others who are out to accomplish the same objectives.

Addressing himself to the question as to whether the economic council, which was set up last month at President Hoover's suggestion, has been helpful in mitigating the trade recession, Malcolm C. Rorty, economist and vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, said:

"The prospects are that the prompt action taken has largely eliminated the danger of a panic depression, and that the worst that is to be feared is a substantial, but on the whole, rather salutary recession in business activity, with prospects that a new approach to normal full activity will be well under way in the latter part of 1930.

"There are, however, certain necessary readjustments that apparently must meanwhile take place. The post war building shortage has been made up and it seems probable that there is some excess of business and residential building space. The trend of commodity price levels appears to be definitely downward, and at a slow rate for an indefinite period. Building costs have, however, resisted this declining tendency, and liquidation is in order.

"Then, the security markets of 1930 will, in all probability, be determined from an investment rather than a purely speculative point of view."

What Is Thrift? Making Most of Your Life

By B. C. FORBES

NATIONAL thrift weeks open today. What is thrift?

WHEN I was a cub reporter receiving as pay exactly the amount my room and board cost, thus leaving nothing for shoes or clothing—entertainment did not enter my head as even a possibility—I used to run anywhere from one mile to three miles to an assignment in order to save the 2 cents to 5 cents carfare. Having won some local fame as a sprinter, the exertion was no hardship and I could easily beat the street car. Also, when sent out of town and handed 50 cents for lunch—we called it, and it was really dinner—I would spend 6 or 8 or 10 cents, never more. Later on, when I located at a branch office where a lot of news had to be covered by hiring a horse and buggy, I scraped together enough to buy a bicycle and used it.

These were some of my conceptions of personal thrift in those days.

AS A YOUTH and young man my ideas of thrift were the Scottishist of the Scottish. No physical or mental effort was considered too great to earn or save a penny or even a halfpenny. Time was plentiful, scarce. Therefore there never was any hesitation in exchanging one for the other.

Life, I was taught from the time I could toddle, was a hard, unrelaxing, perpetual struggle. "By the sweat of your brow thou shalt labor and bring forth" was constantly impressed upon us. Also, "if a man will not work, neither shall he eat."

Sweat or starve. That was the accepted philosophy, the accepted decree of Providence.

A FEW weeks ago, at new year's, I had a heart-to-heart talk with my schoolboy sons. I told them that one of my resolutions was that I was going to take more afternoons off from business, especially during the summer, when we could go hiking or picnicking. That naturally, brought a joyful response.

But I went on to explain to them that, when they started work it would be all wrong for them to do any such thing, that it was the duty of every young man to stick very closely to his work, to keep his nose to the grindstone all through the first half of his life and until he had made such progress financially that his wife and children would not starve were he to die.

Almost, to my surprise, they expressed thorough understanding and acceptance of this line of reasoning. I had half-expected them to feel that if it was all right for me to take time for recreation, it should be all right for them to do the same thing, on the theory that "what's sauce for the goose, is sauce for the gander."

THIS leads up to the conception I now have of thrift. I no longer run miles to save carfare, or eat 10-cent lunches or pedal a bicycle to save taxi fares or auto hire.

My analysis is:

Thrift is using wisely what you have. Your time, your vitality, your money.

THRIFT does not call for niggardless. Thrift does not call for all-work-and-no-play. Thrift does not call for needless self-denial.

John D. Rockefeller is not thriftless when he gives away half-a-billion dollars. Another man might be legitimately open to the charge of thriftlessness were he to spend one dollar for an evening's amusement. Thrift might demand that one person invest every procurable dollar in the most gilt-edged bonds, whereas the risking of money on a long-shot project might be perfectly in order for another person in entirely different circumstances.

THRIFT means making the most of life.

WHEN Russell Sage and Hetty Green, the two most famous tightwads financial New York ever knew, squeezed nickels and drove Shylock bargains after they had amassed scores of millions of dollars, they were not genuinely thrifty. They were not making the most of their lives. They were not using their time, their vitality, their money to the best advantage.

Bond Financing Is Ahead of Year Ago

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Securities placed in the new finance market during week ended today aggregated $307,058,000, of which $305,058,000 was in bonds and one stock issue of $2,000,000. In the preceding period, new financing totaled $109,157,000 and consisted of bonds only. During the week ended January 18, 1929, total new stock and bond financing, in the amount of $103,637,750 was represented by $72,523,750 in stocks and $31,114,000 in bonds.

Bond financing from the beginning of the year to date has reached a total of $418,115,000 and compares with $84,234,500 in the same period last year and $289,523,000 in the corresponding term two years ago. Total stock financing for the year to date amounts to only $2,000,000 and compares with $130,032,500 in a similar term last year.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Bonds made unimpressive changes in the early trading today. Turnovers in the domestic list diminished, but a fair degree of activity was maintained in the foreign group where most of Thursday's features developed. Many of these issues offering liberal yields are selling above their last year's highs.

G. M. CAR SALES INCREASE

During December, General Motors dealers delivered to consumers 48,253 cars. This compares with 33,442 for the corresponding month a year ago. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers amounted to 40,222 cars, as compared with 35,441 for the corresponding month last year.

The important increase in consumers sales for December, 1929, as compared with December, 1928, amounting to 14,811 units or 44.3 per cent, is not indicative of any change in the trend of retail buying, at least in proportion to what the figures indicate. The facts are, that in December, 1928, dealers' stocks of certain of the corporation's divisions were depleted to the point where the retail sales did not reflect the potential of the market. In the month just closing cars were available to a greater degree; therefore, the retail sales reflect more accurately current demand.

For 1929 General Motors dealers delivered to consumers 1,860,403 cars, as compared with 1,842,443 for the year 1928. Sales by General Motors manufacturing divisions to dealers amounted to 1,899,267 cars during 1929, as compared with 1,810,806 during the year 1928.

Erie Segregates Coal Properties

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Erie Railroad Company has segregated its coal properties and is offering stockholders rights to share in the Pittston Company, newly formed anthracite company, in the ratio of one Pittston share at $20 to every two Erie common or preferred shares held on January 28.

It is understood that United States Distributing Corporation will be one of the independent companies to become affiliated with the new Pittston Company.

Efforts Made to Start Rail Mergers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE first efforts to put the Interstate Commerce Commission railroad consolidation plan into effect became apparent yesterday when the Baltimore and Ohio was ordered to dispose of its interest in the Western Maryland. This was accompanied by reports that the Pennsylvania Railroad may dispose of its Wabash stock.

In both of these cases roads have bought stock in competing lines which may be a violation of the Clayton Act.

The commission's attempt to separate the Baltimore and Ohio from the Western Maryland in order to remove one of the blocks to the completion of its consolidation plan may be delayed by litigation. It is certain that the Baltimore and Ohio will not let the disputed line become a part of a new competing trunk line without resorting to every possible expedient.

Likely Purchasers

IF the commission is successful in forcing the sale of the Western Maryland stock the way will be open for its purchase by one of the systems scheduled to form part of the fifth trunk line to be built around the Wabash. The commission will be powerless, however, to say just who may buy the stock.

It could forbid the purchase by a road which is not to be linked with the Western Maryland under the consolidation plan but it could not forbid the sale of the stock to outside interests not connected with one of the railroad systems. The commission has ordered that the stock must not be sold to an officer, director or stockholder of the Baltimore and Ohio but there is much doubt as to its ability to rule against the purchase of the stock by a holding company dominated by the same interests.

Wabash System

WHILE the fifth trunk line, into which the Western Maryland is scheduled to pass, is referred to as the Wabash system, it was recently made plain that this road would not necessarily be the purchaser of the other units. In each consolidation case the strongest line financially will make the purchases or else the mergers would be accomplished by an exchange of securities.

Thus the $18,673,049 investment of the Baltimore and Ohio in Western Maryland stock might be bought by the Wabash, the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, the Norfolk and Western or one of the other lines to go into the proposed system.

Juggling Railroads

VARIOUS means of keeping within the law are likely to be used by the railroad systems to keep control of strategic lines. The Norfolk and Western has been mentioned as a possible purchaser of the Pennsylvania holdings in Wabash and Lehigh Valley.

On the surface of things such a sale would meet the provisions of the Clayton Act by giving the Wabash to a non-competitive road which is intended to be in the same system. But a different light may be thrown on the question by the fact that the Pennsylvania holds about 43.3 per cent of the Norfolk and Western stock. If this sale takes place the Pennsylvania will still have control of another of the five Eastern trunk lines in addition to it's own system.

Just what the legal outcome of this situation may be is hard to forecast. The Pennsylvania's stock interest in the Norfolk and Western dates back to 1901. The two lines are not competitors so that the relationship, in itself, does not appear to be in violation of the Clayton Act. But whether the control of the Wabash by the Norfolk aad Western would change the legal standing is a question which only the courts can decide after a long period.

On Broadway

Things I Never Knew Till Now

THAT Florida is a great and easy place to get a divorce.

That those chains that trail down to the ground from the bottoms of gasoline trucks are to carry off the static electricity so that it won't ignite the gas and blow the truck to helangone.

That 100 movies this year will contain all or part technicolor and that Jesse Lasky believes that in two years the black and white film will be as rare as the silent flicker is today.

That the University of Virginia has never conferred an honorary degree upon anyone.

BUT LOOK AT HONOR

THAT New York City Supreme Court judges get more than Chief Justice Taft, who can give orders to the President.

That this year the shortest day will be December 22 and not December 21.

That every four years we have no President in office for 12 hours or more.

That 14 years ago Jack Squires was in the chorus of "Sari," which starred Mitzi. Until he was replaced the other day in the revival of the same show with the same star, Squires was her leading man.

That there is a picture house called The Intimate at 2133 Boston Road, the Bronx, which seats 2,840 people.

THERE IS A LAW

THAT the character of God appears throughout "Green Pastures," the play which Marc Connolly has based upon the Roark Bradford book "Old Man Adam and His Children," and that Section 2074 of the New York Penal Laws prohibiting performances "in which there shall be a living character representing the deity;" but the New York laws also prohibit dancing, the use of make-up, the raising and lowering curtains and the shifting of scenery on Sunday.

That no good use has been found for your appendix.

That sickening feeling in a fast elevator can be avoided by rising on your toes when it is about to come to a stop.

FOR A CHEAP SNOOZE

THAT you can sleep in the Pennsylvania Station in New York all night by purchasing a 15-cent ticket to Newark, and turning it in, after your nap, you can get back your money. (The Pennsy people will love that.)

That doctors and undertakers may not form partnerships together.

That Andrew Mellon's yacht, the Alden, is so big it had to come in with the tide at Miami, the same as any ocean liner.

That a very eminent jurist flunked his bar examination more than ten times, many years ago.

That the soldiers at Governor's Island are put there to guard the sub-treasury building.

That it is legal to have a title, and still be an American citizen, the amendment to the Constitution prohibiting same having flopped.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

We have felt we ought to do something big—something that would educate, and at the same time inspire all mankind. We wanted to shake the very foundations of civilization.

It will be exhaustive, in every sense of the word.

We are fully aware that this is no small task. In fact, it means twenty-seven years, or more, of item writing.

Our plan is to print part of the Encyclopedia each day and then let our readers clip the items and paste them in scrapbooks.

Some of the biggest men we know of will co-operate in this work—men like—

Bonaparte (Napoleon),
Boone (Daniel),
Booth (T. W.),
Borgia (Lucrezia),
Borneo (Archipelago),
And others.

The difficulties are staggering, when you consider that this great big Encyclopedia will be written on a typewriter that is getting worse all the time, and has an attachment which permits the user to write for hours and then suddenly discover that the ribbon is stuck, and no impression has been made on the paper.

All we ask you to do is fill out the following coupon—

Sir or Madame,
Dept. 56—X:

You are certainly to be congratulated upon your broad vision and unselfish efforts. I am sending along this little unsolicited note of encouragement. Write the Encyclopedia or not, just as you please.
Sincerely,

U. S. Railroads Must Be Linked With U. S. Ship Lines

In instructing the Interstate Commerce Commission to recommend a system of railroad consolidations, Congress was thinking of an American transportation system.

But that system cannot end with the railroads, at the water's edge. It must be extended by an American merchant marine to the ends of the earth.

That's what the British transportation system is, and that is why for centuries British trade has dominated the world.

Fortunately, American railroads can be tied up with American steamship lines to the advantage of both. In fact, this is very possibly THE solution of the American merchant marine problem.

That problem is a simple one to understand. Because American wages are higher, it costs more to build a ship in American yards and it costs more to man and operate her.

So if our ships are to compete in the international carrying trade they must have a subsidy to offset their higher operation cost. Congress hates to grant ship subsidies.

There is only one alternative. If some way can be found to give American ships MORE TRAFFIC to carry than their foreign rivals, the American ships can stand higher operating costs and still make money.

American railroads have the power to direct the routing of a huge volume of export traffic and, if it were to their interest, could throw this business preferably to American ships.

One way to get the railroads to do this would be to encourage them to take a financial interest in American steamship concerns, which would be considered as oversea extension of our rail lines.

The hocus-pocus of foreign trade and travel could be done away with. The citizen of the humblest hamlet could go to his railroad office and get a passenger ticket or a bill of lading over an all-American route to any destination in the world.

We should have an era of ship-building unequalled in our history if it were known that the traffic power and the financial strength of the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, the Union Pacific, the Illinois Central and other great American railroad corporations were behind American steamship operators like Dollar, Munson and Chapman.

Can't the Interstate Commerce Commission or the President himself think in terms of an American transportation system as extensive as American trade, girdling the earth?

This is the fifth of a series of editorials on the proposed merger of American railroads. The last one of the series will appear tomorrow

Juvenile Home Needs Attention of County

Recently we have been reading tales about the Juvenile Court Detention Home, where youngsters are sent, not to serve terms for misdemeanors, but to be kept until disposition is made of their cases. The fact that some of them are kept but a short time has caused the public to wonder what is the matter. A few days ago some lads who escaped from the home were captured after participating in a robbery. Not long previously a little girl escaped time and again. For these reasons the public has come to believe the institution must have porous walls.

And that, in fact, is the truth, and its lack of tightness is not the fault of the management, nor of the board, which is composed of estimable persons who really deserve credit for giving much time to looking after the welfare of the wards of the Juvenile Court. The fault is said to lie in the fact that the home is composed of a group of buildings not designed for the purposes to which they are put. The windows are not barred. Fire regulations will not permit them to be. An attendant cannot be assigned to hold each child, so any that wishes to leave has only to await favorable opportunity.

Yet 93 per cent of those sent to the home never attempt to leave. This is attributed to the activities of the home in the line of education and recreation. The seven per cent of escapes is said to include some who repeat the process, like the little girl whose case is cited above. Even this is an improvement, since escapes at one time were 10 per cent, showing that the regimen there is not altogether distasteful to the juvenile mind.

Nevertheless, something ought to be done about the home. Those placed in it include children who are sent there because there is no other place to send them, some not even bad kiddies. Status of others range from incorrigibility to that of embryo thugs who give the police much trouble when they are at liberty. These have to be sent there until the law disposes of their cases. When they escape it is a matter of concern to the officers of the law, who naturally are chagrined. It is not always easy to catch an eely young ruffian, nor a cause of satisfaction to have to do it an hour or two after having done it once.

Instead of squabbling so much, the County Commissioners might give this matter a little attention.

Both Sides Win

Losers Get Wine and Winners Get Rich.

While seated at a banquet last August, President Portes Gil and Gen. Almanda, chief of military operations in Puebla, made a wager. They were to scorn wine and the first one to drink agreed to pay the other 200 silver pesos.

A few days ago the citizens of Puebla tendered Gen. Almanda a dinner. He was presented with a purse to cover his prohibition forfeit and urged to enjoy the wine list.

"I thank you," replied Gen. Almanda, "but I cannot accept. Behold in me a convert to prohibition."

Thus prohibition advances on a sporting basis—which is, after all, a very good basis for any reform. Instead of every man trying to reform the other fellow, we might pair off the citizens of the United States and let them bet it out. Both sides win. The losers get wine. The winners get rich.

Prodding Pedagogues

Two Things to Be Improved.

President Spencer, of the University of Washington, has distributed 30,000 questionnaires to undergraduates in an effort to find out what they think of teaching methods and individual pedogagues. Results have not yet been tabulated, but it is safe to assume that the answers will be a rather scorching indictment. This prediction is easy to make in light of the symposium from 22 colleges, now published in book form by The New Republic. The volume is called "The Students Speak Out."

There seems to be a very general agreement that the college teacher is falling far short of the ideal proposed by thoughtful students. However, it is safe to say that a symposium of faculty opinion in regard to students generally would even the score—which would leave the issue fairly well settled. In other words, there are two things to be improved in higher education—(1) students, (2) faculty.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HAVE you come to the conclusion that you are slipping in your line of work.

When you compare your present production with that of former years you become alarmed.

Has it occurred to you that perhaps you are not giving as much thought and energy to accomplish as you used in former years? Or are you confident that you try as hard as ever, but for some reason you don't reach the degree of proficiency you once had?

If you know you still possess the ability to do as much and as well as ever, but you are not doing, you had better get a firm hold on yourself and shake out of it.

If you are actually slipping because you can't help it there is cause for alarm. Perhaps you are mentally as alert as ever, but you are not as strong in a physical way.

Your only hope then is to make up in greater mental accomplishment for the lack in physical endurance.

Titanics of Swat

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

THE question of professional athletics continues to agitate the reformers. It will end as usual with a huge fleet of rocking chairs sailing forth to battle the problem.

"Bugs" Baer

Babe Ruth is holding out for more salary than is grabbed by President Hoover. But then, Babe is in a bigger league.

The prize of the winter meeting has been clutched by Phil Scott who is canvas inspector to the king by royal warrant.

Phil will fight Jack Sharkey for a million-dollar gate with diamond hinges. This has caused much jealousy among our native fighters who claim that Phil ain't any channel swimmer in a tide of knuckles.

The last Florida fight between Sharkey and Stribling resulted in a brutal exhibition of spectators jammed in the exits. And the last time we saw Scott in the ring he must have thought he was paid for baiting a mouse trap.

There hasn't been an English heavyweight who looked good since Bombardier Wells. The Bombardier had mastered the art of riding with the punch. He rode right out of the ring.

Scott is a better fighter than his opponents think. If the fight starts on the mezzanine Phil will bob up in the lobby with another challenge.

Heavyweights have a fascination for the public who crowded a gymnasium to see Primo Carnera defeat a sand-bag thereby demonstrating man's superiority over the lower animals.

Primo weighs 300, wears size 18 shoes and is almost seven feet tall. He has been challenged by Art Shires who plays baseball in the summertime for the Chicago Americans, but is more democratic in the winter.

Shires has been challenged in turn by Mickey Cochrane of the Athletics and Hack Wilson, another Chicagoan. These contests have been vetoed by Judge Landis for some obscure reason.

The big purses dished up in fighting has made us a belligerent crew. So many people are willing to fight at the drop of the hat that we do not blame collegians for going bareheaded.

The only mistake we made in our claim for the heavyweight crown was last New Year eve. We challenged a raccoon coat. The next time we challenge a raccoon coat we will first check up its inhabitants. There were three students in this one.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

ONE time the pastor come around to the office of John Jaxe. John thought he was going to have to come across with some dough to build a mission in Nevada, but the parson said he just come to offer him a little advice for his health.

"You ain't so young as you used to be, Mr. Jaxe, and you ought to be careful not to overdo."

"No, but this exercising. You have to look sharp at your age about going in for these exercising fads, like running long distances."

"Running? I ain't run ten feet in ten years, Parson."

"Ah, come on now, Jaxe. I don't want to be reading no burial service over you right now. And your wife looked mighty worried herself when she told me you'd been out eight nights running."

Isn't It So?

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Maria is a waitress in the restaurant where I've been eating. She's 23, a thin, pale girl with hopeless eyes. Last year she married a young sailor. He left her seven months ago, when he found she was going to have a baby. Said he wasn't "going to be bothered with no kid." She has never heard from him since. She got a job in this restaurant, but she can't hold it much longer. She's breaking under the work. She's terribly worried. She doesn't know how she's going to manage. If she didn't want the baby it might not be so hard.......she could leave it for adoption and go her way. But she's crazy for it ......and, it's just about impossible for a girl to work and still keep her baby.

It's a common enough story. I meet scores of cases like that, as I go around. We've no civic, state or federal provision for expectant mothers in this country. Kind hearts by the thousands and charity, if you know how to go about getting it......which most girls don't. But no organized, available relief, either before or after child-birth.

They do such things better in Russia, under the Soviet government. There they don't just TALK about "honoring mother" . . . they put it in practice.

Andree Viollis tells about it in her book—"A GIRL IN RUSSIA"—recently issued by Thomas Y. Crowell Co. It's a fine book . . . the most comprehensive, sane and entertaining book on Russia I've seen, particularly for the average woman reader. If you have the usual distorted idea of Russian conditions, you'll be surprised and perhaps a little humbled by its revelations. Maria wouldn't be working, in her condition, in Russia . . . nor be desperate at the thought of how she was to manage afterwards. Here's what they do for mother's there, under government control of industry.

"Two months' leave before the mother bears her child, two months' leave afterward, WITH FULL SALARY; that is for manual laborers. Six weeks before, six weeks after, for employes in offices and for the intellectuals. These leaves of absence they may spend either at home, where local organizations provide them with medical attention and with nurses, or in the numerous maternity homes, if they are alone or delicate.

"For confinements every large town is provided with model maternity-hospitals which foreign specialists declare to be superb organizations. Well ordered nurseries are joined to the factories and bureaus, in order that the mother may feed her child and continue her work at the same time. These nurseries are schools where the mothers are interested and instructed in all their proper duties.

"Nurses or 'visiting sisters' make the rounds of the families, giving advice to the parents, caring for sick children, locating consumptives and sending them to sanatoriums. In all the important towns has been established a large 'MUSEUM FOR THE PROTECTION OF MOTHERS AND BABIES,' a center of instruction where courses are given in the raising of children...schoolgirls visit the museum in groups, working in the 'laboratory,' UNDERGOING THEIR APPRENTICESHIP AS FUTURE MOTHERS.

"The government is now endeavoring to install one of these 'museums' in every village.... over all the country, serious and co-ordinate efforts, a policy of maternity. In 1924-1925 the state expended upon this work the sum of ten million roubles (one hundred and fifty million francs....or $28,950,000) and the budget has increased since."

"Does any other nation display such interest?" concludes Miss Viollis. CERTAINLY NOT AMERICA....WHICH HAS THE GREATEST DEATH RATE AMONG MOTHERS AND BABIES OF ANY CIVILIZED NATION....DUE TO POVERTY, DISEASE AND NEGLECT.

THE animals consume earth in great quantities and digest nutritious matter out of it as it passes down their intestines; they defecate it on the surface of the ground as "worm-castings." In rich garden soil, where worms are especially numerous, there may be over 50,000 individuals to an acre; in these circumstances more than 10 tons of earth will pass through their bodies and be brought to the surface in one year, and in 10 years this will form a continuous layer of finely divided surface soil at least two inches deep.

H. G. Wells

Snails are both male and female, but in this case the two faculties are not exercised simultaneously; the creature takes turns being now one sex and now the other.

The edible oyster alternates slowly but regularly between male and female, and there are many cases in the invertebrates of animals which normally start their lives as males, become mature, and then at a certain age turn over and become female for the rest of their lives.

The second group of annelids is of less economic importance, but it includes a greater variety of forms, all of which are marine.

It includes among its hundreds of species the graceful, sinuous paddle-worms of our shores, the iridescent sea-mouse, the lobworm, which is often used as bait, and a number of animals which live in tubes attached to rocks, sea-weeds and the like, and feed on suspended matter, much as bivalves or sea-squirts do, by means of filtering crowns of delicate tentacles.

The third group comprises the leeches, terrestrial, fresh water, and marine. They have suckers fore and aft, and the majority live by attaching themselves to other creatures and sucking blood. A few, however, are active beasts of prey.

The leeches differ from the other two groups in a number of important respects, so that it is customary to divide the annelids into two classes, one comprising the earthworms and the more varied marine group and the other leeches.

Sec. 5. ROUNDWORMS.

The phylum Nemathelminthes or roundworms includes a number of worms of plain, unassuming appearances but nevertheless of great importance to ourselves because a number of them are parasitic.

The roundworms often found in the intestines of pigs, horses, and men are typical of the group. They have thin cylindrical bodies, several inches long, pale buff in color, and tapering away at both ends.

Their anatomy shows well the simplicity of structure that is often found in parasitic organisms. Living surrounded by digested food, all they have to do is to gulp it in to their own bowels and absorb it; they have no need of glands to manufacture digestive juices, and their alimentary apparatus consists of two parts only—a muscular pump, the pharynx, which sucks the juices in, and a simple intestine where they are absorbed. They can perform simple writhing movements, but it may be presumed that they do not do so very often; beyond reproducing themselves and occasionally dodging an exceptionally violent peristaltic wave it is hard to see what movement they require. They possess no special circulatory or respiratory organs, their muscles do so little work that all the oxygen they need can diffuse in from outside.

It is at first sight difficult to explain how an animal which spends its life in an intestine can get any oxygen at all, and indeed it used to be thought that the parasite roundworms depended upon a different kind of chemical mechanism for their vital energy. But the story has now been made clear.

When the host-animal is not digesting a meal there is very little oxygen, if any, in his bowels; under these conditions the roundworms become anaesthetized by the chemical products of their own activity and sink into a drugged immobility.

But when the host consumes a meal the blood-supply to his gut is increased enormously and oxygen diffuses—accidentally so far as he is concerned—into the intestinal canal.

When this happens the roundworms revive and begin to gulp; when his digestion is over they sink again into their torpid sleep.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Thoughts while strolling: Two more new corset shops on Madison avenue. The Parisian perfume millionaire who wears black silk gloves and a red lapel rose. Claudette Colbert's trim ankles. The famous warrior—Col. Hiram Iddings Bearse. And he looks the part.

Dentist sign: "Latest and most popular magazines in our waiting rooms." Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., chatting with a corner cop. Who remembers when Lobster Newburg was Lobster Wenburg? Ellison Hoover, the artist. And the masterly word juggler William Bolitho.

Harry Rosenthal whom everybody thought just another piano player. And who suddenly became a foremost Broadway actor. Something new to attach to a lead pencil—a dingus that adds. The winter peaches—80 cents each. And an old fashioned fruit cake for $16.

A street corner accident brings a flock of photographers as quick as that. They seem to pop out of the sewers. Lots of men look like John Barrymore when they wear white mufflers. Queensware store heralds: "There is no cut glass. It is pressed." Window shop and learn things.

Frank Case's high forehead. Whatever became of Thornton Wilder, who wrote The Bridge of San Luis Rey? Women in ankle length skirts who appear a trifle self conscious. What-you-call-'ems who carry mustache combs. The aeroplane store on West 57th street.

What does a tennis teacher do in the winter time? Every week somebody brings out a new patented match lighter. And the thumbs are holding up bravely. A beauty salon "that blends powder to individual requirements." The steaming horses flashing around the bridal path in the park.

Nothing makes you feel so much the sucker as looking at the check for a dinner in one of those cafes tagged "ne plus ultra." The quiet dignity of a piano store. John Drew's double who manages a flower shop. H. L. Mencken standing in front of a church. And it doesn't fall down.

The prize name for the current season to this observer is Bedook Bedikes. Mr. Bedikes is in the wallpaper business and came to New York from Canada.

I enjoy the flowery what-nots in the advertising of modern apartment houses. This one caught my eye today: "Duplex maisonette—with open fire place and glass enclosed loggia. Ground floor service quarters and revolving wall library bar. Roof top terrace with electric fountain." Sounds almost like something by Michael Arlen. You know, like his: "I am young and I love women."

A cop at Broadway and Forty-second street is known as "the hack driver's poison." It is his job nightly to chase cruising and empty taxicabs out of the theatrical zone and he does it with a jerk of his thumb without saying a word. None is able to crash through.

I am indebted to a telegraph office girl for thwarting an attempt at humor this morning. Handing her what I believed to be an amusing message to an actor in Hollywood, she read it gravely and inquired: "Do you think that would interest him?" So I tore it up and I think I'll send her a complete set of my newspaper clippings for the week in appreciation.
